REDS TO BLAME IN MINNEAPOLIS, EMPLOYERS SAY

Business Is Hurt by Parking Ban.

Press Unafraid

Publishers and editors of Minneapolis newspapers affirm their determination to print the news despite the military dictatorship established over the press by Gov. Floyd B. Olson. Story on page 4.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—[Special.]—At the end of a day which saw business decline through a new "parking order" issued by Gov. Floyd B. Olson's state troops, employers of rioting truck drivers stuck to their guns tonight and refused to recede from their position.

The militia—military and naval—patroled the streets in the big business district all day and motorists were told to move on if they tried to leave their cars to make purchases.

In a letter tonight to Father Francis J. Haas, federal mediator, the employers reiterated that they believed communists were inspiring the strike, and refused to accept in toto the peace proposal Father Haas and E. H. Dunnigan presented.

Make Election Concession.

They did agree, however, that they would hold elections in any of the 166 firms concerned to see if the union should represent their employes, providing there is a dispute between employers and employes. The peace pact carried a clause making elections mandatory in all firms. The employers feel that if their employes are satisfied there is no need of an election.

In a taunting note to Gov. Olson the employers also asked his "official military permission" to answer "in kind" a statement Olson made yesterday which, in intemperate language, accused them of using the financial interests of the city to gain their own ends. The governor was reported to be wrathfully drawing a reply late tonight.

Truck shipments of new foodstuffs were limited to bread and milk. These were classed as "necessities." Apparently the rulers of martial law do not feel that meats, fruits, fancy pastries, and canned goods are in that classification. Permits for ice and fuel trucks were also issued and tow cars were allowed upon the streets to care for crippled automobiles.

Business Streets Bare.

Aside from these, the business thoroughfares were empty of motor driven vehicles. The parking lots did a land office business.

Gov. Olson declared martial law yesterday after employers had refused to abide by all of the provisions of a peace pact drawn by federal mediators, Father Haas and Dunnigan.

The business men declared that the leaders of the union are inspired by communists and they would not enter into "across the table" conferences with them. The union rioters, on the other hand, were quick to accept the proposal. Then the governor declared that the city was in a state of "insurrection" and the troops moved in.

Business Falls Off.

Before martial law, city police had been convoying occasional truck shipments. These were stopped. Citizens had been allowed to drive downtown to make their purchases. Now they cannot. Business is dwindling hourly.

Just who, save the governor, wanted martial law could not be determined. The business men certainly didn't desire it, as they so notified the governor in a communication which charged him with threatening them with military control in order to force a settlement of the strike.

The truck drivers do not want troops in the city. Their daily bulletin demanded today that the governor send the militia away.

The taxpayers, generally the last persons to be consulted, have every reason to want soldiers withdrawn from the streets. Their free movements are being interfered with and in addition the bill is $11,000 per day for upkeep.

Question Is Unanswered.

Thus, who but the governor desired the Guardsmen? This was the question the citizens were asking. And it remained unanswered.

Meanwhile the mediators asked the employers to reconsider their stand. "We consider it not too late," they wrote Joseph R. Cochran, chairman of the employers' advisory committee, "for your committee, in the interest of all parties concerned and the pub-

1,500 IN NIGHT RUSH ON HUGE BESIEGED PLANT

Women and Children in Battle.

BULLETIN.

Madison, Wis., July 28 (Saturday). — (Special.) — Gov. A. G. Schmedeman early this morning announced he had received a call from Sherif Ernst Zehms of Sheboygan county asking that troops be sent to the strike zone because local authorities could not control the situation. He said he had advised Adjt. Gen. Ralph M. Immell, reached at Camp Williams, to proceed to Kohler and determine whether the National Guard should take over the village. At Camp Williams it was said that Adjt. Gen. Williams had left the camp.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kohler, Wis., July 27.—[Special.]—One man was killed and 37 were wounded tonight during a savage battle between 400 special village deputy marshals and a mob of some 1,500 rioters who stormed the Kohler Manufacturing company plant, hurling bricks, stones, and clubs.

Those injured were taken to hospitals in Sheboygan, a few miles distant. Lee Wakefield, 209 Swiss avenue, Sheboygan, died from gunshot wounds shortly after his arrival in St. Nicholas hospital. Thirteen other injured were known to have been taken to the same hospital for treatment, some suffering from gunshot wounds [illegible]

At the Sheboygan Memorial hospital ten others were treated for injuries received in the rioting.

Highways Cut Off.

In addition to the more seriously hurt fourteen persons with minor injuries were taken to the Sheboygan clinic. Every physician in Sheboygan was called into service to handle treatment of the injured, and the highways to Kohler were cut off by police, who turned back all vehicles except ambulances.

Also in Sheboygan 2,500 to 4,000 persons had massed in Fountain square, threatening a new march on Kohler. In the latter village special police were prepared for an attack and declared that machine guns would be used to clear the streets if necessary.

Women, Children in Ranks.

The battle, which climaxed several disturbances earlier in the day, saw the rioters hurling missils through windows and plate glass doors, in the pottery, the employment office, the administration building, and even the infirmary of the plant.

Women and children were in the ranks of the besiegers, and their presence kept the deputies, stationed inside the plant grounds, from using tear gas, stench bombs, and guns until it became apparent that this was the only recourse.

Warning of impending trouble came in the morning, when the deputies, then numbering only about a hundred, crashed through lines of picketers, convoying a car of coal which previously had been turned back. Following that clash some 300 additional deputies were recruited under the command of E. R. Scheulke, a captain of the Wisconsin National Guard, who lives in Kohler.

Surround Plant.

This small army was stationed in the American club and around other parts of the grounds of the plant, which has been in a state of literal siege since a strike was called there about two weeks ago.

The besiegers outside countered by calling for aid from Sheboygan and other surrounding towns. As a result a steady stream of men to augment the ranks of the pickets on duty around the plant had been coming into Kohler all day.

The first hint of trouble tonight came when the besiegers began assembling near the pottery building, on the south end of the big company grounds.

Kohler Inside Building.

Inside the administration building, on the opposite end of the grounds, were former Gov. Walter J. Kohler president of the company; Sherif Ernst Zehms, who had rushed to the scene from Sheboygan, some 4 miles away, and officials of the plant.

At first the mob contented themselves with booing the special police and shouting imprecations at plant officials. Then some one threw a brick, which crashed through a window.

That was the signal for the entire mob to seize stones and all other available missils, with which they bombarded the building. Then they moved north, toward the employment office

Kill Car Thief in Downtown Pistol Battle

An automobile thief was shot and killed and a policeman was seriously wounded last night during a chase and gun battle in the downtown district. A bystander was slightly wounded by the crossfire.

The dead man was identified as Charles Lewis, alias Miller, 19 years old, whose address was given as 2434 Moffett street when he was arrested and convicted last year on a charge of automobile larceny. The wounded policeman is Anton Zapolski of the Central station, who lives at 4421 South Marshfield avenue. The pedestrian shot is Lloyd Parr, 45 years old, inmate of a municipal shelter at 54 West Austin avenue. Zapolski and Parr were taken to Henrotin hospital.

Car Owner Gives Alarm.

The chase began when Policemen Martin Flynn and John Doody, who were driving west in Wacker drive near Clark street, were informed by a man whose name was not learned that Lewis had broken into his parked car. Lewis was running west in the drive. The policemen ordered him to halt and fired at him.

Hearing the shots Policemen Zapolski and Leonard McPhail ran up. Lewis opened fire on them, wounding Zapolski in the abdomen. Then he ran to La Salle street and to the lower level while McPhail and Zapolski emptied their revolvers at him, wounding him in the side. In the crossfire Parr, who was walking on the drive, was wounded in the leg.

In the meantime the chase was being broadcast by the police radio and was heard by Sergt. Joseph Fogarty and his squad, who were cruising at Oak and Sedgwick streets. They joined in the pursuit at Franklin and Randolph streets.

Fires from Behind Car.

Lewis was about to leap into a taxicab when he saw Sergt. Fogarty and his squad. He kept on running and in front of Sloppy Joe's restaurant at 206 West Randolph street he crouched behind a parked automobile and opened fire at the policemen. The policemen returned the fire, killing Lewis.

On May 19, 1933, Lewis was sentenced in Criminal court to serve a year in the county jail for the larceny of an automobile. A month later he escaped when playing ball in the jail yard. One of the players knocked the ball onto the roof of a building and scored a home run. Lewis offered to retrieve the ball and climbed to the roof. He returned the ball, but kept going over the building and wall to freedom. He was captured the next day at the home of a friend in Evanston.

SAILOR KILLED IN SUBMARINE ESCAPE DRILL

New London, Conn., July 27.—[Special.]—Propelled violently to the surface of a 100 foot submarine escape training tank when he lost control of an underwater "lung" he was wearing, James R. Griffin, a third class navy fireman, of Los Angeles, was fatally injured today.

The accident occurred in the course of training the submarine crews for underwater escapes. The tank, which towers high into the air at Base A, is filled with water under pressure to simulate the actual sea.

Griffin, with four other men, was instructed to start an ascent of the tank from a level 100 feet below the top, using the escape "lung" apparatus, which enables wearers to breathe under water.

Something went wrong and Griffin lost control of his "lung." Officials do not know how long he clung to a line extending down into the tank, but suddenly, choking, he shot upward—too fast. He was suffering from "bends" when assisted from the water at the top of the tank and died later.

NAZIS CRUSHED BUT BATTLE ON IN PROVINCES

Vienna Prepares to Bury Dollfuss.

Troubled Europe

Here are the outstanding developments in the Austrian situation:

VIENNA.—Nazi revolt is crushed; fighting dies down in all but a few scattered centers. Possibility of European war fades. Nazis taken prisoner after slaying of Chancellor Dollfuss confess plot.

ROME.—Italy announces it is ready to strike against Austrian Nazis "without warning." Denies Jugo-Slav rumors Italian troops already have crossed Austrian border. At Belgrade, the Jugo-Slavs announced their army would be mobilized if Italy invaded Austria.

BERLIN.—Germany lauds Chancellor Hitler as Europe's promoter of peace; says appointment of Franz von Papen as minister to Austria is proof of his desire for peace.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, July 27.—Restless ghosts of another world war, which have been stalking the battlements of central Europe for the last three days, tonight appeared to be definitly laid for the moment. Austria prepared to give an imposing funeral tomorrow for its murdered chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss.

Red Vienna was draped in black as thousands of people thronged to the rathaus [city hall]. They passed through lines of soldiers with fixed bayonets to the volkshalle, where the body of the little chancellor, who tried to hold back Chancellor Hitler's putsch and keep his country independent, lies in state.

Fighting Dies Down.

With scattered but severe fighting still going on in the provinces and the death list for the last three days between 200 and 300 [the Associated Press estimated the dead and wounded at 3,000], the Austrian question still remains the keystone of European politics. Informed observers in most of the diplomatic chancelleries, however, are now of the opinion that the shooting of Dollfuss will not be another Sarajevo and that the danger of an outbreak of war for the moment is excluded.

This is based on the following facts, which became clarified today:

First—The appointment by Hitler of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen as the new minister from Germany to Austria and the clearly conciliatory attitude which the German government took toward the Austrian situation.

Second—Evidence that the Austrian government is without doubt master of the situation, although still contending with desperate elements in Styria and Carinthia.

Weakness of Nazis Shown.

Third—The demonstration of the clumsiness and weakness of the Nazi plot, since its perpetrators were unable to seize power after they had killed Dollfuss and while there was practically no government and no order.

Fourth — The cautiousness with which the big powers, England, France and Italy, are moving in the question of direct diplomatic or military intervention.

There are observers here tonight who think that this cautious action by the powers means that the murder of Dollfuss by Nazi gangsters has struck another hard blow at dictatorships and national socialism and Fascism which will have repercussions in Italy and Germany.

Who Will Succeed Dollfuss?

On the other hand, the problem remains how the weak little state is going to survive as a football between the rival groups of states, and the immediate speculation of every one is: Who will be Dollfuss' successor, and will he not be less able to compose the bitter political rivalries than was Dollfuss?

For the moment Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, vice chancellor under Dollfuss, appears to be President Wilhelm Miklas' choice for the next chancellor. Von Starhemberg is filling the position temporarily. He is

SURPRISE ROBLES KIDNAP SOLUTION IS BELIEVED NEAR

Tucson, Ariz., July 27.—(AP)—It was reported unofficially today that federal and local investigators are hopeful of solving the kidnaping of 6 year old June Robles shortly, with possible arrests here and in Los Angeles.

Officials, who would not be quoted by name, said they believed the solution would be a "big surprise."

Federal agents are investigating clews in Los Angeles, it was said, where the arrest of one of three suspects was looked for. The man suspected of having engineered the kidnaping, it was reported, is in the coast city.

Other suspects, it was said, are still in Tucson, including a man suspected of having been the one who actually kidnaped June.

During the 19 days the little girl was imprisoned in an iron cage buried in the desert, he was said to have had access to information from the sheriff's office and other official sources.

The man was not at that time under suspicion and reports were that because of his information he was able to keep the kidnapers two or three jumps ahead of the investigators. His description was said to tally with that June gave of the man who lured her away from the front of Roskruge school last April 25.

Stratosphere Flyers Poise for Takeoff

Rapid City, S. D., July 27.—(AP)—Three balloonists awaiting dawn to start an unparalleled scientific expedition into the stratosphere were optimistic late tonight as inflation of their three million cubic foot gas bag proceeded ahead of schedule.

Favored by a dead calm in the rock-walled moonlit valley near here, the trained inflation crew had put more than 100,000 cubic feet of hydrogen in the bag by 12 o'clock midnight [Chicago daylight time]. Twice that amount will make the balloon ready for its ascent into the upper air, where lower pressure will permit expansion to full capacity.

"We are pleased with the way we have made up some of the time lost due to a late start and weather difficulties," said Maj. William E. Kepner, pilot.

Three to Make Flight.

Capt. Orvil A. Anderson, alternate pilot, named at the last minute to accompany Kepner and Capt. Albert W. Stevens, scientific observer, on the aerial adventure, directed the ground crew of 120 army men in handling the balloon.

Inflating the mammoth bag and getting it safely aloft is an unprecedented task, for the balloon is three and a half times larger than any previously built. Even a five mile wind would make the takeoff hazardous, but the men hope for perfect weather when the craft leaves the ground between 6 and 8 a. m. [Chicago daylight time] tomorrow.

Capt. Stevens, initiator of the flight, directed final inspection of the air tight metal gondola which will carry the men and a ton of precious instruments perhaps 15 miles upward.

Large Crowd on Hand.

A natural grandstand on the high cliffs above the flight camp rapidly filled with spectators who have waited weeks for today's announcement of the balloon ascent.

Vehicles of all sorts—automobiles, trucks, bicycles, motorcycles, and even milk wagons—crowded the eleven miles of road between here and the bowl.

One of the last steps to prepare the gondola as a home for the three men on their 12 hour flight was insertion of chemicals which will absorb harmful carbon dioxide gas exhaled. Liquid air and liquid oxygen from which the balloonists will make their own atmosphere were placed in flasks inside the metal ball.

W. W. ATTERBURY, RAILROAD CHIEF, UNDERGOES KNIFE

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—W. W. Atterbury, executive of the Pennsylvania railroad for 25 years, was in "very satisfactory" condition tonight after an operation for gallstones brought on by his first illness since he was transportation adviser to the government during the world war.

Bryn Mawr hospital, where Dr. Arthur E. Billings of Philadelphia performed the operation this morning, said he was sleeping comfortably. Mrs. Atterbury returned home.

The "General," as he is known in Pennsylvania political and railroad circles, was at the president's desk until yesterday morning to clear routine business before going to the hospital.

For the last nine years he has been president of the Pennsylvania lines, with which he began as an apprentice in 1886. He became a vice president in 1909. Atterbury went to France during the world war with a brigadier general rank to supervise movement of American troops, munitions, and supplies to the battle lines.

BISHOP CANNON CARRIES A FLASK; BRITISH CHUCKLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—Bishop James Cannon, American prohibition leader, had a bottle of whisky in his luggage on his arrival at Plymouth today aboard the Leviathan. And despite the bishop's explanation that the booze was not for consumption but merely for demonstration purposes there were many who were chuckling over the discovery.

Bishop Cannon explained that the whisky will be used to illustrate his arguments at the international anti-alcohol congress in London next week and at other temperance gatherings which he will attend.

Questioned regarding repeal of the Volstead act, the bishop strongly contested the suggestion that prohibition proved a failure in the United States. The law, he said, was never enforced as it should have been. Complete prohibition, he prophesied, would come to Great Britain in time, but it would be a slow process.

Leaps Into River from Bridge; Spurns Preserver

An unidentified man, apparently about 35 years of age, leaped into the Chicago river last night from the lower level of the Michigan avenue bridge. William Butler, bridgetender, threw a life preserver into the water, but the man pushed it away. Butler added, however, that the man appeared to be swimming and he did not see him sink. No trace of him was found.

for Austria's independence, but he is said to have definite Germany sympathies. Also, the fact that he was lolling on the sands at Venice when Wednesday's tragedy occurred has been the subject of puzzling comment.

There is also talk that Maj. Emil Fey, Dollfuss' minister without portfolio, with the special job of suppressing the Nazis, may be President Miklas' choice as the next chancellor. Fey is a close friend of Von Papen.

In any event, the chief task of those who are in power here now is to decide on a new ruler. This must be done within a few hours after Dollfuss' funeral tomorrow afternoon.

At the Dollfuss funeral President Miklas, Von Starhemberg, Rey, Richard Schmitz, former minister, and others who will make funeral orations are expected to pledge continuance of Dollfuss' policies.

All Austria in Mourning.

By an official order, the whole of Austria is to be in mourning tomorrow. Church bells will toll, flags draped in black will be placed in windows, and fires will be lighted on the mountain tops when the body of the little chancellor is carried down the Vienna Ringstrasse to Heipsing cemetery. He will be taken over the same route he walked only five months ago behind the 53 policemen and soldiers slain in February's civil war, of which his own slaying was the fatal and ineluctable consequence.

Vienna's streets reflect a mournful and subdued mood tonight. There are fewer people out than usual and there is a sinister uneasiness in the air.

Barbed wire entanglements are thrown around the radio station, near the war ministry, which the Nazis seized Wednesday, and the streets everywhere are policed by helmeted, bayoneted soldiers. The soldiers swarmed particularly around the rathaus where Dollfuss' body lies.

Martial Law in Effect.

Martial law is still on and the curfew rings at 8 p. m. There were rumors of another attempted Nazi putsch in Vienna today, but it failed to materialize. A group of Nazis was detected wearing uniforms of the heimwehr. They were promptly arrested.

According to credible advices today, the Nazi putsch was organized on a large scale. Part of the police and army are said to have had knowledge of it, and would have gone over to the new government if the revolt had been successful. The plot broke down because of leaks. It is said that the reason Cornelius Zimmer, well known Nazi agent, was killed by Nazi bandits last Saturday was because he revealed the plot.

Former Empress Zita today sent a wire to Frau Dollfuss expressing sorrow and praying for power and help for her as a reward for her husband's work that Austria may remain independent.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, who rushed back to Rome from his vacation at Riccione as soon as he heard of Dollfuss' assassination, sent a communication to the Austrian government tonight.

The Italian chargé d'affaires, Graffi, called on Von Starhemberg and had a long conversation with him, but there was no announcement of what Mussolini had said. The Italian minister, Gabriele Preziosi, is hurrying back to his post here.

NEW CHIEF DEFIES NAZIS

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

VIENNA, July 27.—(AP)—A no-compromise defi was hurled at revolting Nazis tonight by the new head of the government, Prince Ernst von Starhemberg. The youthful chancellor exhorted Austria over the radio:

"Do not depart one inch from the way prescribed by Dollfuss!

"I declare solemnly that we regard as the holy heritage of our dead chancellor that there can never be any compromise with national socialism.

"We shall never make any concession that in any way limits the freedom, honor, and dignity of the Austrian nation. We have a German mission to perform, but we will not let anybody dictate or even advise or influence us as to how we shall fulfill that mission.

"Believe in Austria's future, my hearers. Resist all attempts to mix into your affairs from outside."

Calls Nazis "Desperadoes."

Starhemberg decried the Nazis as "desperadoes and irresponsible elements."

"With the exception of a few insignificant places," he said, "order prevails throughout Austria and in a few more hours even these places will have unequivocal order and law."

Starhemberg declared Austria was absolutely opposed "to all forms of bolshevism, even that form which is camouflaged under nationalistic colorings. Austria is fighting against barbarism of the 20th century."

Touching upon the conflict with Germany he declared emphatically:

"We have never given occasion for conflict with the reich. We have done everything to fasten the bonds of blood and culture which tie us to the German nation. At the same time I must declare emphatically that we shall never yield Austria's honor and that we shall resist every attempt to limit the liberty and independence of our fatherland."

Obviously referring to Chancellor Hitler's offer of peace, he observed coolly:

"We have suffered too much in the past not to look skeptically at protestations of friendship. We shall wait reservedly to see whether peace will follow the word."

Socialists Raise New Menace.

Meanwhile the Socialists and communists entered into the situation today with a denunciation of "all Fascism," meaning both Von Starhemberg's party and the Nazis.

The central committee of the revolutionary Socialists proclaimed that the hour for the anti-Fascists to strike will come.

"What happened in Austria on July 25," said this proclamation, in the form of a handbill, "essentially resembled what happened in Germany on June 30.

"In both cases Fascists murdered Fascists. Here, as well as there, it means the beginning of the end of Fascist domination.

"Our hour approaches! Be ready for action!"

The Socialist headquarters secretly circulated a communique stating that every unbiased observer in Austria "must admit the death of Dollfuss was received by the masses with undisguised joy as the death of a pirate who scarcely a day before had caused a young workingman to be hanged."

Nazi Clergyman Slain.

Tragic incidents of the fighting in the south filtered through today. Leoben reported that a Nazi clergyman, occupying a rifle post in the steeple of his church, was killed by a bullet from the government attackers.

At Koellerschlag the leader of a group of Nazis who had slipped in from Germany ran up to an inspector of gendarmerie, threw his arms around him and cried, "Why, we are friends."

As the inspector tried to push him away the Nazi stabbed him in the abdomen.

Then the inspector fired six shots, but fell himself with a bullet in the heart.

In the fight that followed, the son of a Koellerschlag restaurant keeper, who recently joined the Austrian Legionnaires, was killed as he tried to throw a hand grenade into his father's house.

Legionnaires Flee to Germany.

The legionnaires retreated into Germany, but took eight prisoners with them. Four Nazis were killed in the fight and two were captured.

After a battle which started at 2 p. m. Wednesday government troops gained control of the Phyrn pass, near Liezen, today. Eighteen men were killed.

Salzburg reported Nazis and government troops locked in a battle for possession of the Lueg pass which controls trafic between Salzburg and upper Austria.

Nazis dynamited bridges and railways in several strategic places to hinder government movements.

The dynamiting of a railroad bridge at Judenburg detained a number of tourists in the province of Carinthia. They were being taken to Vienna by buses.

The fighting extended to the town of Villach, half an hour from the Italian border. There 48,000 Italian troops were marking time and waiting for orders, rea to cross the frontier if necessary to restore peaceful conditions.

Nazis Flee Across Border.

An eyewitness told of the capture of Radgersburg, Styiria, yesterday by heimwehrmen. They forced Nazis over the Jugo-Slavian border without firing a shot.

"As they ran over the broad stone bridge leading into Jugo-Slavia," he said, "many dropped rifles and machine guns into the river. Some of them tore off their Nazi Storm Troop uniforms.

"The father of one Nazi who escaped was a member of the heimwehr forces. That is the tragedy of the whole situation in Austria. Civil war means father against son, brother against brother.

"The Radgersburg affair is particularly tragic to any Austrian, as Jugo-Slavs across the river could watch us fighting among ourselves. After the war they captured Radgersburg, and civilians helps the Austrian army drive them out.

"Then yesterday Jugo-Slavian soldiers saw an Austrian army take the town from its inhabitants."

HOW AUSTRIAN CIVIL WAR STIRS ALL EUROPE

Spearheads on map show how civil war brings danger to Austria. Other developments were:

1. Vienna, with the civil warfare dying out, prepares to give an imposing funeral today for the murdered chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss. The new chancellor, Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, announced a war to the finish against the Nazis.

2. Liezen, where government forces crushed Nazi rebellion after a two day battle. Eighteen persons were killed.

3. Leoben, where at least eighteen persons were killed in bitter battle. The Nazis finally were defeated.

4. Salzburg, near where Nazis and government troops were locked in a battle for possession of the Lueg pass, which controls trafic between Salzburg and upper Austria.

5. Passau, near where Austrian exiles crossed the border from Germany, precipitated a battle at Koellerschlag in which several were killed and then fled back across the border with eight prisoners.

6. Radkersburg, which was captured by government forces and where the Nazis fled across the border into Jugo-Slavia, dropping their guns as they ran.

OTTO, CLAIMANT TO THRONE IN AUSTRIA, SILENT ON REVOLT

BRUSSELS, July 27.—(AP)—Archduke Otto, claimant to the Austrian and Hungarian throne, and other Hapsburgs living in Belgium are watching the Austrian situation with the keenest interest, but comment on their behalf was declined.

Claims Monarchy Is Necessary.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 27.—(AP)—Count Sigray, leader of the Hungarian legitimates, in a statement on the Austrian situation today said that the restoration of the Hapsburg monarch is absolutely necessary for Hungary and Austria.

"Hungary is now more isolated than ever, and the outlook for the future is hopeless," Count Sigray said.

LAST NAZI STRONGHOLD

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, July 27.—Heavy fighting has been in progress all day in Carinthia, with regular troops and Fascist heimwehr forces attacking Nazi strongholds. Every available soldier and heimwehr man was rushed today from Vienna and lower Austria, which are quiet, in an endeavor to crush the resistance by tomorrow morning.

All troops who had taken part in the Styrian fighting were rushed to Carinthia. In Styria the government claims the capture of thousands of Nazi prisoners and large quantities of arms.

The Nazi centers of resistance today were the townships of Wolfsberg and St. Veit and the old moated city of Freisach. Nazi forces tonight were falling back on Vellach, toward the Jugo-Slav frontier, fighting as they retreated.

St. Veit was finally shelled and taken by storm. The Nazis lost more than fifty killed. The government claims to be in control of the situation there.

Feldkirchen also was taken by storm, without artillery preparation. Bleiburg was attacked, but up to this evening the Nazis still were holding out there.

There was fighting all day in the neighborhood of Woerthersee, a popular tourist center. The Nazis were driven back.

Forty Austrian legionnaires [Nazi exiles] crossed the frontier from Germany into upper Austria this morning but were routed by regular troops with heavy losses.

FINDS STYRIA QUIET

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BRUCK OM DER MUR, Austria, July 27.—Government troops in Styria have completely suppressed the Nazi revolt.

Although the fighting is ended the province still bears the appearance of a war area. Bruck om de Mur was full of troops when the correspondent arrived, but there was no sign of fighting.

At Leoben the main square was found occupied by troops. There, also, was little to be seen of the severe conflict which had continued until last night and where 18 are known to have been killed.

Because of the diversion of railway trafic from the battle areas in Carinthia it was necessary to travel by automobile. On all roads reinforcements were moving from Styria, where the battle had ended, toward Carinthia, where the end of the Nazi uprising is likely to come in the course of the night.

Nazis Abandon Arms; Flee.

The writer passed through Gudenburg, where five combatants were killed and eighteen were badly wounded. Nazis had attacked the town early in the morning with rifle and machine gun fire from nearby hills, but were repulsed by gendarmes and members of the Fascist heimwehr.

Under a flag of truce the Nazis offered to surrender on guarantee of safe conduct to the frontier. When this was refused they threw away their arms and fled over the hills toward Klagenfurt.

In Knittelfeld the streets are still blocked with barbed wire entanglements. There were Nazi prisoners in large batches being marched in by the heimwehr. There, also, the Nazis were repulsed and took refuge in the mountains.

The heaviest fighting seems to have been in Leoben. Many walls were damaged and windows shattered by the heavy firing there. In the working class suburbs there were many women in the street still weeping over their dead and wounded relatives.

5,000 Nazis in Action.

Five thousand armed Nazis fought at Leoben. Most of them were workers from the Alpine Mining company, whose managers are leading Nazis. With swastika banners waving, they marched to attack the town and soon pressed the heimwehr so hard that reinforcements had to be sent from Vienna.

The Vienna forces were greeted with a heavy Nazi fire. As the vanguard approached the bridge four men dropped dead under the fire of a Nazi machine gun. The fighting continued until late last night.

Trench mortars were employed against the Nazis in the neighboring town of Donawitz, where the government lost six killed and seventy wounded and the Nazis lost 20 killed and 80 wounded. The Nazis were led by Kammerhofer, a former heimwehr officer who went over to them.

The Nazi prisoners appear to be reasonably treated.

Reds Aid Nazis.

The social Democrats took no part in the fighting and remained strictly neutral, but a few communists are believed to have helped the Nazis.

The Nazis' arms were Austrian army rifles, mostly in poor condition, and revolvers from Germany. The best Nazi fighters were formerly members of the Styrian heimwehr. Most of them fought in civilian clothes with swastika armbands. The majority were boys, 18 to 20 years old.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

William Chambers, 71 years old, 2630 Wallace street, a bricklayer, died in his home yesterday, apparently of heart disease.

AUSTRIAN OFFICERS EXAMINE PAPERS OF AMERICAN TOURISTS

ROME, July 27.—(AP)—American tourists arriving today from Austria reported that their passports were examined by military officers at the Italian frontier.

Trains arrived in Rome on the average of four hours late. Tourists said the delay was in Austria. At the frontier they noticed a big display of military force, but reported that their trains were not held up and made the usual speed in Italy.

Italian citizens eagerly read newspapers telling of the movement of troops to the front and of Vienna happenings. Circulations, which had fallen to pitiful figures under Fascist newspaper uniformity, soared.

NAZI PRISONERS CONFESS DETAILS OF VIENNA PLOT

Former Soldier Named as Killer of Dollfuss.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, July 27.—From their cells in the Marokanergasse prison the 144 Nazis whose capture of the chancellery Wednesday cost the life of Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss, today revealed the details of their plot.

While they were talking under the pressure of "long questioning," police and military authorities rushed preparations for the trial Monday of 30 of their number, including Otto Panetta, 25 year old former soldier, who was said actually to be the assassin of Dollfuss.

In addition announcements are momentarily expected of other trials in the provinces. The military courts are empowered to impose death sentences and deny any appeal.

Thousands in Jail.

How many of the hundreds of Nazi insurgents awaiting their fate in jails throughout Austria are to be shot is a question asked everywhere. Many voices call for vigorous repression by the government of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, acting chancellor, to hasten the death of National Socialism in Austria.

Others fear that wholesale death sentences would lead to a new wave of terrorism more intense than the one which the country has suffered in the last few months.

Some of the men captured in the Vienna putsch admitted that they had planned the coup secretly for months, gathering ammunition and lining up support, which so badly failed them at the last minute. They told how their young leader, Karl Holzweber, former army sergeant, confidently counted on strikes at scores of factories at the zero hour, and how, armed with German made pistols and sure of success, they had answered the call Wednesday morning.

Claim It Was "Mistake."

Others insisted that their part of the putsch was all a mistake, that they had been summoned by what looked like official army orders telling them that they were being taken into the ranks. Still others said they had been told that the communists were planning an uprising, and that they were to stand ready to help the army suppress it, although they were not in service.

By whatever means they were summoned the rebels gathered at the hall of a German turnverein in Siebensterngasse, received their heimwehr and police uniforms, and drove in trucks to the chancellery. There they were allowed to enter when their leader said they had come to reinforce the guard.

In addition to the trucks in which they rode they had others filled with ammunition—presumably for distribution to reinforcements. One of these trucks, filled with guns and cartridges, was found abandoned last night. It's owner said he had rented it out, but did not know of the plans of the renters.

Blame Dead Comrade.

The handful of men captured after a bloody struggle in the siege of the Ravag radio station, whose message that the government had resigned gave the world its first news that the putsch was on, today put the blame on one of their number, who was killed in the battle. He was Erich Schredt, a 32 year old clerk.

It was testified that Tuesday Schredt visited the men he wanted to help him and gave them guns. The next day they met shortly after noon and took a truck to the radio station, and in a few minutes held the building.

A comic touch was inserted today to the tragic events of the last three days, when some Nazis who had been rounded up clashed with communist prisoners found in a makeshift jail used to care for the overflow—the Armbruster wagon factory.

Nazis Hurl Knives.

The Nazis were taken to an upper floor and were seen by the Reds across the small court on a floor below. The Reds shouted a few insults at the newcomers, and a shower of knives and plates, off which the Nazis had just eaten lunch, was the reply. A squad of police soon restored calm and the belligerents of both sides were ordered to lie down on the floor thereafter, so they wouldn't look out of the windows at each other.

More than 100 Nazis who thought they they could escape punishment by fleeing to Jugo-Slavia found themselves today in a concentration camp set up specially for them near Marburg. Among those who fled were 85 from Radkersburg, who were disarmed and interned immediately by Jugo-Slav border guards. Many Nazis swam the River Mur with guns strapped to their backs.

Germany Hails Hitler; Calls Him Europe's Peace Envoy

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 27.—The entire German press today lauded Chancellor Hitler as "the promoter of true European peace." Newspapers spoke of the appointment of Vice Chancellor Frans von Papen as minister to Austria as "proof of how sincerely the chancellor is striving to ease the political tension of Europe."

The newspapers also directed attacks against Premier Mussolini of Italy. They adopted the attitude of "ironical superiority" toward Italy, which once was revered as a close friend.

Confers with Hitler.

Von Papen conferred with Hitler at Bayreuth today. He is expected to return to Berlin late tonight to await the Austrian acceptance of his appointment as an extraordinary envoy. The German foreign office applied for this acceptance today.

To stress the importance Hitler attaches to Von Papen and his new mission, the chancellor put one of his own airplanes at the disposal of his ex-vice chancellor and star diplomat. Von Papen's staf was selected by Hitler personally from among members of the chancellery. Extra guards were attached to the new minister's retinue to watch over his safety.

President Paul von Hindenburg, complying with the chancellor's request, has relieved Von Papen from his duties as vice chancellor and approved his appointment to the diplomatic post.

ENVOY DEFENDS ACTIONS

BERLIN, July 27.—(AP)—Kurt Rieth, recalled as German minister to Austria after he was reported to have arranged the safe conduct to Germany for the slayers of Chancellor Dollfuss, protested today that he merely "took cognizance of an agreement already formed."

Rieth's version of what happened was that the leader of the Nazi invaders, Capt. Friedrich, telephoned him of an agreement reached with representatives of the Austrian government for safe conduct out of the country. Inasmuch as the invaders had been deprived of their Austrian nationality, Capt. Friedrich said, they feared for their lives if they were let out of the chancellery without protection.

Capt. Friedrich, the former minister continued, said the invaders had decided to go to Germany.

"My first answer to the request for a guarantee of safe conduct was 'No,'" Rieth said. "I told Friedrich I had nothing to do with the whole affair and could take no such action."

Says Fey Confirmed Deal.

Then, he continued, Emil Fey, vice chancellor, himself confirmed the statement that an arrangement had been made with the invaders.

"Meanwhile the ultimatum to evacuate the chancellery had but a few minutes to run, and at Fey's request I went to see Odo Neustadter-Stuermer, in command of troops outside the chancellery," Rieth said. "But I told him I could speak to him only in an unofficial capacity.

"As I was about to reënter my car both Neustadter-Stuermer and Fey came hurrying out to tell me an arrangement had been agreed to by both sides. Then I went home.

"This shows I didn't, as has been stated, start or enter into any mediatory action, but that I only took cognizance of an agreement already arrived at, so to say, as a witness, without giving any assurance.

Takes Full Responsibility.

"I didn't act on any request of the chancellery, but only at the express wish of members of the Austrian government—in order to avoid imminent bloodshed."

Rieth emphasized that in the whole matter he did not act as the German envoy.

"Moreover, what I did do—as I only subsequently learned—was at the wish of Chancellor Dollfuss himself, a wish expressed shortly before he died. I alone am responsible for what I have done."

RUSSIA EXECUTES 8 AS SPIES WHO WRECKED TRAINS

MOSCOW, July 27.—(AP)—Kim Zayen, a Corean, and seven Russian railway men, found guilty of sabotage on Russian railways, were executed last night. This was announced today. The men were charged with being spies who had caused train wrecks and sabotage designed to hinder the transportation systems eastward.

Mystery today still surrounded the identity of a "Mister N," foreign expert who is on trial at Sverdlov with ten Russian engineers and technicians on charges of burning a forging-and compressing building of the Ural machine factory.

Official statements concerning the trial, which opened four days ago, fail to mention his nationality.

Baladine and Kuchmakov, the chief Russian conspirators, official statements said, testified that the place was ignited by setting off gas with an electric current with oxygen and acetylent tanks to spread the blaze.

Berlin Jails Czech Writer for 'Offensive' Dispatches

BERLIN, July 27.—(AP)—Andreas Hemberger, correspondent in Berlin for the Central European Radio News Agency of Prague, Czechoslovakia, was arrested today because authorities held his reports to Prague were offensive to the government. Van L. J. Lool, correspondent for Het Volk of Amsterdam, also offended authorities, and he will be deported on the slightest provocation.

EXCEPTS PRIOR CONTRACTS FROM MUNITIONS BAR

Washington, D. C., July 27.—(AP)—The state department announced today that about 3 million dollars worth of munitions purchased by Bolivia prior to May 28 had been excepted from terms of the presidential proclamation of that date which banned shipment of arms and munitions to Paraguay and Bolivia.

All other uncompleted contracts entered into prior to May 28 for munitions, totaling in value about 2 million dollars, were held to lie within the terms of the ban and their legal shipment was refused.

The state department, in announcing its answer today to the Bolivian note of June 19, listed the 3 million dollars' worth of munitions as having been contracted for on good faith prior to May 28.

Tory Majority Shows Vast Drop in British Election

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—A vast decline from the Conservative majority in 1931 was shown today in returns from a byelection in Rusciiffe. The Conservatives retained the seat as R. Asheton received 19,374 votes, although he has 968 less than the combined opposition. In the 1931 general election, Sir Henry Betterton, minister of labor, who resigned to become head of the new unemployment commission, had an absolute majority of 22,000.

SPLIT BETWEEN FASCISTS AND NAZIS EXPLAINED

Chief Difference Is That One Hates the Jews.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Nazism as it is in Germany, and Fascism copied from the Italian model, figure in a spectacular collision in the bloody affairs of Austria.

Other minor, or at least temporarily submerged political philosophies, contribute to the general turbulence.

Fascism and Nazism have much in common. Both are based on the concept that the state completely transcends the individual. Both operate through strong central authorities.

Local home rule is distasteful to both. Each holds that parliamentary government and other machinery of republicanism or democracy may be dispensed with if they stand in the way of the objectives of the central authority.

Fascism Began in 1919.

Fascism flowered in Italy under Premier Mussolini. He organized the "Fascio di Combattimento" at Milan in 1919. It overthrew the old parliamentary government—which didn't make a struggle—in October, 1922.

Nazism started in Germany, the creature of the Austrian born Adolf Hitler. He formed the National Socialist party at Munich in 1920, and the word "Nazi" is coined from the name of that party.

In Hitler's small, early group there was a strong anti-Semetic element. It grew with Hitler, and the racial question provides an important part of the Nazi credo.

On racial issues Nazism differs sharply from Fascism. Mussolini has never regarded the racial issue important.

Both Spread to Austria.

Both Fascism and Nazism spread to Austria. Fascism's strong arm in Austria is the heimwehr, the semi-military group led by the chancellor prince, Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, which apparently has frustrated the Nazi putsch which culminated in the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss.

Fascists of Austria recognize no intimate connection with the Fascism of Italy. The Italian black shirt is not worn. But, in agreement with Italian Fascism, it holds that Austria must remain an independent union.

Austrian Nazism, however, is closely associated with the movement in Germany. Both German and Austrian Nazis have been openly committed to an "anschluss," or political union of Austria and Germany.

Differences on the question of an "anschluss" were responsible for the collision.

FEARS OPERATION, KILLS SELF.

Despondent through dread of an approaching operation, Frank Vesely, 54 years old, 1847 South 57th avenue, Cicero, a baker, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas in his home.

ITALY SAYS IT IS READY TO STRIKE WITH NO WARNING

Denies Troops Already Have Crossed Border.

ROME, July 27.—(AP)—A government spokesman announced today that Italy would intervene in Austria if the internal situation there justifies such a step. He said if action is required Italy will not feel it necessary to delay by taking any diplomatic steps, such as another diplomatic protest, a final ultimatum to Berlin, or a warning to Austrian Nazis.

This attitude was expressed after a lengthy conference between Premier Mussolini and Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary for foreign affairs.

Mussolini, it was said, failed to react either favorably or unfavorably on the news of the appointment by Chancellor Hitler of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen as special minister to Austria.

Deny Troops Cross Border.

It was officially denied tonight that Italian troops had crossed the border into Austria. The statement said such reports were "utterly without foundation."

"There has been no movement whatsoever of the nature described," said a foreign office official. "Not a single Italian soldier has crossed the border, either intentionally or by error."

The denial was issued after a report from Belgrade said Italian troops had crossed the frontier near Villach. One Jugo-Slavian official was quoted as having said that if the report should be confirmed, Jugo-Slavia would have no choice but to mobilize its army. This official emphasized, however, that no troop movements had yet taken place on the Jugo-Slavian border.

The report from Vienna last night that Premier Mussolini might attend the funeral of Chancellor Dollfuss tomorrow was denied by the spokesman. He said that Il Duce would attend the requiem services that will be held in Rome for the late Austrian dictator.

Swiss Maneuvers Ordered.

GENEVA, July 27.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles reported today that the annual maneuvers of the First division of the Swiss army will be advanced two weeks, particularly as a result of the recent seizure on Lake Constance of explosives being smuggled from Germany to Austria.

War Impossible—France.

PARIS, July 27.—(AP)—The view that war as a result of the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss is "impossible" was expressed today by the French foreign office.

Rather, it was said, the French view is that peace was strengthened by the failure of the Nazis to seize the Austrian government.

Other officials interpreted the events as a "striking defeat" for Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

The Austrian situation calls for energetic action "but in agreement with the league of nations," former Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour said in a statement today.

"Action should be under the control of the league and by its decision," he said. "Intervention of countries on their own account in a neighboring land may be dangerous, but if the act is on the mandats of the league we have a safeguard."

Britain Remains Calm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—Great Britain still is preserving an attitude of calm over the Austrian situation. The foreign office said there is no question of any joint action against Germany by Great Britain, France, and Italy, and that the Italian troops movements are only normal precautions in the circumstances.

Sir Walford Selby, British minister to Vienna, has been rushed back to Austria from a vacation here to represent King George at the funeral of the slain Chancellor Dollfuss.

AWAIT END OF ANTARCTIC NIGHT TO REACH BYRD

Winchester, Va., July 27.—(AP)—Efforts of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's associates at Little America to reach him at his advance base probably will not be resumed until late August or early September, when the antarctic night will be over.

His mother, Mrs. Richard E. Byrd Sr., was so informed in a message transmitted by radio from Little America to New York and thence by telegraph. It urged Mrs. Byrd not to be worried over her son's safety, nor uneasy about the reported injury to his arm, which, the message said, was believed due primarily to soreness from cranking his radio broadcasting outfit.

Mrs. Byrd was told that when the admiral went into seclusion at the Bolling advance base for meteorological observations about four months ago he was supplied with food, fuel, and water sufficient to last an estimated seven months and that he was in no need on that account.

The message added there had been no contact with Admiral Byrd since last Friday, and that the chief reason for the party turning back after advancing fifty miles this week was in compliance with the leader's caution against unnecessary risks.

CLAIM CHINESE WIFE GAVE BIRTH TO EIGHT BABIES

CANTON, China, July 27.—(AP)—The fame of the new world famous Dionne quintuplets of Corbell, Ontario, promises to be eclipsed if a report circulating here that a Chinese woman, the wife of a native boatman, gave birth to seven boys and one girl proves true.

Although reports of this octette birth were only recently given prominence the babies were said to have been born in May aboard a Chinese fishing vessel somewhere within the delta of Pearl river.

The reports state that the woman is the wife of one Sam Ting, a poor boatman, and that the mother and children all are in good health.

Attempts to locate the boat on which this family is said to be living or otherwise to confirm the story have failed thus far, although the Chinese papers hail Sam Ting as a great benefactor of the nation.

AUSTRIANS FIGHT TROOPS ON FLIGHT INTO GERMANY

Kidnap Guards and Cross Frontier.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 27.—After engaging in a pitched battle with heavily armed members of the Austrian heimwehr [home guard] at Koellerschlag near Passau today, eight Austrian refugees succeeded in crossing the border into Germany. They were promptly arrested by German border police.

The refugees kidnaped three Austrian customs guards who attempted to prevent their flight and dragged them across the frontier. The German police escorted the customs men back across the boundary. Several of the refugees were wounded by bullets in the battle with the heimwehrmen. It is believed that several heimwehrmen also were wounded.

On the German side of the Alps, opposite Innsbruck, the population is indignant over the activities of the heimwehr. They charge that the Austrian guards arrested 100 Nazis at Innsbruck and are holding them as hostages. It is said the troops have threatened to shoot the Nazis if any acts of violence occur in the region.

Hitler Demobilizes Refugees.

MUNICH, July 27.—(AP)—There was indication tonight of secret demobilization of disappointed Austrian Nazis all along the Bavarian frontier. This was after official denials that there were "any operations" to be called off.

Black uniformed Schutz Staffel men [Chancellor Hitler's hand picked bodyguard] were on hand to see to it that the brown uniformed Austrians did not disobey the reported order from Chancellor Hitler not to attempt an invasion of their home country.

Something like 45,000 Schutz Staffel men were said to have been sent to an Austrian Nazi camp at Freilassing to prevent anything rash being done.

Nazis Grumble at Border.

There was bewilderment and grumbling at the border.

The Austrians had been waiting for a long time for the day when they would march back home and clear out their political enemies.

They had looked forward to a grand homecoming, and if that was lacking had professed themselves ready to "die for Hitler."

"They ought to have marched—if they are going to anyway," remarked one dejected Nazi to another here after hearing that the Italian troops had been moved to the border as a result of conditions in Austria.

It was plain that his sentiment was shared by thousands of youths, students and married men, fugitives from Austria, who have been here for months.

One Group Crosses Border.

Some, on the other hand, think Hitler was right in forbidding an invasion of the homeland. Even those who did not think so appeared to be obeying him with the exception of one group reported in Vienna to have crossed the border when no one was looking.

There was one report that the reichswehr [regular army] is supervising the disarming of the Austrians.

According to a high official of the Austrian Nazi party, no Austrian government at odds with Germany can endure permanently.

At the Nazi headquarters there were many expressions of confidence that the Nazi cause will prevail.

Describing the Austrian insurrection as "a spontaneous outburst not of Nazi elements but of the Austrian people as a whole," the official said that Austria cannot endure without cooperating with Germany.

"Without reconciliation with Germany the economic situation in Austria cannot improve," he said. "Misery and radicalism are growing hand in hand. Revolts will flare up again and again. The Austrian people who have nothing more to lose are taking to barricades in sheer despair."

Asked whether the toll of hundreds dead as reported from Vienna might not mean that many Nazi leaders have lost their lives and that a serious blow to National Socialism has been struck, "Austria is 80 per cent Nazi and it would be sheer foolishness to kill us off. All the best men are in the anti-government party.

"But we don't attach so much importance to the revolt itself as to its political consequences. The government's position undoubtedly has been weaken by the death of Dollfuss."

Branded "Symbol of Terrorism."

Deploring the chancellor's death from the humanitarian standpoint he went on to say:

"Politically the chancellor, however, has been the symbol of oppression, despotism and terrorism."

Lasting tranquility, the party official said, would come about only when "all sections of the Austrian people are united in a government under which all national groups are fully recognized."

The official asserted that to date 130,000 persons have been victims of persecution by the Austrian government.

Emphasizing that the Nazi movement in Austria is independent of the German reich he said that Anschluss [union between Austria and Germany] is not of immediate concern.

"The decisive consideration is that Anschluss and foreign political matter already have been settled by treaties," he continued. "Like the German reich we Austrian Nazis have no intention of violating or disregarding peace treaties and destroying Austria's independence."

Hundreds Flee to Jugo-Slavia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 27.—No Austrian refugees crossed the frontier into Czechoslovakia today, but dispatches from Jugo-Slavia reported that hundreds of Austrians arrived there.

Members of the Czechoslovakian government express apprehension at the appointment of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen as German minister to Vienna, but foreign diplomats believe his presence there with clearcut instructions to seek a reconciliation with Austria will clarify the atmosphere.

The Prague press sees the Austrian government's failure to "mete out exemplary punishment to the insurgents" as evidence of the fear of the Vienna administration. Newspapers predict new conflicts if "the Austrian authorities fail to show that they are the hard masters of the situation."

RAID IN WHEATON BARES ALLEGED YOUTH VICE RING

A story of alleged vice conditions involving several Wheaton boys and girls was unfolded yesterday after a police raid on the preceding night on a residence at 303 West Seminary avenue, Wheaton.

Floyd Schatz, a taxicab driver, and his wife, Mabel, were booked yesterday on municipal charges of maintaining a house of ill fame and state charges of contributing to the delinquency of children. They were held in the Du Page county jail for a hearing Monday before Police Magistrate Frank E. Herrick of Wheaton, being unable to provide bail bonds of $1,500 each.

Three sons of John Oury, a construction contractor, were arrested yesterday and two were held to the grand jury in $3,000 bonds each, which the parents furnished.

Howard Oury, the eldest son, who is 19 years old, was held on a charge of rape. Howard is accused of having attacked a 13 year old girl in the Schatz home.

Ralph Oury, 16 years old, was held on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. His brother, Gordon, 14 years old, booked on a similar charge, is to appear in the Du Page County court on Monday.

HERE IS STORY OF TWO-DAY BATTLE IN AUSTRIAN PASS

Town Builds Coffins for Slain Nazis.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

LIEZEN, Austria, July 27.—An order for eighteen new coffins summarizes the result of the battle on Pyhrn pass, which continued intermittently until nearly noon today.

It began at 2 p. m. Wednesday when an army battalion and several battalions of auxiliary troops were entering Ennstal, Styria, from Upper Austria.

Among the dead were an army major, an army colonel, and the gendarmerie commanders of three towns —Mautin, Saint Gallen, and Groedming.

Casualties Include Children.

Casualties of a skirmish at the nearby "lime works and inn" include a woman and two children.

Eight miles down the road from this pleasant town men will work all night to make the coffins just as last night some four miles up the road men worked all night to make them necessary.

Some of the coffins are finished—they were painted gray and have bountiful golden decorations.

At the lower end of Ennstal a blownup railway bridge made it difficult for government forces to enter the valley.

Putschist troops desperately tried to keep them from entering through the upper end, but they failed after nearly 48 hours of fighting, just as the Nazis failed in Vienna and Leoben.

Fifty-eight miles of beautiful mountain scenery separate Leoben from the Phyrn pass.

To this pass the government forces marched down the road into a trap set by the Nazi putschists. Most of the federal men killed apparently died in the first volleys.

Find Shelter Behind Trees.

After that the soldiers and Fascist heimwehr men sought shelter of trees, thus preventing a repetition of Braddock's defeat in America.

A gendarmerie officer who participated in the battle said that a lively exchange of shots continued until darkness. Then it ceased.

Later a nearly full moon brightened the peaks through the tops of pine trees and finally made it possible for men to continue killing each other.

Some time about noon today the last Nazi hiding place from which the pass was defended by snipers was taken.

There is supreme irony in the battle here, for the bitterness which made the Nazis risk their lives against a superior force was due largely to lack of commercial orders from Germany.

The inhabitants of this region live chiefly from wood products. They depend upon Germans to buy, but the market for them has just about disappeared since the differences between the two countries arose.

Here Is Further Irony.

Further irony: This story is being written on a terrace between the coffin factory and the battlefield, facing the Liezen city hall.

On the facade of the building across the way is a plaque bearing this inscription:

"This stone is dedicated to the founder of the German-Austrian alliance, Bismarck, by the Hermanofile society of Liezen, 1915."

According to a private version of the skirmish which occurred at the "lime works and inn" five persons lost their lives there, including the woman manager, Doreathea Zeiringer, and her 6 year old son.

A polite police official, who stood by a pool of blood in the inn kitchen taking an inventory of its contents, said, however, that the boy and another child were in a hospital and would recover.

He explained that it was necessary for the army to attack and capture the inn because sharpshooters were firing from it.

A friend of the dead woman manager said that nobody fired from it until the soldiers attacked.

The police official supported his story by pointing to fifteen chairs in the kitchen, which he said had been occupied by armed Nazis.

The woman friend countered by pointing out that the inn lies behind the lime burning plant and at the bottom of a side road from which the main highway cannot be seen clearly.

This friend said the inn was attacked because the owner is a Nazi.

SINGER IS SUED

ROSE PONSELLE.

[Acme Photo.]

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—Rose Ponselle, Metropolitan Opera star, was sued in the Supreme court today for $6,862 damages for failure to carry out contracts to sing at Palo Alto, Cal., last April 10, and April 12 at San Francisco.

The action is brought by William Martin on an assigned claim of the Wilfred L. Davis Management, Inc., a California corporation. The bulk of the claim is for lost profits and for damage to the reputation of the Davis management because of Miss Ponselle's failure to appear.

Efforts to serve the papers on Miss Ponselle at her penthouse apartment on Riverside drive, and at the Columbia Broadcasting theater, failed, and for that reason the service was made on an order of Justice Hofstadter directing that the papers be left with the building superintendent.

ITALY TO BUILD FIGHTING PLANES FOR THE CHINESE

Contract for Aircraft Factory Signed.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 28.—[Saturday.]—The Italian Caproni interests signed a contract with the Chinese government today for the immediate construction of an aircraft factory to be located at Nanchang, in Kiangsi province. This is the headquarters of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China. According to reports the factory will be equipped to turn out 60 fighting planes of Italian design annually.

In addition to the factory, the Chinese government has contracted to purchase 20 Savoia planes, which will be used in connection with the Italian directed aviation school. This school also is established at Nanchang.

Duplicates American School.

The Italian aviation activity in China, which Premier Mussolini has been pushing for many months, practically duplicates the American stafed school which has been operating at Hangchow for two years, according to reports. Marshal Chiang has appointed an Italian aviation officer named Lordi to a position equivalent to assistant chief of staf in the Chinese aviation department.

It is rumored that Lordi may supersede Col. John Jouett of the United States, whose contract probably will not be renewed due to Japanese opposition.

Plan New American Factory.

The American Curtiss-Wright interests, which have completed an aviation factory in Hangchow, have announced plans for the immediate construction of a similar factory at Canton. Machinery valued at $150,000 is scheduled to arrive at Canton Aug. 19. A number of American technicians will be employed.

SEEK DILLINGER AID IN KENTUCKY BANK ROBBERY

Henderson, Ky., July 27.—(AP)—George "Baby Face" Nelson, Dillinger gangster, designated as "public enemy No. 1" since the death of his chief, tonight was named by department of justice agents as the probable leader of a gang that yesterday robbed the Farmers' Bank and Trust company of $37,227.

Photographs of Nelson, bank employe said, resembled one of the four robbers who robbed the bank here yesterday and escaped in a car leaving the assistant cashier and a teller with them to the edge of town.

The automobile was found today four miles south of Henderson. It belonged to John R. Ferry, Chicago, a traveling salesman, but was located in Adair county, Kentucky. Ferry, Lexington, Ky., police revealed, reported that he and a woman companion were held up on the Lexington-Harrodsburg road the night of July 16 by three armed men who bound the couple to a tree and drove away in his car.

EDITORS DEFEND PRESS FREEDOM IN MINNEAPOLIS

Uphold Right to Publish All the News.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—[Special.]—Editors of Minneapolis daily newspapers today held to their right to print all of the news in the face of a press dictatorship order posted yesterday by Adj. Gen. E. A. Walsh, commandant of Gov. Floyd B. Olson's militia now ruling Minneapolis during the truck strike.

When martial law was declared at 12:20 p. m. yesterday Walsh drew and issued a set of military orders which he promptly commanded be published two successive days in all of the daily newspapers of Hennepin county and a small section of adjoining Ramsey county, which includes St. Paul. That city, however, was not included in the territory.

Find It Good Copy.

The editors obeyed the order today, but their attitude was more one of printing good spot copy than of cringing beneath a military whip.

Another section of the military regulations was considered far more grave. It declared that "To print, post, or distribute by any means, publish or transmit within the said [martial law] area, notices, bills, documents, or newspapers, defaming the state of Minnesota or any member of the Minnesota National Guard in the field, shall be unlawful and shall be construed as a violation of this proclamation, subjecting the offender to punishment."

Therein lay the threat of censorship, it was considered.

Martial Law Defined.

Minneapolis newspapers were quick to inform the public just what martial law means. Editorially, the Star said, in part:

"Under such a military dictatorship it is no longer a case of what sort of of government the people want but what the governor thinks is best for them. It is up to Gov. Olson to improve conditions in Minneapolis. There can be no other justification for resort to military rule."

Thomas J. Dillon, managing editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, commented on two phases of the situation. He dealt first with the lessening of business in the commercial district by the order of Adj. Gen. Walsh that no parking would be permitted there from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

"Aside from curtailment of business in the retail streets by the prohibition of parking," Mr. Dillon said, "the only change in the strike situation by the imposition of martial law in Minneapolis is the substitution of National Guardsmen for strike pickets. Before we had martial law, free use of the streets was unlawfully denied by strikers. Now it is denied more effectively by Guardsmen.

On the press dictatorship order, Mr. Dillon declared that "the Tribune will continue to print the news of the strike. As for 'defaming' the state of Minnesota—which the military orders prohibit—we do not engage in that sort of journalism."

"Order Was Dictatorship."

George Adams, managing editor of the Star, said that "in martial law there is always the threat of potential dictatorship but we will go ahead exactly as usual."

"I feel there is no reason to be concerned about a censorship on the basis of anything that has happened to date," he continued. "We are not going to maliciously attack any one. As far as the order to print the proclamation is concerned, we would have printed it anyway as something the people wanted to know. However, the order was dictatorship and I feel it was quite unnecessary."

Publisher Makes Statement.

Carl Jones, publisher of the Minneapolis Journal, made the following comment:

"Without surrendering any of its constitutional rights, the Journal proposes to conform to the rules and regulations promulgated by the military authorities set up by the governor, so far as it can conscientiously do so."

One of the immediate matters confronting the editors is the publication of communications commenting upon the strike and the imposition of martial law. Some of those already upon his desk are caustic, one editor said. Whether their publication would constitute "defamation" of Minnesota was the problem. The governor referred all queries to Adjt. Gen. Walsh.

Walsh Denies "Gag" Attempt.

Adj. Gen. Walsh insisted there would be no attempt to gag the newspapers but he insisted that Minnesota must not be "defamed."

"Any criticism the press wishes to make will be all right with me," he said, "just so long as it doesn't become scurrilous and rotten. I won't stand for that. The defaming of the state of Minnesota is prohibited.

"Forget about this gag stuff; there's nothing to it. I'll not interfere in any way with normal operation of the press."

MOTHERS WATCH AS DAUGHTERS, 8 AND 12, DROWN

Two Chicago girls were drowned on Thursday while swimming in Koontz lake, near Walkerton, Ind., it was learned yesterday. The girls were Sophie Praff, 12 years old, 6714 South Honore street, and Sophie Garrett, 8 years old, 5933 South Hermitage avenue. They were caught in the undertow when they waded out too far and sank while their mothers watched helplessly on the shore.

Sergt. Alexander Mitchell of the missing persons bureau expressed the belief that the body of a woman recovered from the lake off 68th street Thursday was that of Miss Ruth Hatch, 24 years old, 523 Deming place, who was drowned June 20 when the small sailing canoe in which she was riding overturned northeast of Evanston. Her companion, Ray Gustafson, of the same address, was also drowned, his body being recovered several days later.

DIES OF SKULL FRACTURE.

Gordon Johnson, 30 years old, colored, 3240 Wentworth avenue, died at the County hospital yesterday of a skull fracture received several days ago.

BEATEN IN HOME

IRENE FRANKLIN.

Hollywood, Cal., July 27.—[Special.]—Police today reported that Irene Franklin, musical comedy star, and her composer husband, Jerry Jarnegin, had been beaten by Lawrence Thomas, 25, a houseboy, who had been discharged for alleged drinking. Police said the composer reported that his actress wife had been hit in the face with a telephone which Thomas threw at her. The former servant was held for questioning.

REDS TO BLAME IN MINNEAPOLIS, EMPLOYERS SAY

Business Is Injured by Parking Ban.

ile in general, to reconsider its decision as of July 26, and to accept the plan as outlined in our communication to you as of July 25."

The proposal involved holding of elections in 144 firms outside the market district to determine if the employes shall be represented by the union heads in collective bargaining. Employers turned it down yesterday.

They reiterated their stand today. They stood firm on their contention that communist interlopers are trying to undermine the union. The employers voted first not to deal with a union allegedly under communist leadership.

Their second roll call refused to accede to wage proposals, set up in the peace plan, by which negotiations would start from a higher minimum wage than is being paid at present.

Order Is Modified.

In the afternoon Adjt. Gen. E. A. Walsh, commandant of the guard, issued a modification of the parking order to permit parking from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. Presumably this was for the benefit of the theaters but the rule was kept in force for daylight hours.

Thus the hundreds of establishments in the downtown district, which corresponds in commercial importance to Chicago's famed loop section, were denied the benefits of customer parking.

Two New York communist editors, arrested yesterday, were turned over to the military today and after a lengthy quizzing were released and told to leave town. They did so after issuing a statement emphasizing how injured were their feelings. The men were Max Schachtman, editor of the New Internationale, and James P. Cannon, editor of The Militant. Both are affiliated with the Communist League of America. Documents in their possession disclosed what business men have constantly feared—that the Reds, failing in San Francisco, have turned their attention to Minneapolis. It was also shown that Vincent Dunne, one of the leaders of the rioters here, has a close connection with the communists.

CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION ASSAILS OLSON PRESS GAG

New York, July 27.—(AP)—The American Civil Liberties union today in a statement charged that Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota "seeks to gag the press and trample upon the people's right to freedom of speech."

The union, whose attorneys include Arthur Garfield Hays and Morris Ernst, stated: "Never before to our knowledge has so sweeping a gag law been put into effect under the guise of martial law. Gov. Olson's edict is in direct defiance of the constitution."

The statement said the union "offers its services to defend without compensation all newspapers and all persons charged with a violation of that portion of Gov. Olson's proclamation which is in defiance of the constitution."

It has instructed accordingly its attorney, Arthur Le Seuer of Minneapolis, the union said. Under Minneapolis' military rule regulations daily newspapers were "directed" to publish the governor's proclamation for two days, and publication was forbidden of matter "attempting to obstruct the military forces" or defaming the state and its guardsmen.

RARE MALADY OF SLOW PARALYSIS WASTES YOUTH

Johnstown, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—Stricken with a rare malady, Walter Siok, a smiling, husky junior high school student, slowly is becoming paralyzed.

Until a year ago he went to classes and engaged in school athletics. Now he spends his time resting on the back steps of his family's little frame home. An attentive student, he listens to members of the family read to him as he lies helpless on a cot.

Doctors say he is afflicted with an uncommon form of myelitis. The malady first paralyzed his toes, then his ankles, and slowly spread over nearly half of his body.

Doctors say he may live about a year.

STATE OF SIEGE DISRUPTS TOWN IN CIGAR STRIKE

Rioters Repulse Police; Fifty Injured.

York, Pa., July 27.—[Special.]—A state of siege was reported to exist in Red Lion borough today as state and federal conciliators redoubled their efforts to halt rioting of striking cigar makers following yesterday's battle in which police were repulsed by strikers and 50 persons were hurt.

Conciliators conferred until midnight in attempts to restore peace before the intervention of state police becomes necessary.

Edward McDonald, United States commissioner of conciliation, and P. A. Ramsey, conciliator from the state department of labor, met with nine manufacturers in an effort to find a common meeting ground for employers and workers.

State Police Head on Scene.

State Police Lieutenant J. E. Bennett, sent from the governor's office, was also here studying the situation to determine whether the state police are needed.

The riotous outbreaks occurred yesterday when a mob estimated at several thousand persons surrounded the cigar plant of the T. E. Brooks & Co. and halted an attempt to move finished cigar shipments from the place.

Strikers and nonstrikers clashed in hand-to-hand struggles and 50 were reported hurt before the plan to move the shipments was abandoned.

Mediator at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., July 27.—[Special.]—Conferences designed to bring about the settlement of the Omaha street car strike were begun here today upon the arrival of R. L. Blume, secretary of the regional labor board at Kansas City. The strike started yesterday morning with about 400 men walking out.

Blume came here last April and ended a four day street car strike by inducing union and company officials to agree to arbitration of their difficulties. However, the men refused to abide by the decision of the arbitration board.

H. N. Nelson, local union head, said that recognition of the union would be the principal demand on the company.

Potters Demand Wage Raise.

East Liverpool, O., July 27.—[Special.]—The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters today presented demands for a general 25 per cent wage increase to the United States Potters' association. The brotherhood also asked that a new agreement, to become effective Oct. 1, include a provision barring from employment married women whose husbands earn in excess of $20 weekly.

The demands will be considered by employers at their summer meeting at Hartville, O., next Monday. At that time the date and place for a joint conference with the union will be set.

HENNESSY HERE TO INSPECT U. S. LIQUOR MARKET

Maurice Hennessy of Cognac, France, member of the sixth generation of a famous French wine and brandy house, arrived in Chicago yesterday on a business tour of the United States. In an interview at the offices of Wakem & Whipple, Inc., his distributors, he expressed the opinion that the wine and liquor trade with his country is becoming more extensive than it was in the years before prohibition.

MAURICE HENNESSY.

"I can attribute this only to increases in advertising and in population," he said. "The repeal of prohibition was a great advertisment of names already known in this country."

He added a word of advice about brandy. It should be drunk slowly when taken straight, he said. Thus it is appreciated, for the taste is allowed to expand in the mouth. Drunk slowly, brandy does not cause intoxication, he said.

Richard Hennessy, the founder of the French house, was born in County Cork, Ireland, in 1720 and went to France as a member of an Irish regiment in the French army.

TWO DE GRAZIAS ARE INDICTED FOR U. S. TAX EVASION

Indictments charging Rocco De Grazia and his brother Nick, former Capone gang leaders in the western suburbs, with willful attempt to evade payment of their income taxes for 1929 and 1930 by failure to file returns were returned yesterday before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. The court ordered bench warants for their arrest and set bond at $10,000 for Rocco De Grazia and $5,000 for his brother.

Both men have been at liberty in $5,000 bonds on a criminal information filed against them several months ago. Rocco De Grazia, who also uses the names De White and A. W. Meyers, and his brother are owners of a combination bowling, gambling, and road house in Melrose Park, according to E. Riley Campbell, special asistant United States attorney in charge of income tax prosecutions.

In the indictments it is charged that Rocco De Grazia in 1929 had an income of $97,011.54, on which he should have paid $14,610.78 tax, and in 1930 had an income of $51,348.37, on which $6,331 should have been paid. Nick's 1929 income was $52,474.85, which called for a tax of $4,997.10, and his 1930 income was $25,865.79, on which $1,407.77 tax was due, the indictments stated, charging that neither paid any tax.

DIES OF BURNS IN BLAST.

OUTWITS BANDIT

MISS ELLEN HILL.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Ellen Hill, secretary of the Harvey Orchestra, Inc., 7 South Dearborn street, saved several hundred dollars of a musicians' pay roll yesterday when she pushed a newspaper over the money on her desk when confronted by a robber. Miss Hill, who lives at 5910 West 26th street, was seated at her desk when the bandit walked into the seventh floor offices. She handed the man $60 and he departed.

COAST SEAMEN CAST VOTES ON BARGAINING AIDS

Mediation Resumed on Longshore Jobs.

San Francisco, Cal., July 27.—[Special.]—Pacific coast seamen began balloting here today in compliance with a condition proposed by longshoremen in the negotiations for settlement of the bitter waterfront disputes.

The longshoremen had demanded that some provision be made for settling the seamen's controversies inasmuch as the marine workers had allied themselves with the stevedores in the walkout. In response the federal mediation board arranged the election in which the seamen can determine their collective bargaining representatives.

At the same time the board members resumed conferences with employers to arrange for immediate reemployment of longshoremen. The latter have voted to submit their own grievances to arbitration.

The principal problems which the board will have to settle are the status of nonunion men employed during the dispute and the dock workers' objections to returning to jobs through the employer controled hiring halls.

As peace negotiations proceeded, increased activity was noted at nearly all of the ports. With the retirement of the National Guardsmen yesterday regular policemen were returned to duty on the waterfront here.

GROUP PROTESTS 'REDS' TELEGRAM BY MISS PERKINS

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—A committee representing a group of organizations headed by the American Civil Liberties union today met Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, to protest her telegram to California during the San Francisco rioting on the ground that it had started a wave of "Red baiting" and deportations in which civil rights were disregarded.

After the meeting, which was a closed session, Miss Perkins declared that "the committee wanted to tell me they did not approve of my telegram to Gov. Merriam. They had many things of interest to tell me and we talked about a number of things. As for their disapproval, well, a great many things are done which some people do not approve."

Members of the committee declared that Miss Perkins had told them that no "person would be deported by the immigration authorities without having had a fair trial and the right to be represented by counsel."

RIOT IN KOHLER; 1 DEAD, 37 HURT IN NIGHT BATTLE

1,500 Storm Plant; Women Take Part.

and the infirmary, which suffered similar treatment. Still the deputies made no move.

Mr. Kohler, who was in the dining hall with a number of the men who had remained at work, made his way across the grounds to the administration building just before the rioters reached that spot.

Windows Smashed.

Stones soon began to crash through the windows of that building. Reports which came from the besieged building by telephone were that there was not a whole pane of glass on either the first or second floors of the structure.

A set of double glass doors at the front were shattered and missils described by those inside as "stones as big as grapefruit" went hurtling along the corridors. Two telephone girls on the first floor maintained their posts, however, despite the attack and kept the plant officials in touch with outside authorities.

Finally, when the attack reached its height, the deputies made their sally forth. Tear gas and stench bombs filled High street, on which the infirmary fronts. The police went into action with night sticks and the rioters met them with sticks and clubs.

Although it was said that not all of the deputies were armed with guns, shots began to ring out. It was impossible to tell whether only one or both sides were firing.

After two hours of battle the crowd finally yielded to the superior armament and discipline of the deputies.

As soon as the gas had dissipated, however, the mob formed again, but was driven back, this time forming just outside the city limits. Police cruised up and down the village streets near the plant in squad cars, keeping the thoroughfares clear of people, and at 9 p. m. Anton Brotz, village president, issued an edict, ordering all residents to go to their homes.

Sporadic trouble continued, however, and the mob at the city limits threw stones and rocks at police whenever they came near. Newspaper cameramen were driven away, and their cameras and plates broken.

Fear New Outbreaks.

While no appeal was made to the governor for National Guardsmen at a late hour tonight, the deputies remained on duty at the plant, fearing further outbreaks.

The fighting early in the day started when pickets around the plant turned back a carload of coal coming to the plant which maintains the light and power for the town. The train crew hauled the car back to Sheboygan. The deputies were then mobilized.

Convoying the car, they charged the picket lines, dispersing the besiegers and tearing down barricades and the field headquarters established by the picketers.

Mr. Kohler had issued a statement that the residents of the village would face a shortage of water if the needed coal supply were interrupted, and declared that the picketers had broken both the law and their promise not to interfere with the delivery of coal.

Henry Ohl Jr., president of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, issued a lengthy statement, in which he declared that martial law actually prevailed in Kohler, without being proclaimed by the governor. He described the situation as a case of men being hired to come in and defeat the purposes of the strike, as well as the aims of the union. Maude McCreery, labor leader of Sheboygan, expressed similar sentiments.

"Because of the attitude taken by the deputies," said Ohl, "anything can be expected to happen."

1,500 Ask to Work.

Kohler's assertion that the besiegers of the plant were mostly agitators who have infested the village was supported by a petition signed by 1,500 Kohler employés and presented to President Brotz. It declared that the undersigned have an opportunity and want to work for the company under the terms now in effect. It asserted that "an organized group, not from Kohler village," is forcibly and riotously interfering with business at the plant.

The strikers have demanded recognition of the American Federation of Labor union and an increase in wages.

Wins New Trial

MISS ANDREA MARSH.

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday granted Miss Andrea Marsh, 18 years old, 616 Rush street, a radio singer, a new trial in her $100,000 personal injury suit against the Northland Greyhound Bus company. At the first trial a jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The new hearing was allowed when Attorney V. Russell Donaghy contended that the jury improperly took to its deliberation room a statement signed by Truman Bradley, driver of the automobile in which Miss Marsh was riding when she incurred her injuries. Miss Marsh received a broken arm and injuries to her lungs when the automobile was struck by a Greyhound bus at 31st street and Cottage Grove avenue last Sept. 12.

JUDGE, NEWSMEN CONTINUE THEIR COURT MARATHON

Reporters Still Refuse to Reveal 'Source.'

Danville, Ky., July 27.—(AP)—An elderly police court judge and two young reporters continued their "endurance contest" here today.

Every day since Monday, Police Judge Jaz W. Harlan has sent the pair, Jack Durham and Wesley Carty, each 23 years old, to jail or has fined them for refusing to answer a question. Each daily refusal to answer has meant a new charge of contempt.

For the judge it meant upholding the principle that a court can compel witnesses to answer competent questions. For the two youngsters to give in would be violating their ideals of the newspaper profession.

Decline to Reveal Source.

The pair learned in advance that Representative J. Sterling Towles was to be hung in effigy here July 19 for voting for the state sales tax. When questioned on the stand last Saturday at an inquiry into the affair they declined to say where they got the information.

Judge Harlan, sandy haired, florid, and even tempered, gave them until Monday to decide. They refused. He fined them $10 each and told them to come back Tuesday. They came and got three hours each in jail. Wednesday they served six hours. Thursday six hours and paid fines of $3 each.

They went back to jail to serve another six hours late today after Judge Harlan overruled their attorney's contention that for them to testify would incriminate them under a state "gossip" statute, which makes it a misdemeanor to communicate inflammatory statements.

Agrees on Non-Exemption.

Clay agreed with the court that the boys could not claim exemptions on the ground they were newspaper men, even though they felt honor bound not to testify.

They were ordered to appear before the court again at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

City Attorney Huguely argued that Carty and Durham did nothing more than receive information that there was to be a burning in effigy in the courthouse yard and that there was nothing to show they communicated inflammatory matter to any one. He contended that the reporters would be innocent under the gossip statute.

Carty's wife, an attractive blue eyed blonde, was a spectator.

"What will you do if your husband tells where he got his information?" she was asked.

"If he does I'll divorce him," she promptly responded.

Dr. Arthur M. Murray, acting head of the department of sociology at Loyola university, has been appointed president of St. Mary college, Leavenworth, Kas. Dr. Murray will take his new post on Sept. 1, it was announced by St. Mary college officials here yesterday.

U. S. HOLDS CODE AS WAY TO STOP STRIKE IN YARDS

Union Demands Granted in Proposed Rules.

Imposition of an NRA code on the Union Stock Yards and Transit company as a means of bringing to an end the strike of 800 stock handlers which has tied up the stockyards since early Tuesday is the "ace in the hole" which federal conciliators hold in their mediation efforts, it was reported last night. Meanwhile no cattle were brought into the yards.

Already, it is understood, it has been suggested to officials of the stockyards company that the code will be imposed if they do not come to terms with their employés. Such a code, to apply to all stockyards, was drafted recently in Washington, but its approval has been held up. It is believed to contain a provision on minimum wages, the principal point for which the strikers are contending.

U. S. Cattle Buying Halted.

The government is especially anxious to end the strike, not only because of the effect of the tieup on the live stock market throughout the country, but also because it has brought to a halt the Federal Surplus Relief corporation's program of buying starving cattle in drouth regions.

Howard Hunter, who is in charge of all federal relief operations during the absence in Europe of Relief Director Harry L. Hopkins, has attended the mediation conferences. At one of them he informed stockyards officials that he has 75,000 drouth cattle which he is anxious to ship to Chicago, and will have more later. When they told him they were prepared to handle such shipments at once, he is quoted as having told them: "I don't want the cattle handled by men not regularly employed in the yards."

The federal conciliators held another conference yesterday with O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stockyards, but it was reported afterward that they had made little progress in reaching a settlement.

Recalls Strike in November.

Mr. Henkle issued a formal statement yesterday before the conference, setting forth the company's position. He told the story of the strike last November, which was ended by the selection of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan as arbitrator. Judge Sullivan was originally suggested by the strikers. In the present strike the union charges the company with failure to live up to the judge's award, but in his statement Mr. Henkle declared he has asked the union leaders four or five times to state in what respect the company has violated it, and has always been refused an answer.

At a press conference yesterday he was asked how long the company could operate with the present force of nonunion men who were hired to replace the strikers.

"Until hell freezes over," he retorted.

Violence, the first in 48 hours, broke out last evening in connection with the strike. Hubert Stevens, 607 West 72d street, president of the Stock Handlers' union employed by the live stock commission men; James R. Harney, 7209 South Winchester avenue, a member of the union, and James B. Howell, 17 West Grand avenue, a company employé, were arrested after they had had a fight inside the stockyards. Later John Henderson, also an employé of the stockyards company, was beaten by four men at Halsted and Root streets. Members of the Commission Employés' union, although affiliated with the stock handlers employed by the stockyards company, are not on strike.

BRITISH MOVIE STAR SUES HER ACTOR-HUSBAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—Miss Binnie Hale, Great Britain's most versatile comedy actress, has petitioned for a divorce from Thomas Foster Raine, actor, according to this morning's Daily Express.

Miss Hale, who is ten years sprung to stardom with a stage salary of $2,000 weekly and a film contract worth $40,000 a year, surprised her friends by her secret marriage to Raine in March, 1924. They have a 6 year old daughter, Patricia.

Raine, whose stage name is Jack Raine, has appeared in many productions in England and the United States, but is better known on the screen. Three years ago he went to Hollywood to fulfill contracts.

FAIR LOOSENS UP ON RESTRICTIONS; NO MORE CURFEW

Conscience to Be Guide for Showmen.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A general liberalizing of restrictions at A Century of Progress for the financial benefit of concessionaires, some of whom are losing money, was announced late yesterday by Fair officials. The announcement followed a conference with representatives of the various villages.

Although officially the Fair's closing hour will remain at 2 a. m., according to Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Exposition, enforcement of this rule will be relaxed. If a party of night liters want to stay after that hour for a little harmless jollity, it will be all right with the Fair if it is all right with the proprietor of the place they are patronizing.

Merrymakers Troublesome.

"This is quite a step for us to take," said Maj. Lohr. "We remove all our garbage and make all truck deliveries at night. After a few drinks some of the patrons decide they will scatter some neat pile of refuse a night worker has raked up, or they often lock hands across a road and make all trucks stop. But we're willing to do all we can to help out the concessionaires."

Unless they become offensive, concessionaires will be allowed to run their shows with their conscience as their guide, Fair officials indicated.

"No Restrictions Now."

"There are not many restrictions on the shows now," Nat A. Owings, in charge of concessions for the Fair, interjected. "The dancers don't wear any more clothes than they did last year."

"Clothes don't have anything to do with it," Maj. Lohr said. "The most vulgar show on the Fair grounds last year was a dance in which the woman wore all kinds of clothes, more clothes than the average woman wears on the street.

"This year there isn't a vulgar dance or show on the grounds. All of them are artistic. We will not tolerate vulgarity. If they don't keep in order we'll step in and change matters."

Concessionaires agreed to take the responsibility of keeping their crowds and their shows in order, Maj. Lohr said. They would appoint a committee to act as moral watch dogs, he indicated.

Consider Delayed Payment.

Some of the villages have asked that they be allowed to postpone payment of the percentage of their gate returns which is taken by A Century of Progress according to contract until they are in better financial condition. This matter still is being considered, it was explained.

To provide for cash needed by some of them to continue operations, a sum of $116,000 which had been collected by the Fair toward demolition of buildings at the close of the Exposition will be given back. They will pay the entire cost of demolition in the fall, Maj. Lohr said.

Other measures Maj. Lohr approved with the design of providing some immediate financial relief to concessionaires included a reduction of the amount paid for garbage removal. In some villages this amounts to $200 a week or more.

Throughout the grounds they will be allowed to put up signs advertising their shows. A strict supervision of all signs placed on buildings has proved especially irritating to showmen and other concessionaires, it was explained.

Remove Gate Supervisors.

All gate supervisors at the villages, who heretofore have been employed by the Fair but paid by the concessionaires, will be taken off duty.

Many of the concessionaires, Maj. Lohr and Mr. Owings revealed, have objected to the length of the programs of free entertainment provided by the Fair.

They particularly resented the large number of programs given at the Lagoon Theater, whose 7,000 seats have been well filled throughout the summer. They declared the free symphony concerts on the Fair grounds were too long.

Maj. Lohr pointed out, however, that the Fair authorities feel they can attract large crowds by giving patrons the most possible for their 50 cents admission.

FAIR WILL HONOR LUXEMBURG AND ARIZONA TODAY

Luxemburg and Arizona will share honors at A Century of Progress today. From 3 to 5 o'clock a program of music and addresses, concluded by the singing of "D'Uelzecht," the Luxemburg national anthem, and "The Star Spangled Banner" will be held in the Court of States on Northerly island. Scheduled speakers include Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and Fred A. Gilson, president of the Luxemburg Brotherhood of America.

Congresswoman Isabella Greenway of Arizona will present the Arizona exhibit to the Fair in the Court of States at 2:30 o'clock. Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, will make the address of acceptance.

Fred Wilson, manager of the exhibit, yesterday urged that all Arizonans here for the Exposition or living in or near Chicago, attend. Singing of cattle range ballads by a cowgirl in costume will be a feature of the program.

At midnight yesterday 73,785 had entered the Fair grounds. Attendance for Thursday was 98,029, bringing the total for the 1934 Exposition to 5,027,818.

Hollywood, Cal., July 27.—[Special.]—Nacio Herb Brown, composer of popular songs, and Anita Page, blonde film actress, were married yesterday at Tia Juana, Mexico. They announced the wedding today on their return. Miss Page said they plan to reside in separate homes in Hollywood, "at least temporarily." It was Brown's third marriage and Miss Page's first.

IRISH QUEEN

The Irish Feis of Tara, the fête of the ancient Irish kings when the step dancers and the pipers were called in for an annual reunion on the village green, will be celebrated here for the first time tonight. More than 20,000 Chicagoans of Irish and Scotch descent will attend the fête, which is to be held at Shrewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

The events will start at 6 p. m. and will include hurling, kicking the football, jigs, reels, step dancing, violin contests, and music by bagpipes, flute, and accordion. Costumes of old will be worn. Among the participants will be the 22 piece Stockyards Kiltie band.

Voted the loveliest of 5,000 Irish beauties, Miss Ruth Simmons, 1542 West Marquette road, will rule as queen. Yesterday Miss Simmons called on City Clerk Peter M. Brady in the city hall to issue him a special invitation to attend the festival.

World's Fair Notes

Five hundred persons, representing thirty nations, will take part in a pageant, "The Carnival of the Nations," dedicating "The Roads of the World" in Ford gardens at 4:30 p. m. today. Rufus Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, will speak. In Ford gardens the national groups will march around the "Roads of the World." A flag ceremony and a program of national dances and choral numbers will follow in the band shell of the Ford Symphony gardens.

Fifteen hundred dollars in cash and gifts await the winners of the national square dance contest, a feature of Farm week, Aug. 11 to 19. The contest will be held in the General Exhibits building and the Hall of States.

Prince Louis Ferdinand, eldest son of the former crown prince of Germany, was en route yesterday to the Fair after leaving the liner Albert Ballin at New York. He announced his plan of spending a vacation viewing the Exposition here, but declined to discuss European politics.

Three performances of "Dance Divertissements," choreographed and directed by Georgia Jesseph, will be given on the Enchanted Island tomorrow at 1:30, 2:30, and 3:30 p. m. They will be presented by the Children's Civic Theater of the Navy Pier, Inc., under the auspices of the Chicago Drama league.

NOTED AMERICAN JEWS ON WAY TO GREAT PAGEANT

Special Trains Bringing Hundreds to City.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Distinguished guests will arrive today from many parts of the country to participate in Jewish Community day festivities tomorrow at A Century of Progress. Special trains will bring hundreds for the celebration which will reach its climax in the immense pageant drama, "Epic of a Nation," in Soldiers' field tomorrow night.

According to announcement by I. B. Ury, general chairman of the program, the day probably will set a new attendance mark for the 1934 fair. He added that more than 60,000 seats in Soldiers' field have been purchased, and that only 15,000 seats commanding full view of the stage remain available.

Listed among the prominent members of American Jewry who will take part in tomorrow's program are Congressman Samuel Dickstein and Alexander Kahn, both of New York. Mr. Kahn is a representative of the national Ort organization.

Noted Artists to Appear.

In addition to the great pageant, which will depict Jewish life throughout the ages, many popular Jewish artists and entertainers will appear on the Soldiers' field program. Among these are Arthur Tracy, known by theater goers and radio listeners as "The Street Singer," and Grisha Goluboff, 12 year old violin prodigy. Grisha will play before the Soldiers' field assemblage on a Stradivarius violin loaned for the occasion by Henry Ford.

Announcements also state that Maude Key, descendant of Francis Scott Key, composer of "The Star Spangled Banner," will lead the audience in singing the national anthem.

Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, and Barney Ross, lightweight and welterweight champion, will assist in boxing drills which form a part of the pageant.

Plan Pageant of Youth.

The evening entertainment will open with a great pageant of youth, featuring 3,000 picked Jewish boys and girls in flag drills, boxing bouts, and tumbling demonstrations.

The entire production this year, as compared with last year's "Romance of a People," will be presented in a lighter mood.

While the story of the Jew from Biblical times to the present will be portrayed, gay dances of happier eras will be given.

Leo Kopp, musical director, said yesterday that authentic music gleaned from synagogue and music archives of all ages has been arranged in symphonic form to make up the background of action in the great production.

The boxing drill, in which Barney Ross and Max Baer are to be featured, will be composed of 100 boys and will reenact the famous Dempsey-Tunney "long count" set to music.

FRIEND OF CHANEY AND HIS BRIDE ARE KIDNAPED; 4 HELD

Los Angeles, Cal., July 27.—(AP)—Three men and the wife of one were arrested here tonight by police, sheriff's deputies, and district attorney's investigators as the asserted kidnapers of John Jeshke, former companion of the late Lon Chaney, and his bride of four weeks.

First revelation of the alleged kidnaping came with the arrests. Authorities said the couple was kidnaped July 16.

Those held, officers said, gave the names of Floyd Briton and his wife Ida, Cyril Russell, and Jerry Lamouroux. They were booked on suspicion of kidnaping, robbery, and criminal attack. Two other women are sought as suspects, officers said.

Jeshke, who acted as makeup man and chauffeur for Chaney, was a beneficiary in the sum of $25,000 in the will of Mrs. Chaney, who followed her husband in death.

Jeshke and his bride went to spend their honeymoon in a cabin at Big Pines, mountain resort 270 miles from here, on July 15, they told officers, and that night two men and a woman came to their door, demanding a $3,500 ring he had received from Mrs. Chaney.

Jeshke said he explained he had disposed of the ring. The kidnapers then trussed Jeshke and his bride with rope and next day they started for Los Angeles, authorities said. He gave them $76. Then they drove to a secluded canyon road in the Hollywood hills, where they were released. Jeshke said he was forced to promise to deliver an additional $50 cash to a representative of the kidnapers under pain of death. He revealed he was to meet a man in downtown Los Angeles tonight with the $50. Officers then stepped up.

HAGENBECK HERE TO SEE NEW ZOO AND VISIT FAIR

Lorenz Hagenbeck, noted animal trainer and collector of Stellingen, Germany, arrived in Chicago yesterday to visit the new Brookfield zoo, which he and his brother Heinrich designed, and to see the World's Fair.

"I have been in Chicago many times in the winter," he said, "but never before in the summer time. They say it was hot here, but it seems to me now like a northern summer resort."

LORENZ HAGENBECK.

Yesterday Mr. Hagenbeck, like a street car conductor on holiday, visited the Allen King wild animal show at the Fair and spent the remainder of the day looking over the stuffed animals in the Field museum. Today he will inspect the zoo at Brookfield.

Mr. Hagenbeck and his brother are proprietors of the famous tiergarten at Stellingen, a suburb of Hamburg, Germany, where most of the circus animals in the world are born or trained.

SKOKIE SCHOOL'S MYSTERY MURAL ON VIEW AT LAST

But It's "Unsuitable" and Faces Removal.

The mysterious mural on the east library wall of the Skokie Junior High school at 520 Glendale avenue, Winnetka, stood revealed at last yesterday. At the same time the village board of education announced that the painting is "unsuitable" and will be removed or covered up.

The painting is the work of Raymond Breinin, 24 years old, 615 Oakwood boulevard, one of the artists engaged by the recently discontinued Public Works Art project. This plan to aid indigent artists, conceived by the New Dealers, went out of existence April 28 and unfinished projects locally were taken over by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Mural Divided Into Three Sections.

The mural, which excited considerable comment because it was jealously guarded by school and relief officials while Artist Breinin was at work, is 40 feet long and 10 feet high. It is entitled "The Two Economic Means of Existence."

The work is separated into three sections. The north end is named "The Unity of the Races" and portrays a Caucasian, a Negro, and an oriental, arms around one another's shoulders. The center depicts "Industry" and shows figures working amid heavy wheels. The south end is "Humanity," where, just over the dividing line a number of figures stand with arms outstretched, pointing to the center panel and to the south one, which shows farms and farm machinery.

"Give us the unity of men and we shall build a new world," reads a legend across the bottom.

"Unsuitable," Says School Board.

The ultimate fate of the mural had not been decided upon yesterday. At it's regular meeting Thursday night the board of education resolved "that the mural painting is, in the judgment of a majority of the board, unsuitable as a mural decoration for the school."

The resolution further directed that the PWAP and the relief commission "be given an opportunity to remove the entire partition and thus preserve the painting." If this is not done, the resolution stated, a partition is to be erected in front of the mural.

Art Jury to Have Look.

Clarence Randall, president of the board of education, declined to comment on the board's refusal of the painting.

Mrs. Increase Robinson, former regional director of PWAP, who is now director of the art department under the work and rehabilitation division of the relief commission, said a jury of artists and art critics would pass upon the mural Tuesday.

"The layman's point of view should not be considered solely," she said.

DEMANDS ACCURATE ART.

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—The art that is to greet the eyes of immigrants at Ellis Island will have to be accurate as to detail, according to an edict today by Rudolph Reimer, commissioner of immigration.

The commissioner rejected some outline sketches for murals which were to be painted in the auditorium of the immigrant station by artists employed by the works division of the department of public works.

One of the sketches of typical American life—and the one that especially aroused the commissioner's displeasure—depicted a southern Negro picking cotton. In the sketch, the Negro wore a heavy football sweater and his wagon was drawn by a Percheron stallion

HINT DILLINGER'S LAST GIRL MAY BE SUICIDE VICTIM

Polly Hamilton Not Held, U. S. Agents Insist.

Government agents in Chicago repeated their denials yesterday that they have in custody Polly Hamilton Keele, the last sweetheart of John Dillinger and one of his last companions before his slaying, although her brother in Chicago and another brother in Fargo, N. D., were appealing to officials of the department of justice in Washington to give them word of their sister. There was a suspicion she may have commited suicide.

Polly, who was the companion of the outlaw in his nightly jaunts to cafes and movies during the last five weeks of his life, could give much valuable information concerning those who aided the desperado in altering his facial appearance and in eluding capture up to the time of his slaying, it was believed by police who also were denied information regarding the girl by government agents. She was with Dillinger at the moment of his death last Sunday night—she and her friend, Mrs. Anna Sage, 2420 North Halsted street, keeper of disorderly houses.

Hunt for Poison Bottle.

Government agents who visited Polly's room in the Malden Plaza hotel next day investigated every bottle in her medicine kit, the manager said. Polly had told Mrs. Sage she was going to visit her mother in Fargo, and when she did not arrive there the bottle investigating incident bore a new significance. It was believed the agents were seeking a bottle that had contained poison.

Chicago police, who have not been taken into the government's confidence, believe that Mrs. Sage arranged with Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the department of justice's bureau of investigation here, to take Dillinger to the Biograph theater, at 2433 Lincoln avenue, where he was slain, but they are not sure that Polly, the sweetheart of the outlaw, knew that he was about to be betrayed. The realization of the betrayal might have led her to suicide, the police surmised.

Find Probasco Insurance Policies.

John J. Butler, chief clerk of the coroner's office, yesterday visited the home, at 2509 North Crawford avenue, occupied until Wednesday night by James J. Probasco, 67 year old tavern keeper, who was arrested by United States' agents on the charge that Dillinger's facelifting operations were performed in Probasco's home. Probasco's body tumbled from a 19th floor window of the federal agents' offices in the Bankers' building Thursday morning and a coroner's jury returned a verdict that he committed suicide while despondent.

In Probasco's home Mr. Butler found accident and life insurance policies in Probasco's name aggregating $72,050, of which all but two in the amount of $1,050, were void in the event of suicide. The beneficiary, Mrs. Louise Hamilton, 4803 Washington boulevard, a sister of Probasco, told Mr. Butler she might endeavor to have the inquest reopened. Mrs. Hamilton is not related to Polly Hamilton Keele.

AUTHORIZE QUIZ BY GRAND JURY AT OAK FOREST

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court yesterday informed the July grand jury it might investigate the Oak Forest infirmary, where more than 4,000 aged and infirm persons are wards of the county, if such a course is deemed necessary.

Bernard McMahon, foreman of the jury, said later that it would be at least two or three days before the matter would be reached, because of the grand jury investigation ordered into the affairs of the Illinois emergency relief commission.

Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, said a special medical committee appointed to investigate Oak Forest conditions planned to meet next week, adding that the county board did not contemplate action until the committee has reported.

MRS. PICKERING GIVEN DIVORCE; NOT CONTESTED

Superior Judge Joseph B. David yesterday granted a divorce to Mrs. Catheline Toogood Pickering, 210 East Pearson street, from Richard Parker Pickering, 33 years old, brother of Hugh Parker Pickering, who was divorced a year ago by Merry Fahrney, Oak Park patent medicine heiress.

The divorce was uncontested. Mrs. Pickering testified briefly that she married Pickering on Dec. 29, 1932, after an elopement to Crown Point and that he deserted her on June 15, 1933. Pickering, who was not in court, was represented by Attorney John J. McMahon, who said a settlement had been arranged out of court. The question of alimony was waived.

Mrs. Pickering is the daughter of A. L. Toogood of Deerfield.

Quiz Former Prison Mate of Dillinger on Holdups

Police last night seized a former prison mate of John Dillinger and held him for questioning on recent pay roll robberies. Thomas McMahon, 40 years old, paroled Indiana convict, was arrested at Pershing road and Cottage Grove avenue by Capt. John Stege and Lieut. John Howe. McMahon insisted he had been in Chicago only a short time but refused to give his address. He had been sentenced to prison for robbery.

Educational Tours

If you have out-of-town guests here to see the World's Fair, why not take them on a World's Fair City Highlights Tour in the daytime or a Brightlights trip at night? We will be glad to arrange an escorted or, if you prefer, unescorted tour to the most interesting places in town. See what you and your friends want to see—properly directed—at a very small cost. Inquire at our Third Floor booth, or main aisle booth on First Floor.

$15

Penpoint clips and a penpoint buckle gleam sharply against the inky black crepe and satin of this frock for misses. The softly draped white collar makes an effective accent at the high neckline. 12 to 20.

Misses' Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

Teenya goes "tripping" in a travel print plaid shirtwaist frock. Just the thing for the Fair and for town, as well as for traveling. A yoke extends youthfully above the waist. Wine, brown, blue. 11 to 17.

Teenya Shop, Fifth Floor.

Felt Makes the Newest Berets

$3.95

This jaunty beret is a new arrival and is one of many smart new styles that are making their presence "felt" in our Millinery Section every day. Note the smart grosgrain ribbon trimming—and there's just a hint of Chinese influence in the shape. In black and new fall colors.

Millinery, Fifth Floor.

Wear Tested Silk Hosiery

FAMOUS FOR THE AMAZING MILEAGE IT GIVES

85c PAIR

We've tested this silk hosiery, and we know it wears. It's the sensible hosiery for day-in, day-out wear, because it's exceptionally strong and beautifully sheer, with reinforced toes, heels, and soles—and lace tops for an added run protection. Shades to complement both summer and new fall costumes.

Hosiery, First Floor.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. MEET AN AMERICAN DICTATOR.

He's arrived and Minnesota has him on its neck, where he'd be expected to land. The portents have their fulfilment. The first American dictator, Gov. Floyd Olson, may take a bow before the people, some of them probably much astonished, and also receive the Hitler salute. The governor of Minnesota beat Gov. Ole Olson of North Dakota to the totalitarian state. The if so governor of North Dakota was thought to be off in that direction when he proclaimed all inconvenient debts virtually outlawed, but the Minnesota fuehrer has gone the whole distance.

Minnesota's governor has declared martial law in Minneapolis. His troops are not yet Brown Shirts, but military law is put above civil law. He has nullified the freedom of the press. The newspapers are muzzled. He makes it an offense, punishable summarily in military court, to criticize his government or his troops. That will be "defaming the state," the pure Nazi doctrine. The newspapers were instructed to publish the proclamation of their own servitude. It is the complete Hitler.

It will be observed also that Mr. Olson interferes with the right of peaceable assemblage by requiring permits for gatherings of more than one hundred persons. Requests for permits for picnics were among those denied and if the order stands churches will hold their religious services by permit and military consent. Mr. Hitler goes a little further and says what the preacher may preach and what creed the congregation may have.

Minnesota has asked for this. It permitted its legislature to pass the law authorizing the summary suppression of any newspaper which offended a politician by its remarks. The United States Supreme court held this act to be in violation of the constitutional guaranty of a free press. Olson by Hitlerizing the state under martial law endeavors to circumvent the court decision by substituting his military authority for the civil.

This issue of THE TRIBUNE containing these remarks violates the ukase if the paper is offered for sale in Minneapolis. The newsdealer may be before a drumhead court martial. Against the governor is not only the decision of the United States Supreme court, which his martial law seeks to avoid, but the decision of the Illinois Supreme court in the case of the City of Chicago versus THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for libel, the municipal corporation pleading that the city as a corporation had been libeled by newspaper criticism and the court holding that a city corporation cannot be libeled and action for damages cannot be maintained. The court said: "It is one of the fundamental principles, therefore, of the American system of government that the people have the right to discuss their government without fear of being called into court for their expressions of opinion."

Minnesota is not defamed by newspaper criticism. It abuses itself by permitting its politics to produce some of the men who have been in control for years. It has tolerated a political and a criminal record out of which most of its disturbances and tribulations flow. Its fair minded citizens, who must be in the majority, have been imposed upon and abused.

The disorders in Minneapolis are not tolerable, but there is no evidence that Gov. Olson is moving to correct them. The use of the state troops to restore order would be entirely justifiable. If the governor had said that the normal life of the city must be resumed and that labor controversies must be conducted without endangering the lives and property of citizens and without putting them to inconveniences from which the law should protect them he would have been doing his duty.

A succulus man would not need martial law for this. He would not need the suppression of criticism. He would not need a Hitler state. It will be offered as justification, probably, that seditious sheets, printed by communists, incited acts of violence. The answer is that such unlawful acts can be treated as unlawful acts.

The omens are threatening. The spirit of authority is ominous and overleaping. Guaranties of liberty are impaired by legislation, ignored by administration, and annulled by proclamation. The doors of the courts are being closed to the petitioners seeking the exercise of their lawful rights. The citizen is not safe in his possessions or person.

How far is the United States today from Rome, Berlin, or Moscow?

JAIL INTO COUNTRY CLUB.

In these topsy-turvy and often inexplicable times, when farmers are paid for not growing crops and Blue Eagles are taken away from persons who hadn't even had them, there is nothing more paradoxical than the present tendency toward greater freedom for prison inmates. This tendency is called to mind almost daily by new escapes, one of the most recent of which is the departure of five trusties from the Pontiac reformatory.

Once men were sent to prison because society wanted them locked up where they could do no harm. In earlier days escapes were remarkable accomplishments, usually involving extraordinary courage and ingenuity. Men got out only by slithering through noxious sewers, by allowing themselves to be nailed up in coffins after feigning death, or by prodigious climbs up the faces of high walls. Now convicts escape by simply walking away.

Corruption in prison administration is chiefly responsible for the present high incidence of escape, but another cause is the misdirected humanitarianism which has made many prisons more like clubs than penal institutions. If this tendency proceeds to its logical conclusion it will shortly become desirable for decent citizens to get themselves sent to jail. There they will enjoy good food and comfortable rooms at the expense of the state, exercise on golf courses and in swimming pools, listen to lectures, read books from a free library, and attend pleasant social gatherings. In the meantime the criminals will labor on the outside in order to pay the governmental taxes necessary to maintain the respectable citizens in jail.

TRAFIC ON THE LAKES-GULF WATERWAY.

A survey of activities on the completed Lakes-Gulf waterway shows that there are now seven transportation companies utilizing the facility. While the government owned Federal Barge Line still leads in the matter of barges and towboats in service, the contract companies are forging ahead and showing substantial gains in developing traffic for the Lakes-Gulf water highway. Prospects for the future seem excellent. Water front facilities have been improved, dockage increased, and elevators with marine handling equipment are springing up.

Despite engineering precautions the drouth season, of necessity, has had an effect on water levels, and this of course has added difficulties to operations. All equipment has been constructed to take full advantage of the depth of nine feet, and when the barges cannot be loaded to full capacity because of draft restrictions an adverse effect is felt on earning power, which in turn must be reflected in the rate fabric.

The existing situation brings forcibly to mind the limitation on diversion incorporated in the St. Lawrence treaty. No theory is involved. We are witnessing a practical demonstration of how curtailment of diversion would ruin this great and growing facility of the whole middle west.

Editorial of the Day

VIRUSES.

[Portland Oregonian.]

At the sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science held this last week in San Francisco there were more discussions than ever before of that most ominous and mysterious of menaces, the virus diseases of plants.

There has been talk in recent years of the danger of insect pests. The imaginative have pictured the insect hosts winning back the world from the control of man. But the insects can be seen and battled; they are tangible; science can confront them. On the other hand, the virus diseases which are spreading year by year and which defy the microscope cannot be confronted. The only defense against them so far discovered is in the development of resistant varieties, and that has been successful in only a few instances—with sugar cane, beets, asters, and squash, for example.

Generally speaking, the viruses cause plants to show abnormal developments, such as dwarfing, mottling, and the like. Yield frequently is reduced by 25 to 50 per cent, and the life of the plant is cut down. Strawberry crinkle, a virus disease, is now universal on the Pacific coast, and the plants, which should be effective for four or five years, are effective for only two or three. Raspberry mosaic, now well established in the Pierce county, Washington, fields, but which has not reached Clark county or penetrated Oregon, is said to reduce yield by about 30 per cent.]

The virus diseases of vegetables—and all vegetables appear to be subject to them—are quite generally known under the name of "curly-top." Curly-top practically ruined the sugar beet industry of the semi-arid regions, including the fields of central Washington, a few years ago. The industry was revived only by discovery of a fairly resistant variety. Throughout the semi-arid regions most vegetables are difficult to raise in the years when the leaf-hoppers are plentiful. These little insects do the spreading. Flowers also are highly susceptible, particularly the bulbous plants. Virus is developing even in the wheat areas east of the Rockies, though the far west is still comparatively free. Thirty-seven kinds of virus have been found in potatoes.

And the worst of it all is the mystery. Dr. Meyer of Germany started the modern scientific investigation with his description of the tobacco mosaic in 1886. There followed some study of tobacco mosaic in this country, and in the 1890s the discovery was made that both plant and animal virus was filterable—that is, screens which would have caught the smallest imaginable organism still permitted the virus to pass. In 1901 a Japanese scientist proved that sugar cane virus was transferred by insects. About 1914 Allard of the United States department of agriculture showed that aphis [green plant lice] carried the tobacco mosaic.

It was Allard's word which really aroused the scientists to the menace, coming, as it did, at a time when the viruses were growing more and more destructive. But since his time the investigations have accomplished little and made the subject more complex. They have found a great many viruses and each new one is as mysterious as the last. Most of the dwarfings, mottlings, decayings, and blotchings which previously were explained as being due to growing conditions are now found to be due to viruses. In the end it may be discovered that they reduce man's food supply by one-half, and in the meantime, as cultivation becomes more intensive, they become more widespread and devastating.

Consider such a mystery as this:

You can rub the tip of a finger on a piece of potato with a certain virus, then rub that finger on a big healthy tomato plant. Nothing will happen. But take a pinch of tobacco, perhaps from your pouch, just so it has the mosaic, and moisten it. Get this on your finger and rub it on the same spot on the tomato plant. The plant dies. And no one has any idea why.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE PASSING of Chancellor Dollfuss was like in many ways to the final departure from this world of sorrow of the late Mr. Dillinger. Which brings up the question whether it is more desirable to be a dictator or a public enemy No. 1. Both incidents make world news and cause intense excitement from pole to pole. However, many spectacular features which surrounded the demise of public enemy No. 1, such as the "Lady in Red" and the searching of the apartments of numerous other lady friends, do not attend the taking off of a dictator. But both are for a time the center of breathless interest and will live on history's page. Many will yearn frantically to be as famous, some preferring to be dictator if they had their choice and others a public enemy No. 1 on the grounds that the public enemy No. 1 has more fun while it lasts and wins just as much undying fame as a dictator. But personally I don't think I would care to be either. I would much rather conduct a hot dog stand or a gas station or drive an ice wagon. While there is no fame or great pecuniary reward attached to these humble occupations, one has a chance of living longer. In this world so full of bandits, hit-and-run drivers and heat waves perhaps not much longer, but at least a little longer. And with the world so intensely exciting and amusing as it is at present it seems a shame to lose a few weeks of it or even a few days.

PAGAN PRIEST.

The sudden stars come out at night
As pale as candle light,
And steepled wind will toll like bells
And sweet the sermon that it tells—

"Bestow, my friends, your faith in this Commandment of the kiss:
You may love less but never more Than mouths were fashioned for.

"Except for dead men out of mind
A Heaven's hard to find,
So since your blood runs brisk as wine
Go make the pagan earth your shrine.

"The only Mass a youth should keep
Is Love, while old men sleep.
There's not a maid or mother's son
Could keep a warmer one."

Here is a creed as old as Eve,
A priest whom all believe.
Every man alive has listened—
Men in Hell have heard, and hastened.

"EUROPEAN OBSERVERS Find Austrian Crisis Is Fading."—Headline. Of course it's fading. It used to be that a great crisis happened about once in a century and was talked about for the next ninety-nine years. Now a crisis passes quickly because a new crisis bounces up a few minutes later. Naturally an old crisis fades as soon as the new one jumps up. Life these days is just one damn crisis after another. Why, at the breakfast table this morning we will be shocked right out of our skins to find that another terrible crisis has happened! Oh, this is worse than the crisis we had two days ago and infinitely more terrible than the crisis we had a week ago. Oh, horrible! horrible! Some more orange juice, please, and another helping of bacon and scrambled eggs.

AND I HAD the most beautiful dream that night after we had the 105 temperature. I thought I was out in a little canoe on the ocean when suddenly a great iceberg—oh, it must have been nine miles high—loomed up right over me and I saw the top away back and forth and it was just about to fall on me when, doggone it! I woke up. Nine miles of nice cold iceberg! That's the trouble with dreams, they're so disappointing.

WASHINGTON SAYS that army costs will be greater next year. They wouldn't be greater if they cut out nonessentials. My point is that since the army is motorized the officers ought to stop making the government buy 'em spurs. Of course an army officer feels as though he isn't dressed, in fact that he is walking around in the nude, if he hasn't got his spurs on. But just the same with the army using motors the spurs are no use in a car. He can stick his spurs into an auto all he wants to, it won't make the car go a darned bit faster. And now that office desks have a glass top he can't dig his spurs in to keep his feet on top of the desk. Let the army give up its spurs and save us taxpayers money. Write to your congressman today!

THE HEAT WAVE is so intense and has lasted so many weeks that it is said that in many parts of Missouri and Kansas people no longer say to each other when they meet, "Well, is it hot enough for you?" If this is true then still another record has been broken.

SUMMER DIET.

FEW of us realize that food may add to our hot weather burdens. A certain amount of food must be burned by the body in order to maintain normal temperature. However, during heat waves the temperature of the air may be much higher than the normal temperature of the body. In such a situation it is obvious that food not needed for the purpose of maintaining body heat, and the oxidation [burning] of foods beyond the amount needed for energy means that the body must rid itself of the excess heat. This is why people seek to place themselves in cool surroundings, bathe more frequently, prefer iced drinks and cold foods, or seek a cooler climate.

If the body is unable to radiate its heat the temperature rises and there is a general feeling of discomfort and exhaustion. When the body temperature rises appreciably the condition known as heat stroke or heat exhaustion comes on and serious consequences may ensue.

The first rule, then, in excessively hot weather is to eat less than is needed for the maintenance of body functions, unless the individual has ample opportunity for cooling the body at frequent intervals. The character of summer foods needs to be modified but little. Excessive fats should be avoided, inasmuch as fats furnish per unit weight more than double the number of heat units supplied by starches and by proteins. Carbohydrates may be reduced somewhat because they are easily oxidized, hence more quickly converted into heat.

It should be noted that iced drinks cool the body less efficiently than cool drinks. The secondary reaction of iced drinks is to cause a marked congestion of the mucous membrane of the stomach with an engorgement of the parts with blood. This has a tendency to increase rather than decrease oxidation. Very hot drinks produce the same effect but more quickly. Hence, the second rule in summer diet should be to avoid taking into the stomach iced as well as very hot fluids. If iced drinks must be taken they should be sipped slowly and each mouthful held long enough to so modify the temperature that when the fluid reaches the stomach congestion will not result. Many observers believe that the congestion of the mucous membrane of the stomach due to very hot or very cold drinks plays a positive rôle in the origin of peptic ulcers.

Summer is the time to give the digestive functions of the body a real rest. A person of normal weight can usually afford to lose a few pounds during the hot months. Then, too, more fresh air and more out of doors will help pile up a reserve against winter infections of all sorts. We may become overheated unavoidably on certain hot days; we at least can refrain from overheating ourselves by adding food fuel when no fuel is needed.

INFECTED TONSILS.

B. F. writes: A woman 57 years old has chronic infected tonsils. They are small but pus laden. Last winter, for the first time, she suffered heart attacks, swollen ankles, and fever. She was told the heart trouble was both valvular and muscular. At present she is very much stronger and has had no heart attack for four months. One of her physicians recommends taking out the tonsils and the other objects. Both are competent doctors.

1. Will you please discuss age and tonsil infection?

2. In the above conditions would you advise removal of tonsils at 57 years of age?

3. Would you advise ether or a local?

REPLY.

1. Tonsil infection is just as serious in a person of 57 as in a child of 7. The tonsils are no doubt draining infected material and the body is called upon to fight this infection.

2. The tonsils should be removed if there is no serious heart complication. The fact that the heart has been affected may be the best reason for removal. In the hands of a competent man there should be no difficulty relative to the procedure and the chances are that the patient will be much improved within a few months following the operation.

3. Local anesthesia is preferable in your case.

TYPHOID FEVER SHOTS.

A constant reader writes: I am interested in taking shots for typhoid fever. Is there any danger of a reaction from these shots? I don't think I have as great a resistance as the average individual. When I took toxin antitoxin for diphtheria I always thought I had a reaction because soon after taking the shots I had a very sore throat.

REPLY.

The physician who gives the typhoid fever antitoxin will know how to proceed. You should describe to him very carefully your earlier symptoms with toxin antitoxin. The chances are that you may take the typhoid fever vaccine without danger. Your arm may become sore and you may have a fever for twenty-four hours or more. This is of little consequence as compared with the value of the protection afforded by the vaccine.

—:—

PROBABLY TUBERCULOSIS.

L. I. K. writes: For a number of years I was employed in a combination lead and copper smelter, where I was often required to breathe air heavily laden with fumes from the stacks and mechanical equipment. Recent X-ray pictures of my lungs disclose profuse mottling and extreme peribronchial thickening. In your opinion could this condition have been brought about in part by having breathed the fumes referred to, or should it be attributed entirely to tuberculosis, which is suspected.

REPLY.

I would suspect tuberculosis. The breathing of any noxious gas usually causes throat and bronchial irritation, but rarely the condition you note.

PATENT RIGHTS.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A person who is insolvent files application with the United States patent office for a patent. 1. In the event this person is subsequently declared bankrupt would this application be considered an asset even if the patent has not been allowed? 2. Is it not a fact that a United States patent is a recognition to the inventor only, and his inherent rights cannot be taken from him by any court procedure such as bankruptcy? C. W.

It has been held that the terms "patents" and "patent rights" do not include the interest of the bankrupt in a patentable invention, or in a pending application for a patent, and that therefore the trustee takes no title to a patent for an invention granted to the bankrupt after the date of the adjudication in bankruptcy, although the application for such patent was made before the bankruptcy and was pending at the time of such adjudication. In re McDonnell, 101 Fed. 239, 4 Am. Bank. 92. But another court has asserted the view that a pending application for a patent will pass to the trustee as "property" which the bankrupt could have transferred. In re Canisio Mfg. Co., 185 Fed., 276.

UNPAID WAGES.

Cicero, Ill., July 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—During 1931 I was employed in a shop which was rented by two partners. Today the shop is rented by others. My wages were partly withheld. One partner settled for 30 per cent of his share, but the other gave me a note for $450 dated Feb. 3, 1932, payable in 3½ years. The signer of this note recently died and his wife refuses to sign it. Must I take steps to make this note [judgment note] payable when due? R. C. D.

The note would be enforcible against assets left by the maker. We see nothing in the transactions which you list which would prevent you from collecting the balance from the partner who has already paid you. This would leave him to force contribution against the estate of his co-partner. It probably will be advisable for you to employ an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPORTATION.

Chicago, July 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I sailed from Italy eleven years ago to avoid serving in the army. I have always had the desire to become a citizen of the United States. I am married and have a child. My wife was born here. I have been fearful about bringing the matter up because I understood the government would deport me. Can I become a citizen, and how should I go about it? A. N.

If the writer entered the United States illegally prior to July 1, 1924, he is not subject to deportation. However, there is no provision of law whereby his entry may be legalized and, therefore, he may not be naturalized. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

COMPENSATION AWARDS.

Chicago, July 12.—[Friend of the Insured.]—My brother was employed by a Chicago firm for years, but seldom worked here, the nature of his work taking him to many cities outside of the state. He was recently killed in an accident while working in another state. Is his family entitled to compensation payments provided by the state where he met his death, or are they compelled to take what the Illinois law calls for, which amounts to much less than the other state? How much would his family receive in this state? C. W. T.

It would depend entirely upon where the contract was made. In this state every person in the service of another under any contract of hire, express or implied, oral or written, including persons whose employment is out of the state, where the contract is made within the state, would come within the Illinois compensation law and be entitled to receive the payments as provided, unless, of course, such employé was not engaged in the usual course of trade or occupation of his employer.

If the deceased employé leaves a widow, child or children, a sum equal to four times his average annual earnings is paid, but this amount shall not be less than $2,500, and not more in any event than $4,000. This minimum of $2,500 is increased to $3,000, $3,100 and $3,200 for one, two and three or more children under 16 years of age, respectively. If four times the annual earnings of the deceased amounts to more than $2,500, but less than $4,000, the amount payable is increased by $350, $450 and $600 for one, two and three or more children under 16 years of age. Whenever the maximum of $4,000 is payable, such maximum is increased to $4,450, $4,800 and $5,500 for one, two and three or more children, respectively, under 16 years of age.

WHEN THE TEACHERS WILL BE PAID.

Chicago, July 25.—What has happened to the proposed teachers' loan? For the last two weeks there has been little if any publicity regarding it. The government promised at the outset that there would be no red tape connected with the loan, but that promise has evidently been forgotten. The government has been investigating the property values, etc., of the collateral for the last ten days, but they have not come to any decision as yet. Our latest report is that Jones is leaving for Chicago and Folsom is leaving for Washington. It's too bad that they can't get together.

Everything connected with the loan since its O. K. by congress has been a matter of stalling. The board of education, instead of having the data to furnish the government available at the time congress passed the proposed loan, took two weeks to gather the information. Now it's the government's turn to stall.

The Illinois Supreme court will probably withhold its decision for another month, and all in all it will probably come to a head about time for the November election, which will be very nice politically but not practically.

The board of education has within the last thirty days retired approximately $1,150,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants and they must have at least enough cash on hand to pay two weeks' salary, but I suppose it wouldn't look well for them to pay two weeks' salary when they are asking for a loan of approximately $25,000,000. EGRETS IN ILLINOIS?

Stockton, Ill., July 23.—Where did they come from and where did they go, that big flock of snowy white water birds that soared down into Pleasant Valley, near here, and spent several days along Plum river? They were 25 when they came, and left in groups on Thursday and Friday. Floyd S. Young, director of the ornithological department at Lincoln park, was submitted sketches and description and says they must be egrets. CHARLES SUGHROE.

HOOT MON.

Chicago, July 23.—In reply to Albrecht Hentel, who is seemingly surprised that the Scotch Highlanders are men, I can almost picture him with his mouth open [adding a few more inches to his height] at the knowledge. We often wondered how so many of our men were shot in the back; now we know. "Hoot mon, ye hae a guid wey o' expressing yersel'." ISABEL STEWART.

DIPLOMATIC BLUNDER.

Clinton, Ia., July 20.—I have been receiving letters from friends in England who advise me that they are glad that the debt question is at an end. They claim it should have happened years ago. I presume that President Roosevelt, in their eyes, ended the question when he told England to pay up; we could accept no tokens.

I imagine most of our people indorsed the action of President Roosevelt and said: "Atta boy, Franklin; give them the big stick." We as a people are supposed to play the best poker hands in all the world, but we apparently don't know when to bluff. President Roosevelt is always appealing to the common sense of the American people, but wouldn't the common sense of the American people in this case have been to accept the token from England and at the same time tell them that we see their ability to pay is improving and probably they could make their next installment token larger, as our position financially was not so hot?

I am interested in the next move that the President will take to recover our lost wealth after refusing the tokens, but you can bet your life I am not turning down any interest I can collect on my own investments these days, which is not much, notwithstanding the New Deal, NRA, AAA, XYZ, etc. ANGLO SAXON.

THE COST.

Chicago, July 19.—In THE TRIBUNE of July 17 appears a news item to the effect that President Roosevelt's vacation cruise to Hawaii is costing the nation close to $500,000. Pay roll of the naval crews, fuel, depreciation of machinery are the main contributions to this staggering total.

Of course, THE TRIBUNE conveniently overlooks the fact that the four ships used are active units of our regular navy and as such the cost of maintaining and running them would go on just the same whether they were cruising along the Atlantic seaboard on regular navy duty or taking the President on a well deserved vacation. MORE LOSE JOBS; TOTAL ON DOLE SETS A RECORD

New Deal Is Stalked by Failure.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Unemployment is growing, more Americans are on the dole than in any time since the depression, and failure stalks the New Deal.

Business activity slackens dangerously, and a current report by the federal reserve board reveals industrial productivity is lower than in the corresponding month a year ago. This marks the first time since the inauguration of the President in March, 1933, that production has not shown a gain over the preceding year.

The tax burden grows apace, with the New Dealers striving frantically to spend enough easy money on work relief to overbalance the losses in private employment.

Financing Stagnant.

Financing is stagnant, despite many efforts of the treasury, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the securities and exchange commission and other New Deal agencies to revive it. Business men confess their worries that the burden of the public debt will soon become so overbearing as to bring a general collapse.

Figures on unemployment and relief conditions were made public today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who has with fair consistency heretofore assumed an optimistic attitude, and has followed the antics of the New Dealers.

Today's report by Mr. Green is easily the most pessimistic which he has drawn. He disclosed federation estimates that in June 10,313,000 American workmen were idle, an increase of 84,000 over the month o. May. He predicted that the report for July would be even worse.

Relief at Highest Figure.

He declared that "the latest relief figures published show relief payments at the highest level during the depression."

"In April," the report stated, "there were 4,447,503 cases on relief rolls, including 16,826,000 persons. Relief payments totaled $112,527,000 [including those on ERA work program]; this compares with $73,000,000 in April, 1933."

Discussing employment developments in June Mr. Green reported that "over 100,000 wage earners were laid off from factories and 25,000 from stores" but this was offset, he added, by 75,000 taken on by farmers for the busy June season. Road building brought jobs for 15,000 and railroads hired an additional 10,000, the report said.

Increase Work Programs.

"The government is endeavoring to meet this increasing unemployment with increased work on PWA and ERA work programs," Green went on. "PWA added nearly 100,000 to its pay rolls in June, and the number on the ERA work program rose from 858,000 at the end of May to 983,000 on July 5. The number of conservation camps declined from 312,000 in May to 285,000 in June.

"Thus the average number at work on all three of these emergency programs rose from 1,671,000 in May to 1,813,000 in June, and the pay roll increased from $79,143,000 in May to $86,779,000 in June.

"Although 10,313,000 had no work in industry in June, since 1,813,000 had work under government emergency programs, the total number without work of any sort was 8,499,000. This compares to 8,577,000 in May."

Production Drop Told.

The federal reserve board's report stated that industrial production, which had increased during each of the six months from December to May, declined in June by "somewhat more than the usual seasonal amount."

Sales by department stores decreased in June by more than the estimated seasonal amount, the board reported, and while reporting a slight increase in freight car loadings, the board pointed out that there has been a decline in the first half of July.

Members of the federal reserve system reported an all time high record of excess reserves, reflecting the stagnancy in credit. Between June 13 and July 18 reserves increased to a level of 4 billion dollars, about 1 billion 850 millions in excess of legal requirements.

Fletcher Sees Awakening.

Further evidences that the people are awakening to the perils of the New Deal were reported today by Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, on his return from a tour of New England and eastern states.

Declaring himself greatly encouraged over Republican chances in the coming congressional elections, Mr. Fletcher said:

"I think the issues for the campaign are pretty well joined already. I think some of the features of the New Deal are finding a growing opposition and the people are beginning to rebel against the desire of the administration to make some of the so-called emergency measures permanent law.

"This desire on the part of the administration would mean putting the government further into business, and I find that people are beginning to realize that this idea is bad."

Decrying the pouring out of government easy money, which he declared was in effect the constituting of a great campaign fund, Mr. Fletcher said this was being counteracted in many people's minds by a realization that eventually the vast expenditures of the New Deal must be paid for.

"The thrifty," he added, "are the people who are going to have to pay for this excessive spending."

Tidwell Held Not Guilty of Christmas Fund Fraud

William E. Tidwell, 37 years old, was found not guilty by a jury in Municipal Judge William E. Helander's court yesterday on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with the "First Chicago Christmas and Charity Bazaar" which he promoted. Fred Leib, 3504 Lake Park avenue, a concessionaire, had testified that Tidwell had misrepresented the disposition of $20,000 which he said was to have been spent for advertising.

REUNITED AFTER 49 YEARS

MRS. MINNIE INWOOD AND CHARLES ALVORD.

Meet in Chicago

Forty-nine years ago Charles Alvord set out from New York to seek his fortune in California. Yesterday he was enjoying his first reunion with his sister, Mrs. Minnie Inwood of Westville, N. Y., at the home of his niece, Mrs. C. W. Bacon, 6928 Indiana avenue, who is Mrs. Inwood's daughter. Mr. Alvord is now 75 years old, and his sister 73. Yesterday the brother and sister visited the World's Fair. Last night they left for New York, where Mr. Alvord will pay a visit to his old home. Mr. Alvord is a carpenter contractor at Highway Highlands, Cal.

NEW DEAL GETS PRAISE, BLAME OF GOVERNORS

Ely Expresses Fear of Domination.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 27.—(AP)—Chief executives of approximately one-third of the states dissected the national recovery program today at the annual governors' conference, subjecting its workings to an inspection that was both critical and commendatory.

Gov. Paul V. McNutt, Democrat, of Indiana, declared himself in favor of full coöperation by the states and advocated adoption of state codes to strengthen the enforcement of national compacts.

"An Experiment," Says McNutt.

"The NRA is an acknowledged experiment," he told his fellow governors. "Clarence Darrow believes it has failed. Dr. William Wirt, in my state, looks under his bed every night for Reds. That is silly. One of the difficulties in the way of success for the NRA is the failure to adopt state codes, and I have promised to recommend such a measure to the next Indiana legislature."

Gov. Joseph L. Ely, also a Democrat, of Massachusetts, expressed the fear of a paternalistic government slowly evolving into a socialistic state, with increased domination over a people "made happy, contented, and prosperous by the rugged individualism of the past."

Points to Russia.

In Italy, Germany, and soviet Russia, he said, individualism has passed from the people to dictators and the people have become "children of government."

"Is that the sort of government we want?" he asked. "You may want it, but my desire is to stick as closely as possible to the government that made us happy and contented.

"As an emergency measure in these times the NRA is a perfectly good piece of legislation, but I can't see the United States under a permanent NRA and still be the government we have known and loved."

"Save Good Points."

He suggested that "the good points of the NRA might be made a permanent part of our laws as a guide to American business," and that "such features as child labor elimination and the right to collective bargaining would serve as beacons for business without the danger of a sudden change in codes by the edict of an industrial dictator."

Aubrey Williams, assistant administrator of the federal emergency relief administration, declared he did not think the people would stand for another winter of direct relief. He said that he believed a second works program would have to be devised along the lines of the civil works administration.

Stirs Lively Debate.

The assemblage engaged Williams in a lively debate, cross-examining him on the responsibility of governors for the administration of federal relief funds.

"I think all of these questions," said Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, "are being asked principally to impress on the national relief administration that the governors are responsible for anything that goes wrong with relief."

Gov. McNutt was elected chairman of the conference, which selected Biloxi, Miss., for the 1935 meeting. The governors also reorganized the executive committee of the conference for 1935 to include Governors Horner, M. S. Connor, Mississippi; John G. Winant, New Hampshire, and Alf Landon, Kansas. Cary Hardee, former governor of Florida, was reelected secretary and Gov. Stanley C. Wilson of Vermont was named treasurer.

BEDDING MAKERS HIT U. S. ENTRY IN MATTRESS FIELD

Call FERA Plan Death Blow to Industry.

A quietly instituted plan of the federal government to begin a large scale manufacture of mattresses was assailed yesterday by Cornelius Lynde, Chicago attorney for the National Bedding Manufacturing association, in a report to the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"The Federal Emergency Relief administration's proposal to manufacture 3,000,000 mattresses for the needy will demoralize completely an already devastated industry," Mr. Lynde charged. "It is another government error in the general program of competition with industry."

Plan Inquiry Group.

Acting on the report, which disclosed that the government two weeks ago began the purchase of cotton as part of the program, the executive committee authorized its chairman, John D. Black, to name a subsidiary group to conduct an investigation into government competition with industry. Members of the subcommittee have not yet been appointed.

Six large mattress manufacturing concerns and 2,000 smaller companies, fifty-six of them in Chicago, will be affected by the new phases of the FERA plan, Mr. Lynde said.

"The FERA claims the plan will aid cotton growers, but actually it contemplates the purchase of only 250,000 bales when the cotton surplus last year was 10,000,000 bales," he declared. "Instead, the manufacture of bedding by the FERA will glut the market and ruin an already hard hit industry.

$25 Mattress as U. S. Gift.

"The government mattresses are to be all cotton, according to FERA plans. This means that to the needy the government will give a $25 mattress, as compared with the present $10 part cotton bedding now generally sold."

This probably will mean, Mr. Lynde said, that after most of the mattresses have been used for relief purposes they will be sold again in the market second hand, thus destroying that market for the mattress industry.

Normal production of the American bedding industry is 6,000,000 mattresses, Mr. Lynde explained. Last year it dropped to 4,000,000, and this year the FERA contemplates the processing of one-third that number.

"The NRA has increased costs for manufacturers, while sales decreased," Mr. Lynde said. "In the smaller factories operating costs are barely met. The industry can't stand this new government competition."

Attempts of the National Bedding Manufacturing association to halt the FERA move have failed," Mr. Lynde declared.

WEST SUBURBS' CUT IN ELECTRIC RATES APPROVED

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday approved the reduced electric rate schedule for the northern division of the Western United Gas and Electric company. The new rates, recently ordered by the commission, are 19 per cent lower than the present charges and go into effect on Aug. 1. Among towns whose residents will benefit by a total saving of $325,750 annually are Aurora, Wheaton, Geneva, St. Charles, Naperville, Elgin, Glen Ellyn, Downers Grove, and Oswego.

Danville Army Major Receives Retirement Order

Washington, D. C., July 27.—(AP)—The war department announced today that Maj. Jewett C. Baker, infantry, Fort Leavenworth, Kas., had been ordered to proceed to his home, Danville, Ill., to await retirement.

Forest O'Brine, Endurance Flyer, Sues for Divorce

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—(AP)—Forest O'Brine, whose 27 day endurance flight four years ago established a world record, today filed suit to divorce Mrs. Elsie Blanche O'Brine.

MOTOR COMPANY INDICTED AS NRA CODE VIOLATOR

Accused of Selling Cars Too Cheaply.

An indictment alleging violation of a National Recovery Administration code was returned by the federal grand jury before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday against the Uptown Motors corporation, 4851-73 Broadway, and its president and general manager, Louis Stein. They are charged in eight counts with violation of the code of fair competition adopted for the motor vehicle retail trade.

It was the second indictment for alleged NRA violation to be returned in the Chicago area. The first was that against Piper's Service Station, Inc., and the Silver Flyer company, both of 7130 North Western avenue, and two officials of the latter company, charging violation of the code governing the petroleum industry. The case is still pending.

Unlawful Discount Charged.

The case against the Uptown Motors corporation was presented to the grand jury by Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall. The first count in the indictment alleges that the corporation and its president on April 4, 1934, sold to Leonard Freedman a coupe at $655, instead of at the retail price of $733 fixed by the code.

Count No. 2 charges that Stein and his company gave an unlawful discount of $78 to Freedman, by fictitiously crediting him with a $25 cash deposit and a $53 credit on a used automobile.

The third count alleges the sale on June 5, 1934, to O. F. Schlatter, Whiting, Ind., of an automobile for $613.40, whereas the code price is $663.40. Count No. 4 alleges that the illegal $50 discount allowed Schlatter caused him to purchase the car.

Too Much Allowance.

Count 5 alleges that on April 30, 1934, the company and its president allowed Katherine Thompson of Los Angeles $300 in trade-in value on a 1931 sport coupe listed in the NRA code as having a value of $215.

Count 6 charges that Samuel Rosenthal on Feb. 23, 1934, was allowed $380 for an automobile listed in the code at $327.50.

The seventh count alleges that on Jan. 2, 1934, Louis Rosenthal, brother of Samuel, was credited with a $50 deposit but paid only $5.

In the final count it is charged that W. M. Pruitt on May 1, 1934, in a bill of sale for a new Chevrolet master coach, was credited with $53, whereas he actually paid but $10 of the amount.

BAR ANTI-SALOON CHIEF AT HEARING ON BEER LICENSE

Charles F. Haffke, a dry from the state of Oregon who recently was appointed superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, tried to intervene yesterday in proceedings of the state liquor commission in the county board rooms.

The commission was hearing the protest of Mayor Herbert H. Vertrees of Pittsfield against the granting of a beer selling license to Carl Siegle, who operates a sandwich and soft drink establishment there.

Haffke arose and said he was speaking on behalf of Mayor Vertrees.

"Just a moment," interrupted Commissioner Milton J. Foreman. "Where do you live?"

"In Chicago," replied Haffke.

"Have you any personal knowledge of this case?"

"No, but I ——"

Commissioner Foreman cut him off. "This is not a debating society," the commissioner said, "and the mayor is not on trial and does not need representation."

Siegle, who pointed out that he was Mayor Vertrees' opponent at the last election, denied the charges that intoxicated persons frequented his store. The commission took the case under advisement.

BODY OF WOMAN, HATPIN IN BRAIN, IS FOUND BURNED

Winfield, Kas., July 27.—(AP)—Discovery of the burned body of an unidentified woman about 35 years old, with a five inch hatpin penetrating the head, confronted authorities with a mystery today.

The body was found in a field about two miles southwest of Hackney, Kas., by a railroad section crew that went to investigate a nearby burned field.

Sheriff M. C. Anders of Cowley county said the woman apparently had been dead for several hours. One leg virtually had been burned from the body.

Coroner A. E. Morris said he had not determined whether the woman died of the stabbing or was burned to death.

There were no indications of a struggle near where the body lay, Morris said.

Beside the body were bits of charred paper, identified as part of an oil and gas lease on land in Custer county, Okla., a man's charred purse containing three $1 bills partly burned, some coins, and a pair of spectacles.

Two Robbers Get $3,600 Printing Concern Pay Roll

Two robbers early yesterday walked into the office of the R. R. Donnelley & Sons company printing plant at 350 East Cermak road, pointed revolvers at Thomas Chambers, assistant pay roll clerk, and compelled him to hand over pay envelopes containing $3,600, representing the week's wages of 120 employes. The men escaped in an automobile driven by a confederate. The robbery occurred five minutes before the night force of 1,300 workers went off duty.

St. Charles 4-H Girl Wins in Kane Co. Health Test

Miss Helen Petty, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Petty of St. Charles, is the healthiest girl in Kane county. She won the honor yesterday at the county's annual 4-H club contest in Geneva. Her score was 100.

OVERRULES BOY'S FATHER; ORDERS LEG OPERATION

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—A court today ordered for crippled Johnny Hoffman Jr., 16, the surgical aid which his father denied him because of religious objections.

Judge Theodore Rosen of Municipal court ordered an operation on the boy's leg, saying, "The court will assume responsibility."

The elder Hoffman, his eyes flashing, cried:

"Any man who lays hand or knife on my boy does so at his own peril. It is a defiance of God!"

"I am confident the operation will be in conformity with the word of God," the judge replied. "I honestly believe in your sincerity and have respect for certain of your beliefs, although I cannot go all the way with you."

The boy's right leg was broken two years ago.

Death from Sunstroke Not Accidental, Judge Rules

Greenfield, Mass., July 27.—(AP)—Death from sunstroke is not accidental, Judge Thomas J. Hammond ruled today. He upheld an insurance company which claimed that the death of Herbert L. Brocklesby was not accidental, because he was aware of the effect of the sun's rays.

LUKE LEA JR. GRANTED PAROLE BY GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C., July 27.—(AP)—Luke Lea Jr. was today granted a parole from North Carolina state prison by Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus. It becomes effective tomorrow.

He was convicted of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the Central Bank and Trust company of Asheville at the special Superior court term of Buncombe county in July-August, 1931, and began serving his sentence of two to six years May 16, 1934.

His father, Luke Lea, former United States senator and "maker of governors" in Tennessee, who was convicted at the same time, will remain in prison.

$900,000 GRANTED TO MODERNIZE INDIAN HOGANS

PWA Cash for Electric Lights, Steam Heat.

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Through a PWA grant of $900,000, made possible by Great White Father Harold L. Ickes, the Navajo Indians of Arizona and New Mexico are going to get electric lights, steam heat and all other modern conveniences for their hogans. "Hogan" is the native name for the earthen lodges of the Navajos.

The Navajo development project was explained by John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, who holds the post to which Father Ickes modestly aspired before he was made secretary of the interior.

"Tales of Scoffers."

Tourists from New Mexico and Arizona have told stories about the Indians being supplied with cooking ranges bigger than their huts and safety razor sets for which they have no more use than a legless man has for shoes. The papooses are said to have received consignments of kiddie scooters, about as appropriate in the desert sands as ice skates would be, for there are no sidewalks.

Commissioner Collier said that he, too, had heard these stories, but that they were started by irreverent scoffers.

"I heard those stories a year ago," said Commissioner Collier, "and I am surprised that they are still being told. There may be some truth about the ranges and the kiddie cars, but if there is, the government didn't have anything to do with it. Some high pressure salesman may have taken them, but we don't sell them anything. They buy their supplies from private stores."

Old Tribesmen Resentful.

Mr. Collier admitted that the older tribesmen were resentful of the proposed steam heated hogans, for Indians like great open fires in the center of their councils, with the smoke curling up through a hole in the roof.

The principal idea of the Indian project is the building of a central council house for the amalgamation of six local governing agencies. Here the big chief and the elders may hold their pow-wows and smoke peace offerings to the great white father. Some of the money will be used for a water system and some for a small generator to provide the electric lights in the new Navajo capital.

The central government, which will be about 30 miles north of Gallup, N. M., will be represented in the six provinces of the 25,000 acre reservation by proconsuls who also will serve as school principals. Brand new hogans, with steel window frames opening on the east and with no windows on the north side, in true Indian tradition, will be erected for the schools.

RESIDENTS FLEE FROM BRUSH FIRE NEAR PASADENA

Pasadena, Cal., July 27.—(AP)—Residents of Arroyo Seco district north of Altadena were ordered to evacuate their homes late today because of the spread of brush fire raging out of control a few miles north of here.

Damage was estimated unofficially at more than $3,500,000. Two thousand men fought to stem the advance of the flames.

Speeded along by a northeasterly wind, the fire was roaring up scenic Mount Lower. About 300 cottages were in the path of the flames. Some had been destroyed. Forest rangers said there was no immediate danger of loss of life, but feared they would not get the fire under control before tomorrow.

Thirty-eight fire fighters, most of them CCC workers, were being treated for injuries. William V. Mendenhall, supervisor of the Los Angeles National forest, asked Jay Price, fifth regional forester at San Francisco, to come here by airplane to help.

The Arroyo Seco district extends ten miles from South Pasadena, through Pasadena, and beyond Altadena, but the fire was spreading east from the northern sector of the canyon. Neither Altadena nor Pasadena was endangered, because adequate firebreaks had been established to the south. Firebreaks also saved the La Vina sanitarium, which was in the path of the flames. The sanitarium has sixty tuberculosis patients.

ASTOR IS DENIED PLEA FOR QUICK SALE OF HOTEL

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—An application in behalf of Vincent Astor to strike out the answer of the Hotel St. Regis, Inc., and other defendants in the $5,000,000 foreclosure suit on the ground that there is no real defense, and the sale of the property should be ordered, was denied today by Supreme Court Justice Valente.

The court directed that the foreclosure suit and an action to enforce the $100,000 option for the furnishings be tried together.

Prof. Raymond Moley, who has been receiver of the hotel since last June, said today that Charles Caldwell, counsel for the interests which formerly controled and operated the hotel, "made an unfortunate statement" when he said in a court argument on Thursday that Mr. Moley "had been using the furniture, etc., of the Hotel St. Regis without paying for it. This was interpreted in the press as an indication that I personally had not paid my bill at the hotel."

TEXAS IS FACING FEED SHORTAGE; CATTLE SUFFER

Drouth Sears All Crops; Cotton Hard Hit.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., July 27.—[Special.]—Bewildered Texas ranchers and farmers face the possibility of standing almost empty handed at the end of the harvesting season with more than 18 million hungry, bellowing, bleating cattle, sheep, and Angora goats to feed this fall and winter. If the drouth suddenly ended with a long series of drenching rains, not a single major crop in the state would produce an average yield, according to crop experts and farmers.

Even wheat, oats, and other small grains, already threshed, have fallen below the normal mark, and millions of tons and bales are being whittled off the prospective yields of the growing crops every day. With the exception of a few limited areas that have had rains recently, the range land and cultivated districts are rapidly taking on the appearance of a desert.

Every County in State Hit.

Drouth with all its cruelties, ranking next to fire, is leaving its marks in almost every one of the 254 counties in the state. This includes the Texas cotton crop of nearly 11 million acres, the largest acreage of any state. Texas started out by sharing her part of the cotton belt reduction plan which left the United States with a total of 28,024,000 acres. With little rain during the last two months the dry weather has taken even a greater toll in this state than the cut made under the government's acreage reduction program.

No official estimate of the possible cotton yield can be announced until the Aug. 1 report to be issued about Aug. 8. Private reports of farmers and cotton men who have traveled in various parts of the state are extremely pessimistic.

Reports on Cotton Damage.

J. F. Bailey, a cotton expert, has just completed a trip from Fort Worth to Austin, crossing 200 miles of the richest cotton growing area in the state. He said yesterday that throughout the district the plants are generally dwarfed and blossoms are opening up on the top branches.

Damage to the cotton crop is much worse in other sections of Texas where the dry weather has been more severe.

The corn crop is now considered a complete failure over wide areas of Texas. G. E. Blewett, secretary of the Texas Grain Dealers' association and a student of the grain crops of Texas for twenty-four years, estimates that the corn crop of that state will not be more than 20,000,000 bushels.

Use Wheat for Feed.

With an extremely short corn crop in the making, and little left over from last year's short crop of 74,000,000 bushels, Texas farmers say they were being forced to feed their wheat and oats instead of selling these crops for cash.

The oat crop of 36,000,000 bushels fell slightly under last season's harvest. The Texas wheat crop of 26,000,000 bushels, produced on about two and a half million acres, is approximately 5,000,000 bushels under the state's ten year average.

In the Panhandle region of northwest Texas, Milo and Kaffir crops are making a fair showing due to recent rains over limited areas.

JURY DEMANDS REPORTER TELL OF RELIEF FRAUD

The Cook county grand jury today will file a petition with Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court asking him to determine whether A. L. Sloan, reporter for an afternoon newspaper, is in contempt of court because he refuses to give information concerning alleged frauds by employés and clients of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The jury, which is beginning an investigation of the alleged frauds, made the request verbally yesterday, but Judge Finnegan directed that it be put into writing.

Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright presented the request of the grand jury a few minutes after Sloan was called into the grand jury rooms. The prosecutor told the judge:

"Sloan said he had positive information concerning the frauds but he would not tell who told him. He said he knew nothing of his own knowledge. I asked him about charges that the relief commission has a padded pay roll as he stated in a news story. I asked him about his charges that recipients of relief who have regained employment remain on the rolls, and I asked him about his charges that duplicate orders were being issued. His reply in each case was that he would tell nothing."

"I thought we were going to get coöperation in this thing," said Judge Finnegan, turning to Sloan and his attorney, Edward G. Woods.

"Well, we might be seriously involved if it is disclosed where the records from which we obtained our information were obtained. We are willing to tell where they can be found," replied the lawyer.

U. S. Drouth Relief Doles Costliest Item on Budget

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—[Special.]—Drouth, spreading like a scourge over the west, has put 1,600,000 persons on the relief rolls and made the cost of the dole the most expensive item in the federal budget.

Treasury department reports today showed that a third of all the money paid out by the government during the week ended Wednesday went for relief. Throughout the country more than 18 million people are dependent on the federal government for the necessities of life.

Six Millions a Day.

Six million dollars a day were paid out in the week to feed, clothe, and shelter the needy. Relief outlays for the week totaled 42 millions. Thus far in this month relief has cost the taxpayers 126 million dollars.

Because of the drouth the usual summer letup in relief costs has not materialized, the Federal Relief administration disclosed today. The aggregate of people on the dole, as officially reported by the relief administration, has not shifted for weeks.

In the drouth area alone 400,000 families, or about 1,600,000 individuals, are reported by the relief administration to be dependent on the government. Unofficial estimates place the number much higher.

Cripples New Deal Plan.

While it was driving thousands of men, women, and children onto the relief rolls, the drouth at the same time has dealt a crippling blow to the New Deal recovery program. The AAA is being forced to consider abandonment of nature tinkering in wheat and cotton. All the easy money agencies are striving to make up for the farm purchasing power which the drouth has wiped out.

Loss of purchasing power by the nation's farmers probably is the most serious effect of the drouth, federal experts admit. The usual slump which business gets in the fall as crops go to market and cash comes to farmers will be almost nonexistent this year.

Inflation or some other panacea may seize the imaginations of the hard pressed farm population unless drastic measures are taken by the New Dealers to ease their lot, observers fear. For this reason and also in an attempt to build up purchasing power artificially, easy money outfits are seeking to pour billions into stricken farm areas.

Plan More Easy Cash.

In line with these efforts Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has announced that the government will expand its cattle purchases to about 7 million head. Beside relieving the pasture shortage this program is intended to put easy money dollars into the depleted pockets of farmers.

Work relief projects, road building, tree planting, well drilling, and numerous other types of work are being undertaken at government expense in an effort to employ farmers who find their fields no longer worth tilling.

Remove Surgical Sponge from Warden Lawes' Leg

Ossining, N. Y., July 27.—(AP)—Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison was operated on at the prison hospital today for what surgeons thought was a tumor on the left leg. They found, however, that a surgical sponge had been left in the leg after a previous operation.

72 HOURS PROVED THE SELLING POWER OF THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

FOR GOODYEAR G-3 TIRES

Quick check showed sudden wave of buying in Chicago and surrounding towns

After gruelling tests in the factory and on the road, Goodyear's new G-3 tire was ready. "In Chicago we chose the Tribune," says J. E. Mayl, "not only for its influence in Chicago, but throughout the middle west."

72 hours after the appearance of Goodyear's first full page announcement in the Tribune, they received the kind of definite reactions from dealers and car owners which assured sales success. And sales to date are at an increasing rate.

For years Goodyear has had conclusive evidence of the city-wide and market-wide influence and power of the Chicago Tribune. During the past ten and one-half years alone they placed 268,495 lines of tire advertising in the Tribune.

When they launched their new G-3 tire campaign Goodyear was well aware that they were achieving maximum coverage of every factor essential to quick success in the Chicago market. They were covering 620,000 families in metropolitan Chicago. They were also reaching 293,000 additional families in the key cities and towns adjacent to the metropolitan district.

The advertising medium best qualified to put your product over in the Chicago market is the Tribune. Send for a Tribune representative and let him help you work out a plan to sell to best advantage in this market.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Chicago, Illinois
Dear Sir:
When plans were made for the introduction of our new "G-3" All-Weather Tread Tire this year, by a nationwide newspaper and magazine campaign, we included the Chicago Tribune on our schedule for six full pages in Sunday issues and supplementary space on Tuesdays.
We chose the Tribune not only for its influence in Chicago but throughout the middle west, as this campaign was of necessity concentrated primarily in big city papers, chosen to cover large surrounding areas.
The outstanding success of this campaign, we believe, is of more than advertising significance. It demonstrates the way to sound recovery by proving that if you will build something better, something the public wants — and then tell the public honestly what you have to offer — there is no problem to selling goods in 1934.
The response to this campaign and the new product it announced was instantaneous. Sales jumped immediately. Customers went to Goodyear dealers with their minds made up to buy. In a surprising number of cases they bought whole sets of this new "G-3". Sales to car owners in the month of May registered very satisfactory gains over April sales.
Within 72 hours after the first advertisement appeared, we made a quick check of Goodyear dealers in Chicago and found them unusually active. Reports from surrounding small towns showed that the announcement of this new tire was producing the same sudden wave of buying everywhere. There can be no doubt that the advertising was seen, read, and acted upon, for customers knew the dramatic story of this tire and its development exactly as it was told in the advertising.
We rate this campaign, introducing the new "G-3" All-Weather and telling how it was developed to deliver 43% more non-skid mileage, as the most spectacular success in all our experience.
Very truly yours,

52% MORE city and suburban Chicago families read the Tribune than any other Chicago daily newspaper — a preference that is just as definite with Chicago women as it is with Chicago men.

DEALERS recommend the Chicago Tribune because they see its sales power every day in extra sales that were started for them by Tribune advertisers.

MILLIONS PLUS. With the money spenders of the entire country coming to A Century of Progress, Tribune advertisers obtain an attractive bonus circulation.

TRIBUNE TOWN'S 3,080,311 families register 2,042,018 passenger automobiles — and the Tribune carries more passenger car lineage than any other Chicago newspaper.

MARKET RESPONSE is sure where reader response is certain. On Sunday the Tribune reaches 293,000 additional families in the important Chicago-minded cities beyond the metropolitan area.

Paula Uihlein Will Be Bride at Rites Today

Final Race Program to Be Held at Arlington.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A WEDDING reception and the closing day of Arlington's all too short season will attract most of society away from the city this afternoon. The reception will follow the marriage of Miss Paula Uihlein, daughter of Edgar John Uihlein, and Alfred Uihlein, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Uihlein of Milwaukee. It will be held at Midwood, the home of the bride's father in Lake Bluff.

Only the relatives and intimate friends will be gathered around two great trees on the lawn to witness the ceremony, but even so it will be a sizable group, for the bride and bridegroom belong to a large family, well known in Chicago and Milwaukee, and all the relatives from both cities will be there.

Will Receive Guests on Lawn.

The Rev. Herbert W. Prince of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest will read the service and then at 5 o'clock daylight saving time Mr. and Mrs. Uihlein and their parents will receive the reception guests under the same two trees that will shade them during the marriage ceremony. At their backs will be the woods through which paths lead to the lake and in front of them will stretch the lovely green lawn and the colorful perennial gardens that lie between the house and the woods.

Miss Uihlein will be attended by Miss Helen D'Oller of Morristown, N. J., as maid of honor and by the bride's sister, Mrs. Ludington Patton Jr. of Milwaukee, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Claire Benske and Miss Katherine Brumder, cousins of the bride from Milwaukee; Miss Jane Brooks, Miss Eleanor Wheeler, Miss Louise Clarke, and Miss Marjorie Bertha.

Frederick Uihlein will serve as his brother's best man, and ushering will be the bride's brother, Edgar J. Uihlein Jr., and Joseph Uihlein Jr., Mr. Patton Jr., and Albert O. Trostel Jr. of Milwaukee; John W. Brittingham and Donald R. McLennan Jr. of Chicago, Abram Rose Jr. and Ivy Lee of New York, John Larkin Jr. of Hillsboro, O., and Lindsay Helmholz of Rochester, Minn.

Mr. Uihlein and his bride are leaving tonight for a month at Jasper Park, after which they will be at home at 612 North Washington street, Baltimore, Md., near the Johns Hopkins Medical school, where the bridegroom is studying.

Luncheon Parties at Arlington.

Having luncheon at the Post and Paddock club before the races start will be many socialites, including Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Lehmann, and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wheeler, all of whom will entertain parties on the balcony of the attractive clubhouse. The Thomas E. Wilsons, the Silas H. Strawns, the Henry N. Rowleys, Mr. and Mrs. Armin W. Brand, and the Benjamin L. Behrs are some of the others who will give luncheon parties in the club.

The young people who next fall and winter will be written about as "the debutante set" now are having a taste of the busy gayety that will be theirs then, for many small parties are being given for them this summer on the north shore. Tonight the junior Joseph T. Bowens are having about thirty for dinner and dancing at their home for their daughter, Gwendolyn.

Miss Louise Stanton has decided that not even the gayety of a season as a debutante shall delay her pursuit of the study of dramatic art, so instead of having a debut she is going to enter the Goodman school in the fall. Last year she was a freshman at Vassar with Miss Frances Whedon, Miss Henrietta Boal, and Miss Leslie Wilson, all of whom are to be debutantes this year. Miss Stanton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanton of White Thorns, Wayne.

Destroy Polo Ponies Made Ill by Heat.

A sad aftermath of the polo game last Sunday between Fort Sheridan and Oakbrook was that two of the ponies suffered such bad results from the intense heat that they had to be destroyed. One of them was Robert W. McIlvaine's pony, Reigh Mac. No such casualties will result from tomorrow's game, in which Oakbrook and the Lake Shore team will play.

Mr. McIlvaine will captain the Oakbrook team with James A. Hanna, Col. Richard Hunt, and Lieut. William Kirby as the others of the foursome. On the opposing team will be S. Prentice Porter, Roy D. Keehn Jr., John Bowers, and Jacob A. Schaefer.

Because of the Junior league production of "Little Red Riding Hood," now playing at the Children's theater on the Enchanted Island at the Fair, has been such a great success A Century of Progress officials have asked the league members to continue the play during the first two weeks of August instead of stopping now.

Needless to say the cast is flattered at the request, and, although it means another two weeks of difficulties and hard work to produce the play every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, they will go through with it.

The Russell Kelleys and their little daughter, Pamela, are leaving Monday for a month in California. Mrs. Kelley and Pam are spending this week-end in northern Wisconsin at the Adventurers' camp, where young Russell is for July and August. Russell is only eight and a half, but he is about the best rifle shot at the camp, where there are boys from 8 to 18, and he also is one of the best in archery.

The camp is a popular week-end rendezvous with parents of boys who are there, for it is equipped to take care of mothers and fathers and young

Barrington Club to Open Pool

Mrs. Harold Byron Smith, the former Polly Hart, is one of the young Barrington matrons on the committee in charge of a dinner dance that will be given tonight to open the Barrington Hills Country club's new swimming pool. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be among those dining and dancing and watching the bathing suit fashion show at the party, which probably will end with every one changing into a suit and taking a swim. LUTHER GREEN was walking past Delaware place and Michigan avenue the other day, absorbed in plans for the International Exhibition of Theater Art, which is coming to town Aug. 6 for two months, when he noticed that something was wrong. He stared first at the Italian fruit vender on one corner, then at the ice-cream-on-a-stick man on the other corner. Then he realized what was strange. He frequently had seen the fruit man nibbling at a peach or a banana and the ice cream man working on one of his squares, but this time the ice cream man was munching a pear and the fruit vender was licking at a frozen sweet. They both were grinning amiably.

IF we can believe our informant, about 10 o'clock on a recent evening a man approached the Ford building at A Century of Progress and wanted in.

"But I'm Edsel Ford," insisted the seeker after admittance.

"And I'm Mahatma Ghandi," returned the night man. "Get along with you."

BY ANNA NANGLE.

That busy man from Oklahoma, Will Rogers, is back on the Chicago screen—and quite as palatable as ever. His vehicle is a typical one, clean, simple, and entertaining.

Andy Yates is an old fashioned druggist—the kind you knew when you were a kid—who really dispenses drugs, is acquainted with every one in town, can read the doctor's handwriting, and, in general, is as much a part of a small community as that single Samaritan. A well liked and happy go lucky fellow, life runs smoothly for him, except when he bumps into one of his young and beautiful wife's bright ideas. She's not a malicious woman—just a short sighted, pesty one with social and vocal ambitions, both of which are thorns in her extremely plain husband's flesh.

Said wifey badgers him into selling his drug store—"so that he can enjoy life before age creeps on." After much pressure Andy finally gives in, and in his every endeavor to find something to do with himself, annoys the lady more than ever before. He's under her and every one else's feet constantly, and the poor man is like a bull in a china shop. Well, Andy finally learns how to play in New Orleans, whither he has been dragged unwillingly—but not in the way Mrs. Yates intended. He gets even with that lady, all right!

The love interest is supplied—almost too vivaciously, I thought, by Mary Carlisle, as the only Yates offspring. Two beaus compete for her hand—the doctor's son and the new druggist's heir. You guess which is the favorite of her papa.

True love and constant occupation win out in the long run, but there's a lot of fun in watching the happy ending evolve. Andy's struggles with his dog, his cats, his pigeons, and golf are most amusing—and his Tarzan act is really uproarious.

Naturally, the picture is the star's. The supporting cast is adequate, although nothing to bowl you over. The dialog is excellent, settings satisfactory [although Andy's home is pretty darn fancy for the average druggist, methinks] and direction all it need be.

In case you're interested, a glimpse of that self-admitted Romeo, Max Baer, may also be had for the price of admission to the Chicago theater this week.

Gaumont Launches Plan to Invade U. S. with British Films

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—Plans for the first organized "film invastion" of the United States were announced today by the Gaumont-British Picture corporation, limited.

Jeffrey Bernerd, general manager of the corporation, it was said, will sail tomorrow to begin a "coast to coast distribution of British films throughout the United States."

"We do not only plan to establish a chain of distribution centers, but will take over key theaters throughout the country for exploiting British films," said C. M. Wolfe, managing director of the company.

"We're going to make Hollywood sit up and take notice. We will compete for directors and artists, and pay as much as—I expect that in some cases we will have to pay even more than—the Americans.

"I can't say what we expect to pay for exploitation, but we are setting no limit."

He announced that George Arliss, who left the United States to make one picture for Gaumont, has contracted to make two more.

Sally to Announce New Party and List of Winners Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Wait 'till you boys and girls see tomorrow's TRIBUNE! Lots of news in it, you know—a whole column devoted just to you youngsters, in addition to the comic section and other features for children.

First of all, there'll be news of our next big party—and it's so good that I'm beginning to think I'm a prize party-picker.

Then, 50 boys and 50 girls who succeeded in convincing me that they'd really enjoy our Buddy Rogers party at the Hotel Sherman next week, and remembered our three little rules, will find their names listed as winners of invitations. Letters containing instructions for meeting will be mailed as soon as possible, and Wednesday, August 1, will be the big day! So unless you're not in the least interested in good times, I wouldn't advise any of you to miss your Sunday TRIBUNE.

Mr. and Mrs. Carll Tucker of Mount Kisco, N. Y., will return in the early part of August from a sojourn abroad.

Players Give Birthday Party for Skipworth

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 27.—[Special.]—It was Alison Skipworth's 58th birthday anniversary and the director, Lewis Milestone, and all principals of "Captain Hates the Sea" rehersed a scene not in the script, to surprise the comedienne. The scene was laid in Columbia studio's reproduction of the dining salon of the passenger liner Ruth Alexander, which had been chartered for the three weeks of scenes shot at sea.

When Miss Skipworth walked in, Wynne Gibson, John Gilbert, Milestone, Victor McLaglen, Florence Rice, Fred Keating, Leon Errol, and Tala Birell began the strange scene. She acted slightly confused but played right back to the other actors, and everybody kept a straight face until the ship's steward walked in bearing a huge cake.

Then all sang "Happy Birthday to You" as the cameras kept on turning.

Miss Skipworth, considerably flustered, was handed a knife and told to cut the cake, but as she did so an arrangement contrived by the prop department broke the cake into halves and two doves flew out. Then Leon Errol came in bringing the real cake, but just as he got to Alison his rubber leg gave way and he deposited the cake in her lap.

It was lifted onto the table and cut into pieces for everybody in the company. A toy horse and red wagon were two of the gag gifts she received.

Larry Fine, stooge comedian who is in the picture, got on the table to make a funny speech, but involuntarily backed into one of those traveling ceiling fans and was knocked off the table, which struck everybody present as funnier than his speech. Fine wasn't hurt. The saying goes that "You can't hurt one of Ted Healy's stooges."

For some strange reason Nick Foran, whose name goes with his red hair, happy go lucky air and robust appearance, desires to have his name recorded as "John Foran" on the cast sheet of Warner's "Just Out of College."

Verree Teasdale's part in Warner's "The Firebird," which is the big chance of her not so old movie career, is causing postponement of the date of her wedding to Adolph Menjou, which had been Aug. 14. She'll finish the film first. Two actresses new to Hollywood who also are getting first chances in "The Firebird" are Nan Gray, 16 years old, from Houston, Tex., and Florence Fair from the New York stage.

Lois January has left by motor to visit the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition. Claudette Colbert told Jack Foley, sound effect man on "Imitation of Life" at Universal: "I had the strangest dream about you. We were on an outdoor picture and you came along on the other side of the fence and killed the supervisor with a gun."

John M. Stahl, directing the picture, who had overheard, stepped up to Foley and shook his hand.

It looks as if Sylvia Sidney is to do a walkout on a Paramount picture for the second time in one year. She was cast for "Limehouse Nights" with George Raft and Anna May Wong, but demurred. So has Bette Davis, under contract to Warner's. Paramount intended to borrow Miss Davis. The girls don't want to play the unsympathetic part. Bette, in particular, fears the result of the part on her movie career, right after her rôle "Of Human Bondage."

"I don't want to appear in any more extreme parts right away," she told her studio. Heather Angel may go into "Limehouse Nights." . . . Ruby Keeler is back from New York with 16 pieces of luggage and accompanied by her sister Gertrude, who intends to keep on in movies.

Harry Lauder II., nephew of the Scotch comedian, has been signed to an M-G-M contract as technical adviser on "What Every Woman Knows," laid in Scotland. . . . Ralph Murphy, directing the Francis Lederer-Joan Bennett colonial story, "Pursuit of Happiness," fell so sick from an infected wisdom tooth in the middle of the picture he had to be replaced by Alexander Hall as director. . . . Murphy went to a hospital. . . . Duke Yorke and Ida Lupino both admit a diamond ring she is wearing on the proper finger is Duke's gift, but they admit no more than that.

Joe Breen, in charge of the Hays been submerged by film writings and writers for several days following reports that novels, plays, and original stories should be submitted for approval before being placed in film form. Breen announces he issued no orders to this effect, but that the process of having the movies' one office's intra-industry censorship, has man censor board go over unpurchased screen material was a voluntary one by producers intending to save money on films which would not be approved. Breen says that every studio already is loaded down with stories, already paid for, which cannot be made into films.

Clergymen to Open Annual Institute at U. of C. on Monday

More than 300 clergymen of various denominations will assemble tomorrow and Monday on the campus of the University of Chicago for the third annual pastors' institute. The institute is conducted jointly by the University of Chicago Divinity school, the Chicago Theological seminary, and the Disciples' Divinity house. Nine courses of lectures through a period of two weeks will be conducted.

Moday evening the institute will officially open with a service of worship in the University of Chicago chapel. Massed choirs of 450 voices from the Choirmasters' guild of Chicago will offer selections from oratorios and Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, will deliver the sermon.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A hot day is forgotten after a glorious bath with English lavender soap and a rub down with lavender.

Now that being a lady is quite the thing again one of the loves of our lifetime is coming back into its own. Not so long ago any young woman who tried even feebly to be in the swim would admit to murder before she'd confess that she liked lavender better than any hotsy totsy musk. Thank fashion for the return to femininity, say we.

If you share our passion for English lavender you'll be enthused over the summer set of three plump bars of bland complexion soap and a bottle of lavender that we found in a store the other day. Very British. It doesn't cost much and it's the grandest possible addition to the summer tubbings.

Aside from being a sweet scent and one that many gentle people have preferred for almost two centuries, lavender is something of a deodorant. Perfume will rise above it—but it will do its subtle share in guarding the vitally important aura of freshness.

The complexion soap is mild. We didn't find one skin that suffered the slightest irritation after a wash in it. The bars last a long time, too, though they do make a frothy lather. We're told it's aged for a year before it's placed on the market. Men, we find, are just as fond of this soap as women. The lavender scent in it is faint, which probably reassures the poor dears and dispels their horrible fears of being sissy.

The bottle of lavender has a shaker top. You can sprinkle the sweet smelling lotion into the tub, on your hands, over your body or, if being delicately romantic is your forte, into your locks. This last touch used to slay the gallants of a hundred years ago—and they do say that history repeats itself.

Doses of Sunshine Vitalize, But Beware of Extra Amount

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Too much cannot be said in favor of fresh air and sunshine. I do feel most of us appreciate the benefits of sun bathing and enjoy it to the utmost. At least, a visit to our beaches seems to bear me out in this belief. There we find father, mother, and the whole family in their bathing and sun suits getting the benefits which old sol hands out free of charge.

Along with the benefits there are precautions which must be taken, for in too large doses those rays of the sun may exact a toll, especially if you belong to the thin, tender skinned group of humanity. If so, you should use one of those creams whose purpose is to absorb the burning rays and so protect sensitive skin from painful burning or even blistering, and at the same time allow you to tan to your heart's content.

But avoid a sunburn you should! It is bound to coarsen and thicken your skin and make it anything but a thing of beauty for some time afterward. Just remember to take your sunshine in moderate doses and so reap the benefits without any of the possible calamities. Sunshine vitalizes the entire system, gives a sparkle to the eye and a glow to the skin. And it will do much for certain skin eruptions.

It does a lot of good to the hair, invigorating the scalp and correcting mild cases of oiliness. It may even help dandruff. If the hair is inclined to be dry it is well to protect it against prolonged exposure, just as you protect your skin. Where drying has occurred there are oily scalp tonics to overcome the condition.

The sun will bleach the hair, too, so the blonde who wishes to retain an even shade must needs resort to her cartwheel after a short exposure of her golden locks. Hair uncovered to the sun for long periods daily is bound to become dry and brittle.

There are so many exercises which will keep you out in the sun and air. You want to learn to play golf, tennis, to swim. They are healthful and beneficial exercises, as well as giving much pleasure.

Lists Fashion Fancies to Be Indulged Now

Expert Gives Hints for the Week-end Shopper.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Passing fancies for a summer week-end. Some new, beflowered bandeaux for young dancers, made of wee little buds smaller than have been used all summer, consequently twice as wearable.

Knockout fringed, thin linen neckerchiefs, in rather spectacular color contrast, most of them in geometric designs, a few pastel tints are available, but the stronger colors are much more effective with simple white dresses for general wear.

New costume jewelry for thin summer evening costumes, in turquoise blue and pale pink . . . clips combined with dusky gold, blue with silver, and the same combines reversed. Bracelets of the same colored beads are in multistrand formation with clasps like clusters of berries, with leaves of either silver or gold metal.

Colored bead costume jewelry in stunning new high colors—orange, jade green, lapis blue, lemon yellow, black, brown, and navy blue. They look like old fashioned affairs made of seeds, but they are splendid contrasts of color for summer dresses and can be used later on with thin woolens and slim, one piece fall frocks.

Here's a new perfume trick to make you fashionable. When you wear any of the flowered capes, those short, very feminine affairs made entirely of flowers, try a drop of your favorite scent in every other blossom. For instance, some carnation perfume on a spicy red carnation cape, rose fragrance on a rose cape, and any other combination you may desire. It's a nice trick and will keep everybody wondering.

Parasol collectors will notice the grand assortment of transparent Japanese umbrellas priced at small sums that can be found in one shop. They are decorative sunshades in all bright and gay colors, with a smaller-than-usual diameter for particular souls who were bothered by the larger models.

Can You COOK?

In tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune, in the Woman's Section, Mary Meade, Tribune home economics editor, tells you how to make Chicken Pot Pie—with tapioca! Read her article, and then try it out on friend husband for dinner some night during the week. Make note of his comments.

●And the article is very interesting otherwise. It is illustrated in three colors and tells how tapioca was first discovered—how Portuguese adventurers, in the 16th century, stranded in East Africa, discovered natives making delicious tapioca from tuber roots. How the secret was brought back to Spain. And from there to Java—of all places!

●Read Mary Meade's helpful cooking articles, every day and Sunday. Follow them faithfully, keep a handy file of her hints and helps. Mary Meade is constantly experimenting and discovering new culinary secrets. She wants to share them with you. Be sure to read her tapioca article. It's in the Woman's Section of tomorrow's

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Belchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child doesn't know the cause of her mother's long absence and grieves for her. Fearing for the child's health, Nanna, her nurse, wires Cecily. David, who is about to marry Audrey, is giving a dinner party for her when Cecily arrives. Nanna admits Cecily secretly. David stops in the nursery before retiring and sees Cecily sleeping beside Rose Ann. Suspecting she plans to kidnap the child, he lies in wait till morning. Then he orders her and Nanna from the house. Audrey is blackmailed by the wife of the deceased innkeeper she had bribed to swear that Cecily and Reggie had shared the same room a night they were marooned due to motor trouble. David is arranging through his lawyer to make a settlement on Audrey before their marriage. Rose Ann develops brain fever. The specialist called in orders David to send for the child's mother.

INSTALMENT XII.

A RIVAL'S WARNING.

David and Cecily sat down together on the divan in the lounge, and he forgot to let go of her hand. Dr. Jasper was making them feel like a pair of criminals.

"Where is the nurse?" he said. "I mean the child's ordinary nurse."

Nanna came out from behind the baize service door where she had hidden herself and could listen.

"I'm here, sir," she said.

Then Dr. Jasper began to ask questions to which perhaps he already knew the answers, for Dr. MacDermott had fully primed him.

Why, when he had been warned by their family doctor had Mr. Marshall not sent for the child's mother at once?

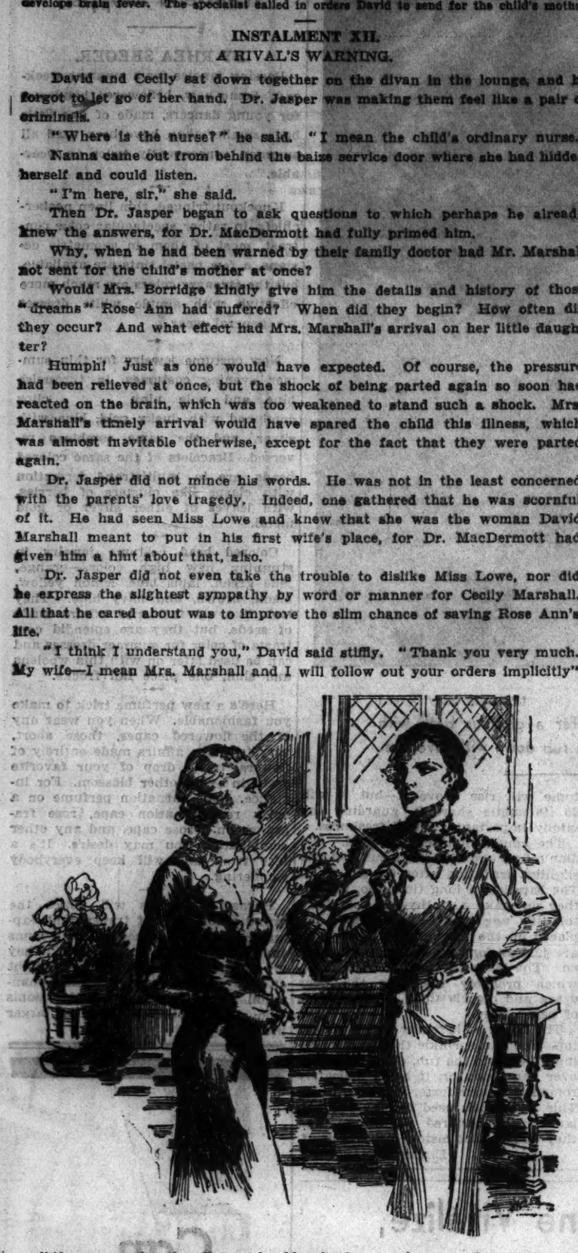
Would Mrs. Borridge kindly give him the details and history of those "dreams" Rose Ann had suffered? When did they begin? How often did they occur? And what effect had Mrs. Marshall's arrival on her little daughter?

Humph! Just as one would have expected. Of course, the pressure had been relieved at once, but the shock of being parted again so soon had reacted on the brain, which was too weakened to stand such a shock. Mrs. Marshall's timely arrival would have spared the child this illness, which was almost inevitable otherwise, except for the fact that they were parted again.

Dr. Jasper did not mince his words. He was not in the least concerned with the parents' love tragedy. Indeed, one gathered that he was scornful of it. He had seen Miss Lowe and knew that she was the woman David Marshall meant to put in his first wife's place, for Dr. MacDermott had given him a hint about that, also.

Dr. Jasper did not even take the trouble to dislike Miss Lowe, nor did he express the slightest sympathy by word or manner for Cecily Marshall. All that he cared about was to improve the slim chance of saving Rose Ann's life.

"I think I understand you," David said stiffly. "Thank you very much. My wife—I mean Mrs. Marshall and I will follow out your orders implicitly."



"Keep your hands off David. You had your chance. Because he's soft about Rose Ann you needn't think he's forgiven you."

"If you don't you will certainly lose your little girl," was Jasper's comforting retort.

Then he turned to Nanna. "I wonder if you could get me a bite of lunch?" he said. "I must stay here until MacDermott comes back."

Cecily jumped to her feet, forgetting completely that she was no longer the mistress of Maple Grange.

"Of course——" she said. She crossed to the fireplace and rang the bell for Mason. "You must be tired after your journey, too. Do make yourself comfortable, Dr. Jasper."

"I am never tired," said the man from Manchester.

Nobody was going to get any change out of him. Cecily felt that he thoroughly despised them all.

Time marched on and the early winter's twilight began to fall. It seemed to Audrey, waiting in the garden room, that David must have forgotten her existence, and, in a way, that was true. At least he had forgotten that she was there. She smoked cigaret after cigaret, until her case was emptied, and then, unable to bear the suspense any longer, rang for Mason, asking him to bring her some cigarets and brandy.

She felt that she had a perfect right to question the butler, even about Cecily.

Mason told her that Mr. David was lying down. Dr. MacDermott had given him a sedative and insisted upon his taking a little rest. Mrs. Marshall was upstairs with Mrs. Borridge and the doctor from Manchester was staying all night. Another hospital nurse had been sent for. Miss Rose Ann was still in a stupor, but her temperature had gone down another point. There might be a crisis tonight, or it might go on for some days longer if the child's strength held out.

It was nearly six o'clock now, and she had not forgotten the Partridge woman she was to meet at seven. She told Mason to have a taxi for her at ten minutes to seven, and meanwhile if Mr. Marshall woke up to say she would like to see him a moment.

"Very good, miss," said the butler.

Audrey lit another cigaret and sipped the brandy slowly.

What was she going to do about that Partridge woman? The problem was facing her almost immediately, and since Reggie refused to deal with it she had to think it out for herself. In a way it was just as well Reggie had refused. He was such a blunderbuss—one of Nature's bungiers. If he hadn't been such a complete ass he would have seen through the trick that had made him the co-respondent in David's divorce—seen through it and exploded it.

The door opened quietly and Audrey Lowe let the glass she was holding slip from her fingers.

Cecily had come in.

It was too late to retreat, or perhaps Cecily did not want to.

"How do you do," she said. "It's a long time since we have met, Audrey."

Her voice was soft and gentle. Cecily was too broken to be harsh, even with this successful rival.

"Yes—it is a long time," Audrey said. She looked ruefully down at the shattered glass and added nervously: "Dear me, look what I've done!"

"I'm afraid I startled you," said Cecily.

"How is—how is Rose Ann?" Audrey cleared her throat.

"I think she's better," Cecily said. "I really do—I don't care what that doctor says. They let me sit beside her for a little while this afternoon and hold her hand, and although she was unconscious, somehow I felt she knew I was there."

"Really?" said Audrey in a dry tone of voice. With great difficulty she prevented herself from being supercilious.

Curious, that Cecily seemed above all human passions. There was a subdued but starry radiance about her that Audrey simply could not endure.

"I suppose you think you've got him back," she said sharply.

"Who, David?"

"Yes. It was a clever trick, Cecily."

Cecily stared at her.

"No—no," she said hurriedly. "I haven't got David back. I haven't thought about anything like that."

"O, haven't you? That's what you really came for, you know. You may be able to fool him, but you can't fool me. It was just a trick, and if that child dies you can thank yourself for it."

Cecily shivered and drew back a step.

"Why should you hate me like that?" she asked, her voice quavering.

"I don't take the trouble to hate you," Audrey said. "But I'm going to warn you. Keep your hands off David. He belongs to me, now. You had your chance and you lost him. Because he's gone a little soft about Rose Ann you needn't think he's forgotten or forgiven what you did to him. David hates you, if you like—he told me so with his own lips only last night."

Cecily threw back her shoulders and her chin went up.

"Perhaps he won't hate me so much when it's proved that I never did anything to him—except love him."

"Proved? Are you crazy? How do you expect to prove the impossible?"

"I wouldn't if it were impossible," Cecily replied. "But it isn't."

Audrey's head whirled. She didn't understand this new attitude of Cecily's. It had come out of the blue and might betoken a very real danger. Nevertheless she laughed, and it was by no means a pretty laugh.

Mrs. W. H. Mitchell Goes to California.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell left Lake Forest Thursday for a long anticipated visit to Santa Barbara, where her parents, the Charles Garfield Kings, are now. In a week or so Mr. Mitchell plans to follow her, taking the children with him. They will be away about six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch are giving up their apartment on East Walton place the middle of next week and when they move back to town next fall from their summer place at Golf they will go to the Drake hotel, where their son, Jack, is one of the assistant managers. The former Mary Elizabeth Couch and her husband, Alfred N. Mitchell, and their two baby sons are leaving on Aug. 9 to sail the following day from New York for England. They will take a house in Bournemouth for two months and then they will continue on their way to India, their home.

Mrs. Hayden Harris has left for an eastern trip, which will consist of a round of visits with friends up to and through Labor day. While Lincoln and Huntington Harris are cruising on the lake, and Valerie is enjoying the summer at a girls' camp in Michigan, Mr. Harris plans to follow his inviolate rule of remaining in town throughout the summer months.

Interesting News of Charlevoix.

Sheila Cudahy, daughter of the junior Edward A. Cudahys, has returned to Lake Forest after a visit with Grace Shumway at Charlevoix. Grace and her mother, Mrs. Edward D. Shumway, and young Edward, are spending the summer in their cottage at the Chicago club and Mr. Shumway joins them for week-ends.

The Ralph N. Ishams are visiting at the Warner cottage on the club grounds. Mrs. Ezra J. Warner and her daughters, Mrs. Sheldon Dick and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, are occupying the cottage this season.

Mrs. Edward H. Hagey, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Harris Whiting, at Charlevoix, Mrs. Whiting, Nancy Whiting, and the Oscar W. Johnsons, who also are summering at Charlevoix, are spending this week on a camping trip in the vicinity.

Mrs. George J. Jaeger Jr. and her baby have deserted Lake Forest temporarily and are with her mother, Mrs. George B. Douglas of Cedar Rapids, in Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson, senior and junior, Miss Cynthia Wilson, and Albert Keep left yesterday on the Malabar for a two weeks' cruise.

Leaving for the west next Tuesday will be Mr. and Mrs. Winston Elting (Marjorie Horton). They are driving west to spend ten days at the H F Bar ranch in Wyoming. Miss Lillian Harris will occupy the Eltings' little house in Wayne while they are away.

Miss Nancy Morse has gone west, too, out to California, to visit her father, Samuel F. B. Morse, and her fiancé, Lent Hooker, and his father, Robert G. Hooker. Mr. Morse lives in Del Monte and the Hookers reside in San Mateo.

Leave Today for Georgian Bay Cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Manierre and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Magie II. are leaving this morning for a two weeks' cruising and camping trip in Georgian bay. They will travel north in the Manierres' boat and make their headquarters on Manitoulin Island.

Commander and Mrs. Mark St. Clair Ellis of Paris have arrived in Chicago and are staying at the Drake. They have many friends here, whom they have entertained at their estate just outside Paris, among them Mrs. Jacob Baur.

From Boston comes this interesting news: Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood of Boston, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Spaulding, to James S. Ford Jr., formerly of Evanston.

One of the large charity affairs of every autumn is the Sunbeam league ball, and this year it is to be held on Saturday, Nov. 17, at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Martin De Tamble Jr. is in charge of the ball, the proceeds of which will go to the upkeep of the kindergartens for sick and crippled children that the league maintains.

Yoke Is Source of Sleeves

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a little dress that you will be sure to like. It's interesting to make, and aren't the sleeves cool and smart looking? As you can see, they are simply continuations of the yoke. The pattern, however, provides for long set-in sleeves. The neck is softened by a jabot that slips through a seam at the front. Doesn't it all sound charming? The skirt has inverted plaits each side of the center front that make for graceful walking—otherwise it is plain. The original model was made of a yellow and white printed linen with plain yellow.

The pattern, No. 3160, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Untidy House Worst Count Against Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If those wives whose homes reflect their slovenliness were to attempt to pull that kind of stuff on any other vocational job, they'd land on the street in less time than it takes to tell about it.

What do you women think, who take on the home making job and then proceed to show how little you can do for your board and keep? Or do you think at all? You can't or you'd realize that you are not entitled to one farthing of consideration or money from the man whose name you bear. Your end of the marriage job is to make a home and make a pleasant home; a home that a man will not be ashamed to bring his friends into. You're not being "put upon" to be expected to have meals on time, decently cooked and decently served; to keep your house and yourself and your children clean and neat. That's simply and indisputably your job.

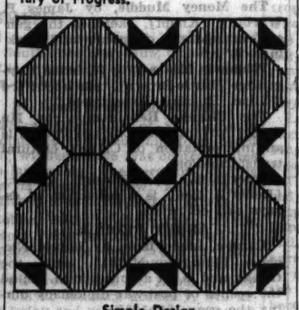
Lord knows how many men feel, with A. A., that the homecoming hour is the hated hour of the day. To come home to a house or an apartment that reflects slovenly management, to be forced to wait one hour, two, before the tasteless mess of food is slapped down on an unattractively set table is just too much for human endurance. As A. A. says:

"If it were not that I love the children and my religion does not recognize divorce, I don't think I'd ever enter the house. It couldn't possibly be called a home. My meals are never served on time, always an hour or two late, and then the food, tasteless and badly cooked, is thrown down on the kitchen table. . . . The house always looks like a pigpen. My business associates stop in sometimes and I'm so ashamed of the place that after a week-end of it I go out and get drunk, and then I am ashamed of myself for drinking."

A. A. reveals that he makes good money. His wife has full control of it. He urges her to get help. She won't. They live in a nice locality, but friends are deserting one by one. The whole situation is getting on the man's nerves so, his work suffers. And that is but an idea of how a slovenly wife can reduce morale to its lowest ebb. A remedy in the particular case? Hold out on the money, A. A. Step in yourself with the managing authority. Demand a better break for yourself and the kids. And don't weaken with so much as a nickel for pocket money for her until she realizes that you're in deadly earnest.

"Simple Design" Is Complicated Quilt to Create

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.



Simple Design.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A talented young New England girl with a sense of humor called this quilt block a "Simple Design." It probably is one of the most complicated and difficult blocks to make, but it also is one of the most beautiful. A rarity among quilts, it is highly valued wherever found in collections. Most examples of this design known today, have been preserved as antiques since the original pattern was first made in 1790.

If it's ready—Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices.

BY MARY MEADE.

Recipe hunters have the top hand, in this column, over cooks with problems. And the first to petition this week was Miss L. E., seeking a kidney bean salad tossed together with a sour cream dressing. We have it, with variations! For you may make it either with sour cream you have, from cream you sour artificially, or from a combination of evaporated milk and acid, which gives the same delectable effect without being quite so hard on the waistline. Here comes the recipe.

Kidney Bean Salad with Sour Cream.

1 No. 2 can kidney beans
2 hard cooked eggs, sliced
½ cup chopped celery
¾ cup minced sweet pickles
⅓ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup vinegar from the pickles

Toss together lightly the beans, eggs, celery, and pickles. Stir the vinegar into the evaporated milk [or use three-fourths cup soured cream instead of this combination] and fold this into the salad. Chill well and serve in crisp beds of lettuce.

And for Mr. R. T., who "hasn't liked sweetbreads yet, but intends to keep right on trying," we offer these crunchy fried affairs:

Savory Fried Sweetbreads.

Sweetbreads
1 small onion, minced
Juice of ½ lemon
Salt and pepper to taste
White sauce
Deep fat for frying
Crums

Soak the sweetbreads one hour in salted water, then change them to clear water and let them come to a boil. From this plunge them into ice water, where, after a few minutes, they will become "set." Trim off the bits of membrane and fat, then chop the sweetbreads finely. Add to them the minced onion and the lemon juice. Season well. To two cups of the mixture add one cup of thick, white sauce, blending it in well. Chill this combination, then shape into balls, cones, or patties. Roll these in crums, then fry in deep, hot fat [375 degrees F.] till golden brown. Serve with a peppy tomato sauce.

Something different as running mates for fruit salads is the cry of Mrs. T. H. D. And something different she shall have. I propose:

DATE-NUT MARGUERITES.

On each crisp, salty cracker place a half English walnut meat or a whole almond. Over it lay a slice of a moist date. Cover this with a spoonful of egg white meringue or half a marshmallow. If you use the latter, pinch it down all around with wet finger tips. Brown the meringues or marshmallows lightly in the oven and serve piping hot.

Then a tip of my own between called-for recipes. You've poached eggs, but have you ever poached an orange? Here's the plan:

POACHED ORANGES WITH RICE.

Choose large, firm oranges, preferably seedless. Separate the sections, removing all the white coating, but not breaking the individual skin of each section. Drop them into a sirup which has been made by boiling together for ten minutes 2 cups of sugar, 1 cup of water, and 1 tablespoon of light corn sirup. Let them cook gently until well coated with the sirup. Drain and chill them. These poached orange sections are tantalizingly good served on rice for a pudding, or as an accompaniment for any light and feathery cake.

So, just room for a last tip for the potato chip. A pastry gun or bag will be necessary, then your choice of something to shoot. It may be whipped cream, mayonnaise, cream cheese, egg yolk and cheese, or you-name-it. The stunt is simply to line up the crisp potato chips, then with your pastry gun pipe on each a wiggly garnish of your favorite spread, curling it in the center or in a ring not quite out to the edge. One tongue tickler blends Roquefort and cream cheese in equal parts and pipes them through the tube. Then arrange a circle of the glorified chips on a lettuce leaf. In the center pile up a mound of orange and grapefruit sections, sliced dates, and half nuts. Anoint this, but not the chips, with French dressing and serve perfectly chilled.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

DECISIONS ALWAYS DELICATE WITH SIX-CARD MAJOR SUIT.

It may seem fanciful to bid a no-trump when your hand includes a six-card major suit headed by the ace-king. Nevertess no-trump is at times the better bid, at any rate when you are using a bidding system which will not prevent your ending up in a game contract in your suit should the bidding developments cause you to abandon your attempt to be declarer in no-trumps.

Sp. A K x x x x Di. A Q x
Hts. Q J x Cl. K x

The minor suit holdings would induce me to bid a no-trump with this hand. I would bid two no-trumps over any minimum suit take-out [three if my partner had already passed], but if my partner rebid his suit, I would now bid and rebid spades to game. If we are to play suit, I have the right to take control. Spades are now not likely to break, and this may wreck us in no-trumps but should not matter in spades, especially if I gain a trick on the opening lead. The weaker my partner, the more necessary it is for me to be declarer and have the opening lead come to me. Over a two no-trump response I would bid four spades, a slam try, as I need only an ace and a king from him, one of them in hearts, to have at least a finesse for slam, the presumption now being that spades will break. Over two clubs I would bid three spades, and pass his next bid if it were a minimum—three no-trumps or four spades. A secondary heart bid from my partner, after clubs, would result in a no-trump slam.

The Heart Suit Angle.

If his natural first or only take-out is in hearts, four or six hearts may well be our best final contract. If my opening bid was one no-trump, he can bid his hearts securely and confidently since support as good as Q J x was implied in my no-trump bid. I too can develop the bidding serenely without supporting his hearts, as my holding in that suit is neither more nor less than my first bid implied.

Had I opened the bidding with a spade, I would not know whether to support or deny hearts with Q J x and the bidding, for slam purposes at least, would lack precision as regards a heart loser.

An opening spade bid would almost surely result in your partner bidding a no-trump. This would be a clumsy and probably fatal procedure should he have a singleton or void in spades, thus saddling the wrong hand with a no-trump contract. As a result, you may be set in no-trumps, whereas you could have made nine or more tricks if you had assured the no-trump declaration to your own hand. Or else you may have to rebid spades up to four and be defeated by massed trumps against you.

Certainly this hand should get to game if partner keeps the bidding open for you on the first round. If distribution is bad and you cannot make the game in anything, take your penalty and do not feel that you have overbid. The crime is when game in no-trumps can be made provided that declaration is assured to, or steered into, the right hand, but clumsy or myopic bidding has blackjacked the wrong partner into becoming declared in the right contract.

Sp. A K x x x x Di. A x x
Hts. K x Cl. K x

This hand calls for a spade bid in spite of the two guarded king holdings. It is really too weak for no-trumps. Your support in hearts and clubs is so unsubstantial that you will be giving your partner a deceptive inference in that respect in case his take-out is in one or both of these suits. Only if the bidding goes—one spade, one no-trump, three spades, three no-trumps; or—one spade, two clubs, two no-trumps, three hearts—should you feel safe in three no-trumps. You can hold up the ace of diamonds until the third round.

A Favorable Slam Development.

Failing spade support, a slam is unlikely unless your partner's take-out is two diamonds. Then you should make a slam try—three no-trumps, showing a high diamond. If your partner's hand includes an ace and his diamond suit is headed by king-queen or queen-jack and unless his spade holding is x x x and that suit fails to break, your slam chances are very excellent.

The slam bidding would be, after your three no-trump bid, four no-trumps [on Q J x x x or K 10 x x x of diamonds plus an ace and a queen or so or five diamonds [on K Q x x x and an ace], six diamonds by you.

Living Among Many Adults Is Hard on Child

May Develop Stubbornness as Defense Mechanism.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Do you ever, when you see one child in a family of many grownups, think of Gulliver when in his travels he came into the land of the giants—Brobdignag, I think it was? He was pretty helpless—they could have crushed him with a boot toe.

When one small child has to live among a lot of grownups who aren't any too wise he is up against it. He is, like Gulliver, pretty helpless—but fortunately he has some defenses.

These frequently take an undesirable form. A child will develop tantrums or become stubborn or impudent. At least, this is more wholesome than submission or too great docility. Here is an example of what I mean:

"I am sure you can make some good suggestions as to how to handle a darling, but stubborn, 2 year old boy. It seems that he suddenly has developed being so contrary—every time he is asked to do something it's 'no—I don't want to—I don't love you—I won't.' And, of course, he puts on the usual disagreeable looking pout and nothing can budge him. I don't know what to do with my baby any more—he used to be so ready to answer and put his things away, and so forth. And there is no new baby or excuse of that kind.

"We are a large family with many adults of all ages who get frankly disgusted with my little boy and keep telling him how stubborn he is.

"When friends and relatives drop in he sometimes stares sulkily and won't even say a word, being urged to greet them or kiss them or tempted with pennies being of no avail.

"Is this just something to be endured in silence till it 'blows over' or is there something I can do to help overcome this 'bull-headedness'? He is really a sweet, bright boy.

"I have tried to make this letter as brief as possible, but it seems hard to explain behaviors in a line or two. We both read and enjoy your column so much and have found it of much benefit.

"Assuring you of my appreciation for whatever you can suggest, I am . . . . . "

"Too many cooks spoil the broth"—that is all that is the matter in this case, and many like it that I hear of!

A child in these circumstances simply must be let alone. He must not be looked at, and talked "at," and criticized constantly, or, of course he will develop behavior problems. When visitors come at this stage of affairs he should not be bothered. Since he must live among so many, those grownups must "lay off him."

We have a booklet, fully written, on shyness and one on stubbornness. "The 'No' Habit" is a third leaflet for this age. A stamped, self-addressed envelope is required for each piece of printed matter. These grownups, except the parents who see the trouble, would profit by reading a little.

81 and 72, They Announce Approaching Wedding

Oakland, Cal., July 27.—(AP)—Romance caused a flurry in a home for the aged here when John F. Witzel, 81, and Miss Emma Mueller, 72, announced their engagement. The wedding has been set for next month.

Music Programs.

The Illinois Host house will be the scene tomorrow of three music recitals, beginning at 3 o'clock and continuing until 9 o'clock. Sigma Alpha Iota, music fraternity for women, will present a group of selections, followed by a program by the Illinois Artists and Composers. Musical numbers by the Hull House music school will complete the day's schedule.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, July 27. — Hollywood, where they make the flickers that are censored, hasn't a censor board. Here pictures are seen with scenes that have been eliminated in other circles. . . . "The Thin Man" has two grand scenes and one great line which probably you didn't see and hear. There's something to be said for Hollywood after all.

The censorship problem gets funnier and funnier. The script writer of Lee Tracy's new flicker, "The Lemon Drop Kid," has to change one of its characters, a telephone operator. Some censors claim that all telephone operators are flip and immoral. Okay, girls. Now just let them try and get a right number. . . . Don't like to annoy you with this item: Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller were together last night at the El Rey club. But this time it is really news, for they were quiet.

The day after the preview of "Four Walls" Franchot Tone and Gladys George were called to the studio for retakes. . . . The final scene was to be remade. . . . A small screen was put up on the stage, a portable projection booth rolled in, and the actual scene the players were to remake was run over and over for the players so they'd know what to do this time. . . . Then merely for amusement the man in the projection booth started to run the picture backward. . . . The action and the dialog backward. . . . A character walks backward out of a room to make his entrance, saying good-by before he says hello. . . . It's very good. . . . Metro should have the picture played backward.

They are still trying to clean up the Mae West flicker. "Belle of the Nineties," or whatever they're calling it this week. One of the clean-up authors, whose name won't appear on the screen, is Sid Silvers, who has been doing some rewriting with Director Leo McCarey.

Here is more evidence to prove that Greta Garbo's dislike for publicity is just a good publicity racket. Miss Garbo has a special photographer on the set to make still photographs which she poses for. Miss Garbo, who hates publicity, also goes to the studio gallery, where she poses for hours for portrait studies. She knows all these pictures are to be used in theater lobbies and in the fan magazines. . . . Greta Garbo likes publicity as much as any actress—and what's more, judging by the receptions given to "Queen Christina," she needs it.

William Anthony McGuire has prepared a great script for "The Great Ziegfeld," and if it can shoot the way it reads it will be one of the pictures of the year. . . . A number of people who worked for Ziegfeld will work on this flicker. . . . Besides McGuire, there are Gus Kahn and Walter Donaldson, who will do the words and music, and Seymour Felix, who will stage the dances.

The production of "The Girl Friend" with Jack Haley, Nancy Carroll, and Lupe Velez has been delayed for two weeks. . . . The script is being rewritten to take out the bicycle race, because there is one in the Joe E. Brown picture "Six Day Bike Rider." . . . But they'll probably put the bicycles back into "The Girl Friend" after they discover it's the entire story. . . . There's the producer doing a musical who insists that all the music be in brass band tempo.

The same producer was talking to a director and he said: "It's a funny thing, but I can't help it. I always blush when I'm in the presence of an ignorant person." . . . Then the producer stopped talking long enough to look up at the director. . . . The producer said: "What are you blushing about?"

COMEDY OF YOUTH AND ROMANCE

TRUCK CONCERN FINDS HARD TIRES NOT ECONOMICAL

Pneumatics Yield Most, Official Says.

BY HAL FOUST.

Hard tired trucks pounding Chicago streets are violating the laws of economics as well as the laws of Illinois. The police may wink at the violations, but the laws of economics doom these pavement crushers.

"Just as every other hauler is doing, we are junking solid tired equipment and replacing it with pneumatic tires as rapidly as we are able," Lee Landon, secretary of the F. Landon Cartage company, said yesterday. "The old solid tired trucks are extravagant to operate and wasteful of time. Even the tire costs are heavier on the solid than on pneumatic jobs."

One of Largest Concerns.

The Landon company is one of the four or five largest cartage concerns in Chicago and its experience is typical of the hauling industry. It operates ninety trucks, forty-five semi-trailers and eight tractors. Twenty of the trucks and three of the semi-trailers have solid tires.

"The solid tired haulers are of obsolete design, ten or twelve years old, and without an efficient mile in them," Mr. Landon continued. "We use them as little as possible, only during the peaks of business. They are used an average of only two or three days a week.

"With any improvement in business to warant investments, hard tired trucks will be driven off the streets by competition from the more economical pneumatic equipped carriers. Anticipating such an improvement the truck operators made no objection to the hard tire ban when it was enacted in the summer of 1931, to become effective on Jan. 1, 1933.

Survey Reveals Violators.

A survey from THE TRIBUNE roadster yesterday showed that the Landon company is one of hundreds of truck operators violating the tire provisions of the motor vehicle code with immunity from the police. Perhaps the most conspicuous violations take place in the heavy truck trafic passing police headquarters at State and Eleventh streets. Or perhaps more conspicuous are the violations by government owned mail trucks and by the city owned vehicles of the bureau of streets.

In fifteen minutes in front of the police headquarters four hard tired carriers pounded over the brick pavement, passing the group of double parked, angle parked and slovenly parked automobiles owned by police, by the city, by politicians and by folks with a drag. The names on the trucks showed the Willett company, the Dixon company, the Railway Express Agency, and A. J. Cox & Co., to be violators.

City Among Offenders.

Near by a crew of laborers was repairing the pavement with funds from the vehicle tax. Engineers testified before legislators who enacted the pneumatic tire requirement that the solid rubber equipment was destructive of the public's investment in pavement. At the curb, by the laborers, was a city owned trailer with hard tires.

This, however, is not the most flagrant violation of the tire statute by the city of Chicago. A train of dump carts of dangerous and illegal length, as well as with hard tires, was seen and heard rattling and clanging over the rough bricks of West Division street.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Diving Aids Rooster

July 27, 1934.

THERE is one big rooster here on the farm that is a marked fowl because of a feat he performed on the last day of the heat wave this week.

The boys noticed that this hefty fowl appeared to be lifeless in the barnyard on the day when the temperature was well above the 100 degree mark. There wasn't a breath of air moving across the fields. The poor rooster just gave up the fight against the heat and keeled over. The boys asked Clarence Thurow to come out into the yard and see what had happened. Sure enough, there was the poor chicken, apparently dead. However, Clarence decided to try a little hot weather first aid treatment. He grabbed the rooster by the legs, carried him over to the pump, filled a bucket with cool water fresh from the well, and then started the treatment. He plunged the rooster into the water three times. The chicken still showed few signs of life. Then Clarence laid the fowl in the shade and went on his way. Fifteen minutes later he came to see if the rooster had moved. There was the victim of heat prostration up and around, almost completely revived. He looked somewhat wilted and bedraggled because of wet feathers, but the enforced diving act had revived him.

The boys have had to move the Herefords from their open pasture. There wasn't enough shade for the animals in the field, so everybody joined in the drive to move them down to the woodland pasture along the south bank of the river. Here they have the protective shade of many beautiful walnut, elm, maple, hackberry, and ash trees and also get plenty of water to drink from the small stream which is formed by the overflow of the spring. Before putting the Herefords in this lower pasture Clarence had a fence erected around the spring pool which feeds the hydraulic ram. Without this fence the cattle might wade into the pool to cool off and stir it up so that the ram wouldn't work.

In keeping with their name, the sunflowers in the test plots picked out the sunniest, hottest days to blossom. Apparently a heat wave is nothing in the life of these plants except the right time to open up their broad, colorful flowers.

Herman Guenther is beginning to worry about the future of the "pumpkin pie" market around his place. The extreme heat of the early part of the week has put an awful crimp in the chances of big yellow pumpkins showing in his garden this autumn. The vines look as if they had been frozen, they wilted so badly. However, all hopes for pumpkins are not lost. If a rain comes soon the plants ought to stage a comeback. Herman's pumpkin vines weren't alone in this wilting business under the hot sun. A checkup of the broom corn, usually defiant of hot weather, shows that it took a pretty bad licking from the scorching heat.

PLUNGING HORSE PERILS PRESIDENT ON ISLAND TOUR

Newspapermen Hurt by Frightened Animal.

HONOLULU, July 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt put in another full day in Honolulu today, marked by a close escape from the plunge of a frightened horse while returning from an inspection of the Pearl Harbor naval base.

The horse, which was drawing a vegetable cart, dashed into the presidential motor procession after becoming frightened by sirens of police cars. The plunging animal struck the second car behind the machine in which the President was riding, giving its occupants, four Washington newspaper men, a shaking up. They received slight cuts, but were otherwise uninjured.

Concerned Over Accident.

President Roosevelt appeared concerned over the accident, but the procession moved along soon after it occurred. Secret service men were riding in an automobile between the presidential machine and the car occupied by the newspaper men.

The President made a thorough inspection of the Pearl Harbor base with Rear Admiral Harry Yarnell, crossing in a ferry to the island, which was bristling with aircraft. He told reporters he was immensely impressed by the neat condition of the island and the evident good health of those stationed there.

The base force includes about 2,000 officers and men. Nearly four million dollars has been spent on improvement to the channel, the increasing size of battleships having made it necessary to dredge continuously inside the harbor. The base includes wharves, administration buildings, hospital, railway, oil storage tanks, machine shops, submarine base, and an air station.

Visits Old Friend.

Leaving Pearl Harbor Mr. Roosevelt paid a brief visit to his old friend Walter Dillingham. Returning to his hotel the President dined with Will Rogers, cowboy humorist, who, with members of his family, arrived here today on his way around the world.

Tonight the President prepared an address to be delivered by radio at 11 a. m. tomorrow [4:30 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time] just before embarking aboard the cruiser Houston for the return voyage home.

14 DEFENDANTS IN TNT CASE GET ANOTHER DELAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Rizzio, Anthony Bianco, and Frank Damico, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter T. Stanton.

Fourteen defendants in the racket conspiracy case against the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T] were given another delay yesterday when Judge Walter P. Steffen of the Criminal court granted a change of venue from his court. Ten Circuit and Superior court judges were named as prejudiced in the petitions for the venue change and thus cannot hear the case.

Judge Steffen returned the case to the chief justice of the Criminal court for reassignment and continued it until Sept. 5, by which time Chief Justice Elect Denis Sullivan will have assumed office.

The ten judges named in the petition are Francis B. Allegretti, John C. Lewe, Walter P. Steffen, Hugo M. Friend, Philip J. Finnegan, Grover C. Niemeyer, Walter La Buy, Michael Feinberg, Harry B. Miller, and Charles A. Miller.

The six judges eligible to sit in the case are Chief Justice Sullivan, Joseph B. David, Cornelius J. Harrington, William V. Brothers, Donald S. McKinlay, and Michael L. McKinley.

EXAMINE POSEN BOOKS IN HUNT FOR SPEED TRAP

F. Ralph Gradzinski, police magistrate of Posen, who has profited from the trafic arrests made by the police of Mayor Charles Special of Dixmoor, yesterday took to the state's attorney's office the court records of these arrests, fines, and fees. Sergt. Thomas Kelly of the prosecutors' staf said an audit of these books will be started today to establish whether Special has been operating a speed trap in his village at Western avenue and 147th street.

Mayor Frank Bruggeman of Harvey is also interested in this audit, since many of the arrests by Special's crew were on charges of failure to stop for a sign at 147th street and Western avenue. A survey recently disclosed that this sign is eighteen inches within the boundary of Harvey.

The statute provides that fines collected for trafic violations within a municipality should be turned over to the treasurer of that municipality. Mayor Bruggeman has announced he will request State's Attorney Courtney to sue Dixmoor and its officials for the revenue from arrests at this sign and he will recommend the return of the money to the motorist victims.

White House Remodeling Job May Start Next Week

Washington, D. C., July 27.—(AP)—Remodeling of the White House offices to provide more room for President Roosevelt and his staf probably will begin early next week. The National park service announced today the contract for the work had been awarded to the N. F. Severin company of Chicago on a bid of $803,087. The company must finish the job in 100 working days.

Police Lieut. Andrew Barry Seriously Ill of Pneumonia

Lieut. Andrew B. Barry, acting captain of the Chicago avenue police station, who won THE TRIBUNE'S hero award on three occasions, was reported seriously ill of pneumonia in St. Bernard's hospital yesterday. He was taken to the hospital on Tuesday.

SALOON CLERK ROBBED.

George W. Backus, clerk in the Jackson Park tavern, 1625 East 67th street, yesterday was confronted by a bandit who took $10 from the cash drawer.

Tess Slesinger Shows Gifts in "Unpossessed"

Studies N. Y. Intellectuals in Vivid Manner.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Unpossessed," by Tess Slesinger. [Simon & Schuster.]

"TWENTY-NINE years and nine days," she said when I was surprised that she should remember the enchanting, long-ago scenes of "A Beggar on Horseback."

"But I thought you were all the Bright Young Things."

"Only one of the old writing folks," belieing her words with that strangely sophisticated, unpuckered, giving smile that only early youth has. [So different from the strangely sophisticated, puckered, withholding smile with which a wide-eyed and earnest woman beside us bathed the girl who was the guest of honor as she said, "I hear that your new book is very interesting. Just what do you mean by the 'Unpossessed?' Is it modern youth?"

You can't explain "The Unpossessed" to earnestness like that . . . not with the mercury bursting the bulb. Miss Slesinger's reply was vague, "Oh, the intellectuals, probably, more than youth. . . ."

Tess Slesinger is to some the golden rain in the season's literary fireworks. She has had more adjectives polished up for her benefit than many of late. A constitutional aversion to too much ballyhooing kept this adjective tosser from battledoring and shuttlecocking about "The Unpossessed." Too many suns, moons and attendant hierarchies of stars are discovered each year by passionate boosters, and I was feeling a little overfed with such fare. Too many Bright Young Things had given me star-blindness.

Now, here is confession. "The Unpossessed" is no longer to me that luring light of the ignis fatuus which any unread book remains to the eager reviewer. I have read it from "Margaret Flinders" to "Missis Flinders" [in the opposite chronology in which it was written] and out come my own polishing cloths for the dulled adjectives. Perhaps my burnishings are slightly more restrained than some. "The Unpossessed" is not the greatest contribution to the American novel of the year 1934. Indeed, it is not a novel at all, but a series of related short stories, some of them amazingly brilliant, others only so-so, each story relating episodically a trait of character which, pieced together, gives the illusion but not the fact of character growth [which is, I take it, the difference between the novel and the short story . . . that, whereas the short story MAY depict the integration or disintegration of character, the novel MUST depict it].

Miss Slesinger wrote the last chapter of the book "Missis Flinders" two years ago when she was visiting in Chicago and it was published as a short story. [She lives in New York and writes about a group of young intellectuals who are as typically New York as New York's screenless windows in a fly season.] "Missis Flinders" is a short story in the well-known stream of consciousness method, shaking out the thoughts of a young married woman who has just had an abortion for economic reasons. As a short story it won tremendous praise, and deserved it, and as the last chapter in a novel about a group of young people who can and do talk themselves out of everything, including life, it is tremendous.

There are other chapters—the young Jewish professor's analysis of his own urge to dream rather than do, the "chain-drinker, chain-smoker, chain-lover's" cold-eyed look at her own bootless life, one short chapter in which Margaret Flinders and her husband literally enchant one another—all of them remarkable.

The book is an apotheosis of dynamic futility [the author makes so many wide gestured phrases that it is catching] and as a picture of types it is something one doesn't forget. It is, in spots, so good that this reader at least resented its not being wholly good. I resented its "smartness," its self-consciousness, the fact that the characters are ideas and not human beings. That, I believe, is its chief fault—that in writing of people who look upon themselves as ideas, and whose lives are passionately rationalized, Miss Slesinger has made animated thoughts instead of creating living beings.

However, with only twenty-nine and nine three hundred and sixty-fifths of years behind her, there is plenty of time for an undeniable gift to flower into greatness.

University Press Issues Story of Treasure Hunt

Cyrus H. Karraker has written an instructive and entertaining little volume—"The Hispaniola Treasure" [University of Pennsylvania Press] based on the expedition of Sir William Phips in 1687 to discover a famous sunken galleon. In addition he gives a record of governmental promotion and regulation of treasure hunting as well as descriptions of other voyages in the Caribbean waters made by Stanley and Narbrough in search of undersea gold.

'The Devil's Drummer' Is Thrilling Tale of Brazilian Adventure

Tex Harding, who in reality is Harry Browne, an Austrian adventurer who has had enough thrills packed in his tumultuous career to fill several volumes, has picked out some of the most engrossing episodes for his first book, "The Devil's Drummer" [Reynal & Hitchcock].

His translator has this to say in the introduction: "It is the tale of how two he-men went out on their own into the inner circle of the Green Hell of the Brazilian jungle. And if it be not entirely true, I am convinced that at least it is as true as the accounts generally given by expert explorers. And I am sure that it makes much better reading."

The author's account of facing a Mexican firing squad is as thrilling and vivid a bit of writing as any reader of this kind of book has enjoyed in a long while.

Most of the volume tells about his search for the mysteriously lost Col. Fawcett [whom Peter Fleming was looking for in his "Brazilian Adventure"] in a plane piloted by a wild, red haired Virginian. Unlike Fleming, however, who never saw, or said he never saw, any of the pet dangers of explorers, Tex Harding and his companion suffered all of the perils and annoyances of snakes, mosquitoes and other jungle pests.

The author solved the mystery of Col. Fawcett, or so he believes, but, of course, a good mystery fan never wants the solution told, so we'll let you read the book.

Among the New Books

L. A. G. Strong Writes Novel of Great Beauty

Contains Many Thoughts of Dying Man.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—L. A. G. Strong's new novel, "Corporal Tune" [Gollancz], is being hailed in London for its great beauty, and it is certainly one of the most sensitive and delicate of all his books. Its theme is simple, the writing exquisite without affectation, the implications innumerable. And at the same time the novel has both perfect detachment and a quite personal intimacy which make it unique.

Mr. Strong, as is known, was very ill some time ago [it is good news that he is now fully recovered]; and the tale describes many of the thoughts and feelings of a sick man. But it is, for all that, a work of imagination and the work of a considerable artist.

The chief character is a writer whose wife has died in childbirth; and the writer himself is in reality at the point of death. Accordingly it might be thought that the note of "Corporal Tune" is one of melancholy. This is not the case. There are frets, of course, and discoveries of all sorts of hidden thoughts such as may arise in the mind of a dying man; but the quality of the book lies in its calm understandings and its poetic interpretations of the soul of man.

A very good book, which seems slight at first reading and grows in strength as one remembers it. Not for everybody, but for those to whom beauty in a novel—limpid beauty, for there is nothing obscure or affected in Mr. Strong's outlook—is a delicious experience. Mr. Strong's two stories of a sensitive little boy ["The Garden" and "Sea Wall"] have both made him many readers of the right kind; and "Brothers," while some found in it a streak of cruelty, or the enjoyment of pain, showed that he could as easily create adult and primitive characters.

"Corporal Tune" does something else; it is a new contribution to our understanding of what men feel and think in face of death and demoralizing discovery; and I hope that many readers will make trial of its courageous simplicities.

Hilaire Belloc is writing a new and short history of England, in which greater attention than usual is being given to the Roman occupation of Britain. This book will not be ready until the autumn, when it will be published by Harrap. The same firm announces that Winston Churchill's "Life of Marlborough" will be in three volumes instead of two, owing to the mass of valuable material now in Mr. Churchill's hands. Nobody will object to this.

The first volume, though it did not escape fire from historians, was in itself an historic event; and while Mr. Churchill has had no great success in recent political maneuvers all are agreed that in historical writing he is the nearest thing we have to Macaulay. Beverley Nichols is being answered and parodied. The answer comes from Maj. Yeats-Brown, who writes "Dogs of War" [Peter Davies] to confute "Cry Havoc," and the parody, by "Nicholas Bevel," is "Mon Repos" [Lane], wherein the Nichols country cottage books are guyed.

Dr. Grenfell Writes Another Interesting Book on Labrador

Sir Wilfred Grenfell, distinguished physician-missionary, Labrador's most famous citizen, has written another entertaining and instructive book on that chilly and little known region. "The Romance of Labrador" [Macmillan] is a scholarly, comprehensive history of the country seen as a great and colorful pageant. Across the vast stage the author brings his characters—first the Indians; then the Eskimos; the Vikings; the Big Four [Columbus, Cabot, Cortereal, and Cartier]; the French occupation, and then the English.

He devotes a chapter to the undersea pageant; a chapter to subarctic water; one to the soil; a pageant of the animals, and one of the air.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

Don't let the name "The Talking Sparrow Murders" [Morrow], by Darwin L. Teilhet, put you off. It's as lively and expert a yarn as you'll find in many a long, hot day; all about Nazis, near-Nazis, their goings-on and their victims. That they are sometimes victimized may even add to your pleasure.

This is one of those detective stories—not always so good—with a strong love interest but that really doesn't interfere with its development though it adds considerably to the complications.

Innumerable people are killed and to the end you are left wondering what it is all about. In the meanwhile you become attached to the young American engineer who tells the story and the fat old German policeman who forges his tired way through plots and counterplots, untouched by the political turmoil of the moment, commands respect and admiration. The ladies concerned keep you guessing and some of the people whom you have sized up as most villainous turn out to be reasonably respectable, while others to whom you have pinned your faith are pretty bad lots.

The scene of the book, set in Heidelberg in this Hitler era, is really interesting and sounds authentic. In fact even if the story weren't so good the background and details of these troublous German days would whet your curiosity and furnish plenty of excitement.

The author without undue emphasis and without any animus tells a story that could only have happened under the fantastic conditions that there and now prevail. He seems shocked and amused by turns and succeeds in conveying a sense that after all life is lived and accepted, however exaggerated the régime; that people demand amusement, power and love and never cease to be avaricious.

A murder story is necessarily rather wild, but this one of murder in wildest Germany gives a solid and realistic effect. It should delight students of the genre and maybe please a good many of those superior people who claim that they just naturally despise detective fiction.

RECKLESS DRIVER GETS 5 MONTHS; HIT POLICEMAN

2d Who Fled Scene Is Given 10 Days.

Allan Shenault, 22 years old, a Negro porter, who on June 14 ran down and seriously injured John Leen, a motorcycle policeman, yesterday was sentenced to five months in the Bridewell on a reckless driving charge by Judge Justin McCarthy in Trafic court. Shenault lives at 4223 South Parkside avenue.

Shenault was also ordered to pay fines totaling $50 for driving past a trafic light and for driving a car with defective brakes. The accident occurred at Parkside avenue and 55th street.

Milton Breckenbridge, another Negro, living at 68 East 59th street, was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell and fined $1 on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident by Judge Edward S. Scheffler in the new Safety court.

Hits Woman's Car.

Breckenbridge on July 17 drove an automobile into the car of Mrs. Marguerite Spotts, 6306 Eberhart avenue, at 59th street and Indiana avenue.

Arresting policemen and other witnesses said Breckenbridge had been drinking before the crash and that he was speeding. His car overturned the Spotts car, but no injuries resulted.

Arthur De Garro, 450 West 45th place, Lyons, arrested twice in one day on charges of drunken driving, yesterday won his second continuance before Judge Scheffler. De Garro, who is a war veteran employed as general storekeeper at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital, presented a letter from the hospital saying his mother is critically ill and the case was delayed to Aug. 29. The letter further said De Garro has been suspended from government service until the action is settled. He is free on $1,000 bond.

Hits Woman, Fined $25.

Joseph Slater, 4837 North Cicero avenue, was fined $25 for striking Mrs. Catherine Lydon, 5421 Cornell avenue, with his automobile. The accident occurred at 57th and Halsted streets. Slater escaped a jail sentence when it was shown Mrs. Lydon walked into the trafic from between parked cars. Slater said he had been drinking.

LIFE ON FARM BEING RADICALLY CHANGED BY ELECTRIFICATION

The increased use of electricity in rural districts is rapidly giving farm life the ease and attractiveness of the city dwellers' existence, delegates to the 11th annual convention of the National Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture were told yesterday when they met at the Palmer house.

Some of the modern equipment now in use or being tested includes lights for insect control, an electric fence of one charged wire which replaces three or four strands of barbed wire, apparatus for cooling farm produce before it is shipped to market, and an electrical milk pasteurizer.

An annual report of the progress made in the electrification of farms was presented by Dr. E. A. White, director of the organization. It showed that the states of Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin are now among the first ten in the country having the largest number of electrified farms.

Illinois has 25,216 electrified farms, which represents 11.8 per cent of all the farms in the state; Michigan has 40,886, or 23.8 per cent; Iowa, 31,704, or 14.7 per cent; Indiana, 23,237, or 12.8 per cent, and Wisconsin, 38,490, or 21.2 per cent.

4 SEIZED AFTER LEADING POLICE IN WILD CHASE

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 36; recovered, 34; stripped, 10 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday].

A woman and three young men arrested by the Cicero police yesterday admitted they were the occupants of an automobile which led two Broadview policemen on a wild chase with interludes of gunfire earlier in the day.

The women is Mrs. Rose Moro, 37 years old, 1415 South 51st avenue, Cicero. Her companions gave their names as Edward Krischakas, 19 years old, 1442 South 48th avenue; Glen Berberg, 21, of 1343 South 48th court, and Mike Bucnis, 21, of 1527 South 48th court, all of Cicero.

The automobile, which the four abandoned in Des Plaines after the fifteen mile chase, belonged to Mrs. Agnes Daugirda, 1803 South 48th court, Cicero, who said she had left the car in the Talbot garage, 2001 South Cicero avenue. Charles Zopel, 19 years old, night attendant at the garage, admitted to the police that he had "lent" Mrs. Daugirda's automobile to the others. He was also held.

All five denied knowledge concerning two empty money bags found in the rear seat of the abandoned car.

MOTOR CAR KILLS WOMAN, 79; TOLL INCREASED TO 691

Mrs. Louise Whittiger, 79 years old, 2419 Belle Plaine avenue, was killed yesterday when she was struck by an automobile while crossing Western avenue near her home. Mayer Vetzner, 23 years old, 2530 North Spaulding avenue, driver of the car, was held for the inquest today.

Mrs. Whittiger's death and one other brought the year's auto toll in Cook county to 691. The other victim:

Abraham Cohen, 66 years old, 1532 East 65th street. Died in Jackson Park hospital of injuries incurred on June 11, when he was struck at 68th street and Stony Island avenue. The driver, Stewart Roehr, 20 years old, 6542 Maryland avenue, was charged with reckless driving.

Mrs. August Kahl, 64 years old, of Yorkville, Ill., was killed and her husband seriously injured today near Sparta, Wis., when their automobile crashed into a truck.

RESTAURANT ROBBED OF $25.

While several customers of Anne's restaurant, 57 East Adams street, sat unobserving at their tables, two armed men yesterday forced Miss Winnie Jamison, 30 years old, cashier, to hand them $25 from the cash register.

MRS. DALL ENDS 6 WEEKS DIVORCE STAY ON MONDAY

Reno, Nev., July 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall will complete her required six weeks' divorce residence in Nevada next Monday.

Attorneys representing President and Mrs. Roosevelt's only daughter have declined to reveal when or where the expected suit against Curtis B. Dall will be filed, but it was regarded as possible the complaint will be filed at Minden, 50 miles south of here, Monday morning.

The trial, which is expected to be conducted privately, could be held a few minutes later before District Judge Clark J. Guild.

It was at Minden that Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt divorced Elliott Roosevelt, Mrs. Dall's brother, last year. Young Roosevelt later married Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex.

$60,000 FUTURITY ENDS ARLINGTON SEASON

WOOD DEFEATS WATROUS, 2 UP, IN PRO TOURNEY

Runyan, Shute and Kunes Win.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Buffalo, N. Y., July 27.—The national professional golf championship, which began as just one big family picnic of 114 on last Tuesday at the Park Country club, went high hat today, thinning out to an exclusive party of four, who will continue the doings all by themselves in tomorrow's thirty-six hole semi-finals.

The surviving quartet includes three names which have been accepted in golf's social register, while the other until now has merely appeared in the telephone book, as far as national competition goes. Two of the big names will require no introduction, neither to the customers nor to each other. They are Denny Shute, the silent one from Philadelphia, and Craig Wood, the Deal, N. J., blond, who does not know his own strength when he takes a golf club in hand.

Kunes Is a Stranger.

It is little more than a year ago that Shute and Wood had their own little party after tying for the British open title, and it was Mr. Shute who finally thanked Mr. Wood for a pleasant time and the championship.

The third important name remaining in the big show is that of Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., who traded in his spoon shots and putts for a bit more than $7,000 last winter. The stranger in the house is one Gene Kunes of Norristown, Pa., who until a month ago worked for Ed Dudley over in Philadelphia. None of the regulars in the P. G. A. bleachers is overlooking the 25 year old Kunes, for these unknowns have been known to cause great havoc in the P. G. A. Nobody ever heard of Tom Creavy, to speak of, when he won the title in 1931, and Willie Goggin had to have a note from his folks to get in and play Gene Sarazen for last year's championship.

Shute Takes It Easy.

Shute spent a quiet day doing away with Al Houghton of Bethesda, Md., 6 and 5, and he is now commencing to bore the galleries with the ease with which he chips dead to the pins and holes 20 and 30 foot putts, but he is still keeping his public interested with some quaint work off the tees. Kunes did not labor overly hard in winning from Bob Crowley of Dedham, Mass., the unannounced tournament medalist, 4 and 3.

Runyan and Wood, however, ran into two different people. Paul, favorite to go through the lower bracket almost from the first, met Dick Metz of Chicago. Both of them once worked for Wood, but soon forgot about that, and made up the only twosome of the day to go the full 36 hole route, Runyan finally winning, 1 up, by the grace of a couple of spectators along the home green, who detained a wild second shot by the New Yorker. Metz squared the match at the eighteenth this morning, and then fought against a three hole margin until he evened it again on the thirty-fourth, only to have Runyan split the thirty-fifth pin with a perfect shot out of the rough for a birdie and the hole.

Wood Beats Watrous.

Wood's quarter-final opponent was old Al Watrous, who bumped Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, out of the show yesterday. Wood won, 2 and 1, but it can be set down only as a decision on points, and not even a technical K. O., for Al was in there to the finish. Watrous led two up at the eighteenth, and Wood one up at the twenty-seventh, but Watrous kept on punching until the bell rang at the thirty-fifth, where Wood's second shot was a foot and a half from the pin.

Metz got off to a good start with a birdie four on the first hole, chipping from the rough at the green's right and holing the seven foot putt remaining. Runyan needed three to get on, scuffing his second shot. Both were on the third green in two, with Dick's second nearly laying Runyan a stymie, but the New Yorker got it down from eight feet for a birdie and the hole.

Paul went one up at the fourth, where Dick was in the rough with his drive and short on his next. Metz squared it at the sixth with a par, when Runyan, after making a fine recovery from a trapped second, missed a four foot putt.

Runyan Takes Lead.

A timid approach putt from the edge of the short eighth green cost Metz the hole, for he needed three from 60 feet while Runyan was getting his par. Dick squared the match again at the 11th with a birdie, getting in on two, while Runyan missed a putt of a yard, after hitting the top of a bunker with his second.

The Chicagoan overshot the green to lose the 14th, Runyan winning it with a six foot putt for a birdie. Metz evened matters for the third time at the 18th, getting on in two, while Runyan, again making a nice recovery from a trap, once more missed a short putt. They were both around in 71, one under par.

Metz and Runyan shared the first hole of the afternoon in birdies, both missing long putts for birdies by inches. Runyan went one up at the 20th by exploding from a trap to within 20 feet and sinking the putt for a par, while Metz, who was in the rough off the green, missed a seven footer.

Metz Miscalculates Putt.

Paul was two up after the 24th, where Dick drove into a trap, and

Speed Keynote Tomorrow in Swim and Regatta

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Speed is the slogan for THE TRIBUNE'S swimming races and regatta tomorrow afternoon at the Diversey beach basin, Lincoln park. The fastest crews, the best canoists, and speediest swimmers will unite in offering Chicago the most complete and most interesting afternoon's entertainment of the summer season.

The three and a half hour program will be brought to spectators along the banks of the basin by loud speakers. The microphone will be installed on the diving platform, scene not only of the half hour exhibition by the stars from Swift Bridge of Service, A Century of Progress, but also the finish line for the 100 yard swimmers and the end of the course over which the crews and canoists will compete.

The swimming lanes will be laid out to the north of the diving tower, while the boat races will start at the south end of Lincoln park lagoon and finish at the tower.

Lincoln Park Eyes Titles.

That the Western Rowing club of St. Louis, or the South Side Boat club of Quincy, Ill., will capture the eight oared crew race is disputed by the boys from the Lincoln Park Boat club. Several pointed out yesterday that six of the eight members of Lincoln park's number one crew competed last year when the eight won the national intermediate title at A Century of Progress.

Lincoln park also hopes to win the doubles championship. The number one team of Max Riser, bow, and Lawrance Kerwin, stroke, won the central states junior championship last year. Charles R. Miner, who held the central states single sculling title in 1928 and 1929, will try for the quarter mile dash championship tomorrow. He will be opposed by G. Hussong, of the South Side Boat club, Quincy, who is the present central states quarter mile champion.

St. Louis Sends Champions.

Central Boat club of St. Louis is sending its championship four oared shell, winner of the 1934 central states title last week. The personnel of this crew is Mossotti, bow; Leipholtz, 2; Hoffman, 3; and Heidecker, stroke.

Robert Bodach, commodore of the Lincoln Park Boat club, reserved last evening for the local crews to finish their training preparations. The out-of-town crews from St. Louis, Quincy and Culver Military academy, will arrive today and work out at the lagoon this afternoon.

One of the best races will bring together the cutter crew from Culver and a crew composed of Chicago Sea Scouts. Culver also has entered its eight oared shell against the lightweight crew of the Lincoln Park Boat club.

Competing for the western division championship of the American Canoe association will be picked entries from local clubs.

87 in Swimming Races.

Among the 87 boys and girls who will compete for the gold medals, emblematic of the 100 yard swimming championships, are four who won last year. However, by the rules of competition, these champions cannot compete in the same age class.

The returning champions are Filipp Kreissl of Evanston, who won the Class A boys' title last year and who will swim in Class B; Jacqueline Nicholson, Lake Shore A. C., winner of the Class B girls' title last year, now in Class C; Glennette Holmes, East Chicago, Ind., last year's Class C winner, now competing in Class D, and Marlys Lapin, Lake Shore A. C., who won the Class D girls' title and now is swimming in Class E for girls 19 years of age and over.

Swimmers from Chicago suburbs have qualified for the finals as have boys and girls from Peoria, Bloomington, Rochelle, Rockford, Waukegan, Gary, Ind.; Whiting, Ind., and Kenosha, Wis. Alan Ford, qualifier in Class A boys, who is visiting in Rockford, lives in the Panama Canal Zone, and if he wins a gold medal he will establish an all time record as the first swimmer from outside of the United States to capture a championship.

New York Commission Will Bar Women Fight Managers

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—The New York state athletic commission, at its meeting today, refused the request of Miss Vera De Grasse for a license to manage her brother, Pete De Grasse, contender for the world's featherweight championship. The board went on record as being opposed to women managers, and declared that the license now held by Mrs. Lena Levy of Chicago, sister of King Levinsky, would not be renewed on its expiration.

SHIELDS OPENS DAVIS CUP PLAY FOR U. S. TODAY

Meets Austin in First Challenge Match.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, July 27.—Frank Shields, America's No. 1 player, who whipped Vivian McGrath of Australia in straight sets in the interzone finals, will oppose Henry [Bunny] Austin of England in the first singles match of the challenge round of Davis cup competition at Wimbledon tomorrow.

Sidney B. Wood, like Shields a New Yorker, who became the hero of the interzone play when he conquered Jack Crawford, Australian ace, to give the United States the impetus which carried it to victory, was paired with Fred Perry, Great Britain's best, in the second singles match tomorrow. The drawings were announced late today.

Play Doubles Monday.

The only doubles match of the challenge round will be played on Monday, after a day's recess on Sunday, and will bring together George Lott Jr. of Chicago, considered the world's greatest doubles player, and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles for the United States and Perry and George Patrick Hughes for England.

On Tuesday two singles matches will complete the cup competition. Shields is matched with Perry in the first of these. The drawing for the second has not been announced.

Capacity Crowd Is Assured.

A capacity crowd is assured for the challenge series, every reserved seat having been disposed of immediately after the Americans' surprising conquest of the Australians on Wednesday.

Students of the game, who have followed the Americans daily, predict that their chances of regaining the trophy rest on the showing of Wood. They are agreed that if he can display the skill he commanded in conquering Crawford, rated No. 2 in world rankings, against Perry tomorrow, the match is as good as over with the invaders on top.

Lott and Stoefen are conceded an edge in the doubles, because of Hughes' comparative lack of experience.

The matches may have to be continued beyond the three days allotted—Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday—as Capt. Williams of the American side and H. Roper Barrett, for England, agreed to play not later than 6:45 p. m. [12:45 p. m. Chicago time] if the sun is shining. At that hour it becomes very bothersome to the player on the side facing the west.

W-G-N Broadcasts Futurity Today for Racing Fans

W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, will broadcast the running of the $60,000 Arlington Futurity at Arlington Park this afternoon. The broadcast from the track will go on the air at 5 o'clock with a word picture of the preliminaries to the race.

Norris Royden, chartman, caller and announcer at Arlington, and Arthur Millett, W-G-N staff announcer, will alternate at the microphone.

There will the answers be revealed——
It's time to reserve your seat.

Tickets for the Chicago Bears-All College Stars football game at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31 may be ordered by mail from Football Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. The prices are $1.10 and $1.65. They also are available in Room 850 Tribune Tower.

HOLLYWOOD'S CONTRIBUTION

Aaron Rosenberg, University of Southern California star, who led all guards in the nation-wide poll for the all-star team which meets the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field on Aug. 31, yesterday accepted the Tribune's invitation to play. The Fox studios released Rosenberg for three weeks to participate in the charity contest.

Rosenberg Ready to Battle Bears in His Last Game

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Las Angeles, Cal., July 27.—Aaron Rosenberg, who was America's choice for guard in the game the 1933 college all stars will play against the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field, Chicago, Aug. 31, today accepted an invitation from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to compete.

"This is the greatest honor I have had in football," Rosenberg said. "It is one thing to be chosen on an all American team by a few scattered newspaper critics, but it is something else to have received the recognition in a nation-wide poll that drew 165,000 votes."

Rosenberg is an assistant director at the Fox motion picture studio. Sol Wurtzel, his employer, has granted him a three weeks' leave of absence and will pay his salary while he is away as the studio's contribution to Chicago's big charity game. He will leave Los Angeles Aug. 12 and will be ready for opening practice at Dyche stadium, Evanston, on Aug. 15.

His Last Game.

"This will be my last football game," the former Southern California linesman said today, "and I am going to see it will be my best. The Bears play clean football but O, how fast. I wish I had Larry Stevens, my running mate at guard for the last three years, but I suppose there will be some one else just as good. I know Krause is a great tackle and I have heard so much about those Michigan linesmen that I am looking forward to seeing them in action."

Rosenberg weighs 212 pounds. He has been training for wind and muscles the last two weeks, since it became apparent he would be the fans' choice to play.

Rosenberg is a mighty man on offense, a sure tackler on defense. He has acquired the reputation of being one of the best blockers and tacklers in the country. He is widely known for his spirit and ability to aggravate adversaries.

He's All Around Man.

The choice of Rosenberg to play against the Bears represents the fans' recognition of three years of brilliant work with the Trojans. During his sophomore year, Rosenberg was a substitute for Johnny Baker, but while the regular was out with injuries, the young Jewish player proved himself nearly as good—even at that early stage of his career.

In his junior year, Rosenberg moved into the place left vacant by Baker and immediately became a standout. His speed in leading interference was one of the vital factors in the powerful Trojan offensive in its undefeated 1932 season. Rosenberg received recognition throughout the country for his work that year, but his fame reached its peak the following season.

Last year he started in his usual position at guard. When misfortune befell the U. S. C. squad he received an opportunity to show his versatility. Before the season was over, Rosenberg had played guard, tackle and end—sometimes appearing at all three positions in the one game. He was seldom left out of any play and was credited with making more tackles than any other man on the Trojan squad.

Began in Hollywood.

Rosenberg and Larry Stevens, the other guard, made the Southern California line almost impregnable. In the entire 1932 season, only two teams crossed the Trojan goal and they did it on forward passes. Again last year the line was impervious until Stanford succeeded in breaking through. One touchdown through the line in two years was all the Southern California line allowed and in every game but one, Rosenberg was helping bar the way.

Rosenberg began his football career with Fairfax High school in Hollywood. He played tackle during his prep days, but when a few yards were needed badly he was called upon to carry the ball from the full back position.

Name Your Coaches

FIRST returns in the nation-wide contest to pick a coach to train the college all-stars for their game with the Bears Aug. 31 will be published in The Tribune tomorrow. Fans must name three choices in the order they prefer. First place counts three points, second two, and third one. Total points will decide the winner. No ballots will be counted that do not include three names. Address communications to All-Star Editor, Chicago Tribune.

DRESSEN TO TAKE JOB TOMORROW AS RED MANAGER

Slated to Quit Nashville After Today's Game.

Nashville, Tenn., July 27.—(AP)—Charley Dressen will leave the Nashville club of the Southern Association after tomorrow's game to go to Cincinnati as manager of the Reds of the National league, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

Dressen will report to Cincinnati in time to begin his managerial duties with Sunday's games between the Reds and the Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati. He will succeed Bob O'Farrell.

No officials of the Nashville club were available tonight to discuss details of the trade, which involves only players and no cash, or to say who would succeed Dressen here.

Deal Not Completed.

Confirmation of the deal came after Jimmy Hamilton, business manager of the Nashville club, had said this afternoon that Nashville had rejected an offer made by Larry McPhail, vice president of the Reds, to trade a group of players for Dressen. At that time Hamilton said a proposition made by Nashville to sell Dressen to Cincinnati for $12,500 still was open.

McPhail left here today after conferring with Hamilton, Fay Murray, president of the Nashville club, and with Dressen.

Dressen will receive a contract with the Cincinnati club for the rest of the 1934 season and probably for both 1935 and 1936.

Dressen, who is 35 years old, began his major league baseball career with the Reds in 1924, when Cincinnati purchased him from St. Paul. His home is in Decatur, Ill.

Lifts Nashville Club.

Dressen has been manager of the Vols since July 7, 1932. In that season he raised the Nashville club from seventh to fourth place in the Southern association and last season, under his direction, the team finished third.

He completed the first half of the split season this year with Nashville in first place and despite accidents to his players was making a determined drive for the full season pennant in the second half, when Cincinnati began angling for his services.

O'FARRELL NOT NOTIFIED

Cincinnati, O., July 27.—[Special.]—Bob O'Farrell, when informed tonight that it had been authoritatively reported in Nashville that Charley Dressen had been designated as his successor as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said he had not been notified of his dismissal. He has a two year contract, which began this year.

In view of reports in circulation the last few days O'Farrell realizes that his position is in jeopardy. The Reds under his direction have been cellar occupants of the National league since the season opened, but he has argued that the club has given him no help in developing a winning team.

STRIKE THREAT WITHDRAWN BY COAST GOLFERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—A. Laverne Nichols of San Francisco, spokesman for the northern California delegation in the national public links golf tourney starting Monday, today threatened to ask the California players to pack up and leave unless the South park course is closed to noncontenders.

But tonight, after being informed that due to municipal regulations the course could not be closed until Sunday noon, Nichols decided against a withdrawal.

The strong California contingent, numbering 29 players, includes Charles Ferrera of San Francisco, defending champion.

Nichols complained that the contestants were unable to get the proper amount of practice and that their play was interfered with by the other parties using the course. He was joined by Clare Kemp, manager of the San Francisco team, who said:

"Your regular players clutter up the course and don't give us a chance to work out, which isn't fair considering that every other city always confined its course to the national players a week before the tournament."

BY FRENCH LANE.

A king's ransom—the total amount may be $60,800—will be at stake this afternoon when 12 or 13 two year olds march out on the battlefield at Arlington Park to fight it out for gold and glory in the Arlington Futurity.

The Arlington Futurity is the richest race run this year in America. As a result a crowd of 25,000 probably will see the turf champion of tomorrow dash down the home stretch to victory. The running of the Futurity will bring to a close the Arlington Park Jocky club's racing season.

Thirteen were named overnight for the six furlong Futurity battle, and the owners of these fleet young thoroughbreds were so confident of victory there appeared to be little likelihood of withdrawals unless there is a decided change in track conditions.

Track Lightning Fast.

The track was lightning fast yesterday, and the weather man has promised it will not be dulled by showers before the Futurity is run.

In the betting last night two juveniles stood out as first choices. They were Albuquerque, from Jack Howard's Rookwood farm stable of Kentucky, and St. Bernard, the property of Dale Shaffer of Chicago. Each was quoted at 3 to 1.

Coming in for stout backing also were Nellie Flag and Today. Nellie Flag will carry the hopes of Warren Wright of Chicago, and Today will represent Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney of New York. Nellie Flag and Today each was quoted at 5 to 1.

Several Long Shots.

The odds ranged on up to 100 to 1, which were offered against Milky Way Farm stable's entry of Gallaclay and Blue Armor, and Good Gamble, which will represent M. L. Schwartz of New York. Toro Nancy, second to the Whitney owned Motto in the Lassie stakes, was a long shot at 20 to 1. So was Special Agent, the roommate of Cavalcade, from Brookmeade stable. He, too, was quoted at 20 to 1.

Nearly all the romance of horse racing centers around Albuquerque's effort in the Futurity. His owner, Jack Howard, who bred him on his Rookwood farm, recently was found guilty in federal court of violating the narcotic laws in connection with doping race horses. Howard, one of the great plungers in American racing, is reported to have spent most of his fortune fighting the case, and no doubt will be ruled off the turf if the verdict is upheld by the higher courts.

So Albuquerque means much to the tiny plunger from Kentucky.

St. Bernard Royally Bred.

To Dale Shaffer, the son of a wealthy Chicago oil man, a victory by St. Bernard will be just another thrill in the life of a young fellow of 18 summers who can probably use the money to send himself through college. St. Bernard, a royally bred colt, has displayed more speed in his training drills and in his preliminary races than any 2 year old in the race. Bred for speed and for endurance, he is trained by Alex Gordon, one of the most capable handlers of horses in the country.

St. Bernard will be ridden by Don Meade, the contract rider for Col. Ed-

TAYLOR NEWEST JOCKY STAR AT ARLINGTON PARK

12-1 Shot Among Youth's Three Winners.

Dublin Taylor, the new jocky star in the barn of Mose Goldblatt of Cincinnati, was in the limelight yesterday afternoon at Arlington Park. He sported silks in seven races and won three of them, getting the 5 to 1 shot, Bobby's Son, home in the first race, winning on the 12 to 1 shot, Brilliant Duke, in the second, and piloting Prince Pest in at nearly 4 to 1 in the sixth race.

The best race on yesterday's program was the fifth at 7 furlongs, in which Hoosier's Pride won by two lengths over Bay Servant and Transcall. Hoosier's Pride was the even money favorite.

The first handicap of the thirty day Hawthorne meeting—the $1,200 Berwyn at 6 furlongs which will feature the eight race opening day card on Monday—is attracting a well balanced field. Among the early entries are Isaiah, Princess Camelia, Bien Fait, Clarify, Croon, Joseph E. Widener's Chance Line, and the Audley farm pair of Giggling and Bright Shadow.

Although the weights are not due until today, the Corsicana entry of Bien Fait, Clarify, and Croon was winning considerable advance support and only the placing of heavy imposts on the three thoroughbreds named for the race is likely to remove them from the post of public choice.

13 Named for Rich Futurity Sprint Today

ward R. Bradley. Albuquerque will have the veteran Charley Corbett in the saddle.

Supporting C. V. Whitney's Today in the effort to make it an eastern triumph are Morton L. Schwartz's filly Good Gamble, and Special Agent, property of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable. California's hopes are centered in Norman Church's Toro Nancy. Kentucky has another prospect in Brownell Combs' Luminosa. Prince Splendor, owned by Thomas C. Worden, gives Chicago still another strong candidate.

Nellie Flag Formidable.

Nellie Flag, victorious in both her starts, is certain to command extensive support. She is a rugged miss which many observers believe will be benefited by the fast early pace expected to be made by Albuquerque and St. Bernard. Today's race against Nellie Flag Wednesday was his first in a month and a half, and much improvement is expected of him this afternoon.

In addition to Nellie Flag, the fillies in the overnight field are Toro Nancy Luminosa, and Good Gamble. Toro Nancy and Blue Armor are the only maidens among the candidates.

With a gross value of $60,820, the Futurity will have $43,735 net for the winner. Second money will be $7,000, third $3,000, and fourth $1,500. The breeder of the winner will receive $2,000, the breeder of the second horse, $2,000, and of the third, $500.

The Futurity will be run as the sixth race at about 5 o'clock.

Ladysman, owned by W. R. Coe of New York, was the winner of the first Arlington Futurity in 1932. Last year Far Star, owned by Charles T. Fisher of Detroit, was the winner. She beat such good 2 year olds stars as Singing Wood, Hadagal, and her own stable companion, Mata Hari.

FINDS PERJURY IN DEMPSEY'S DIVORCE CASE

Reno, Nev., July 27.—(AP)—James C. McKay, Reno sportsman whose trial with William Graham on mail fraud charges resulted in a jury disagreement, was accused of committing perjury in testifying as Jack Dempsey's divorce residence witness here in 1931, in a complaint filed today by District Attorney Melvin Jepson.

Jepson charged McKay appeared in a Reno court Sept. 21, 1931, the day the former heavyweight champion was divorced from Estelle Taylor, actress, and testified that he personally saw Dempsey in Nevada every day from April 1, 1931, until Aug. 31, 1931.

In the New York mail fraud trial McKay testified that he was undergoing medical treatment in a Vallejo, Cal., hospital early in July, 1931, and that on July 7 of that year Dempsey visited him there.

The district attorney's complaint alleges McKay testified falsely as Dempsey's residence witness. The prosecutor said McKay will be placed under arrest "at the first opportunity."

Time, :23 1-5, :47, :59 4-5, 1:06 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bobby's Son, $14.38 straight, $5.66 place, $3.44 show; Lovito, $4.92 place, $2.84 show; Toro Flight, $2.34 show. Winner trained by W. G. Sparks. Went to post at 2:20. At post 5 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

BOBBY'S SON, racing in game fashion, followed in close attendance, alternated in setting the pace, gave game response to punishment and outfinished LOVITO in a strenuous drive. Latter moved to the front early, was steadied while setting the pace, gave way briefly rounding the turn, held on gamely while submitting, but was not good enough. TORO FLIGHT, slow to find his best stride, gained steadily in the drive, and was going fastest in the closing strides.

SECOND RACE—Five and a half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 4-5, :47 3-5, 1:00 3-5, 1:06 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Brilliant Duke, $26.42 straight, $8.74 place, $4.66 show; Willa T., $3.62 place, $2.76 show; Lady Louella, $2.76 show. Winner trained by W. J. Potter. Went to post at 2:47½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

BRILLIANT DUKE, in close pursuit from the start, saved ground throughout, was lucky to get through on the inside, gave response to strong handling, and was up to win in the closing strides. WILLA T., prominent throughout, was kept in contention under occasional pressure, closed strong, and probably would have won under stronger handling. LADY LOUELLA had fine speed setting the pace, and held on gamely while giving way.

THIRD RACE—Hertz course, one mile out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 4-5, :48, 1:13 2-5, 1:38 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bonnie Marita, $4.70 straight, $3.52 place, $2.50 show; Hyman, $6.00 place, $3.60 show; Annan, $2.58 show. Winner trained by B. A. Jones. Went to post at 3:14. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

BONNIE MARITA, away fast but eased off the pace and under steady restraint for five-eighths, took command gradually and was vigorously ridden out. HYMAN, away slowly, moved up on stretch turn and weakened in late stages, but outfinished ANNAN. Latter, in poor position badly jostled side, improved his position with a rush and faltered badly.

DAILY DOUBLE—Second and third races, paid $84.74.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 :46 3-5, 1:11 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Blue Day, $7.52 straight, $4.50 place, $2.84 show; Carbon, $8.34 place, $4.16 show; Pryor, $2.70 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:40½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won handily, place driving.

BLUE DAY, reserved off the early pace, responded readily to pressure, wore down the leaders entering the stretch, then held away to the end. CARBON, prominent from the start, closed gamely, but could not menace the winner. PRYOR, a strong contender for five-eighths, weakened under strong riding.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

H. Battle. Went to post at 4:06. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

HOOSIER'S PRIDE, never far back and under steadying reserve, moved up fast approaching the stretch, improved his margin inside the fin al eighth, but was under vigorous pressure to maintain his advantage, when the latter rallied and closed strong. BAY SERVANT, sent to the front soon after the start, continued in the lead under mild restraint, gave way when challenged, then responded gamely to pressure and was gaining on the winner in the closing strides. TRANSCALL closed resolutely after making a slight gain.

GIANTS INCREASE LEAD IN LEAGUE; BEAT PHILS, 6-3

New York Holds 3 Game Advantage Over Cubs.

New York, July 27.—(AP)—The Giants found the seventh place Phillies easy opponents today after yesterday's pair of bitter battles with the Cardinals and scored a 6 to 3 victory with the aid of Hal Schumacher's pitching.

The victory, while the second place Cubs were idle and the Cardinals lost to Pittsburgh, enabled the league leaders to increase their margin to three full games over Chicago and five over St. Louis.

The Giants handed Schumacher a big lead when they blasted Roy [Snipe] Hansen for all their runs in the second and third innings, and the big right hander breezed through on a seven hit pitching job. It was his fifteenth victory of the season against five defeats.

PIRATES, 4; CARDINALS, 0.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 27.—(AP)—Bill Swift held the Cardinals to seven hits today to give the Pirates their second shutout in two days, 4 to 0.

After six scoreless innings of a duel between Swift and Jess Haines, the Pirates solved the St. Louis veteran's delivery for three runs in the seventh, when Gus Suhr broke the spell with a triple. Manager Pie Traynor came through with a single for the first run. Tommy Thevenow and Earl Grace followed with base hits and Thevenow scored the third tally on Swift's fly.

Suhr scored again in the eighth off Jim Mooney on a walk, Traynor's hit and Thevenow's fly.

Only one runner got as far as second against Swift and none reached third. He struck out seven and didn't grant a pass.

LEGION BOWLERS OF LOOP FORM TWO LEAGUES

Two American Legion bowling leagues have been organized by loop posts, W. G. Albert, chairman of the legion Cook county bowling committee, announced yesterday.

The leagues will open in September with the 6 p. m. circuit to operate at Bensinger's, 73 West Monroe street, and the other league to bowl at 8 p. m. at the Congress Recreation, 31 East Congress street.

The following posts have entered: Board of Trade, Continental Bank, Board of Education, Lawrence Highway, Peoples Gas, Commonwealth Edison, Naval, Chicago and Alton, Consumers, Marine, Chipilly, Van Buren, Harold Taylor, Chicago Elevated, Advertising Men, and Civil Service.

The next meeting of the leagues will be Tuesday night at Civil Service post headquarters, 177 North Clark street.

TWENTY DRIVERS QUALIFY FOR RACES AT ROBY

A well matched field will compete tomorrow afternoon in the auto races at Roby-Chicago speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis avenue.

Twenty midwestern drivers, survivors of time trials held late yesterday, will take part in the thre speed events. These will be at ten, fifteen, and twenty-five miles. Chief among the qualifiers are Ted Tetterton of North Chicago, Cowboy O'Rourke, Shorty Sorenson of Aurora, Louis Brown, University of Illinois student, and a pair of brother teams—Joe and Marty O'Brien of Gary, Ind., and George and John Bauer of Forest Park, Ill.

Other prominent Chicagoland pilots who will take part are John Wagner of Melrose Park, Eddie Eldner, Billy Rupp, and Bumpy Bumbaegu of Chicago, and George Rossted, Oak Park.

Lucille Robinson Enters Iowa Woman's Golf Final

Des Moines, Ia., July 27.—(AP)—Lucille Robinson of Des Moines and Mrs. Dave Bonnella of Ottmwa will meet tomorrow for the state women's golf championship. Miss Robinson, present state and western champion, entered the finals with a 4 and 3 victory over Day Waterman of Davenport, while Mrs. Bonnella eliminated Dennet Jones of Des Moines, 5 and 4.

Hold Finals Tonight in Fair Casting Meet

Finals in the county bait casting contest will be held this evening at the pool of the Motorboat and Sportsman show, Travel and Transport building of the World's Fair. Twelve casters will compete. Casting clubs represented will be Illinois, Chicago Fly, Evanstons, and Lincoln park.

MOON MULLINS—A COUPLE OF DANDIES

Cubs Battle Reds Today After Day Off

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 27.—The Cubs, all churned up about the success of their invasion of the east which netted them ten victories in sixteen contests, despite the fact that the team's two reputed aces, Lon Warneke and Guy Bush, produced only one victory each, are here to engage the humpty-dumpty Reds in a single game tomorrow and a double header Sunday.

The Cubs have won eight and lost four in competition with the Reds so far this year.

Warneke is scheduled to pitch tomorrow. Lon is in excellent health and there is every reason to believe he will snap out of the slump he has been in since he made a poor showing in the all-star game in New York on July 10.

Malone Is Ready.

Manager Grimm has not decided on his starters for the Sunday game, but Pat Malone, the handsomely revived behemoth, and nervous Bill Lee, the pair who presided at six of the Chicago triumphs in the east, are the most likely choices.

Warneke will have to come back to pitch two innings in the curtain raiser Tuesday, the bobtailed affair against the St. Louis Cardinals dedicated to Umpire William [One Mistake] Klem's one mistake. Under the terms of President John A. Heydler's ruling on the Cards' protest of the July 2 game in Chicago, the teams are to take the field with the same lineups, as nearly as possible, as were in the game at the time Klem made his now historic misinterpretation of the infield fly rule. This calls for the presence of Warneke in the lineup.

Manager Grimm said that he would have preferred to use Lon in the curtain raiser, then let him continue in the full sized contest to follow. The need of using him tomorrow will not give the Arkansan enough rest for such special duty, however, according to the belief of the Cub boss.

Last year the Cubs won only 31 road games all season, east and west, for a percentage of .413. Their percentage on this eastern trip was .625, a great average, especially considering that even the best of pennant winning teams rarely have shown a road average as good as .500.

The Cub chances of grabbing the league lead within the next ten days call for steady playing against teams over whom they now enjoy a wide lead in the season play to date.

Cards, Then the Reds.

Tuesday they will open a series in Chicago against the rip snortin' Cardinals. It will be a three game stand, not counting the aforesaid two inning curtain raiser.

The Reds will follow the Cards into Chicago for four games, including a double header on Aug. 5. From Aug. 7 to Aug. 12, inclusive, the Cubs will divide their time between Pittsburgh and St. Louis, then will return to Wrigley field to receive Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York, in the order named.

Upon his arrival here Manager Grimm received word from Chicago that Pitcher Guy Bush will report to the team here tomorrow. It is not likely that Bush, who has been suffering from an ear infection, will work in the three game series.

NATIONAL OPEN TENNIS TOURNEY TO BEGIN TODAY

The sixth annual national open lawn tennis tournament will open this afternoon at the Washington park grass courts under the auspices of the south park commission.

The Mayor Edward J. Kelly trophy will be awarded to the winner of the men's singles final Sunday, Aug. 5.

This is the only tennis tournament in America open to all races and nationalities. The men's singles winner in 1929 and 1930, Conrado Limjoco of the Philippine Islands, has just landed on the Pacific coast and is expected to compete. Wilfred Jones of Boston university and a member of the Longwood Lawn Tennis club, was the champion in 1931 and 1932. The 1933 World's Fair winner was John Curtis of Harvard university, who will not defend his title.

Aurelius Miles, the 1933 junior champion of Chicago; Richard Hudlin, St. Louis, former captain of the University of Chicago team, and Jim Barton of Northwestern university, runner-up in 1933, will compete again.

IRISH GATHER TONIGHT FOR FEIS OF TARA

The Irish Feis of Tara, annual athletic spectacle, will be held tonight at Shewbridge field with some of Ireland's old time athletic stars in attendance.

James J. Fahey, world's record holder of the three standing jumps, will entertain the delegation, which will include Tom Leahy, high jumper; James J. Dineen, dash man from the old 7th regiment before the world war; Jack Corcoran, weight man of the Irish-American Athletic club of New York, and Mike McTigue, former boxer.

Raising and striking the hurling ball for distance and football place kicking for distance are among the athletic events on the program.

In the Wake of the News

DAVIS CUP FINALS.

AMERICA'S tennis triumph over Australia, 3 matches to 2, in the interzone final, thereby earning the right to meet Great Britain in the challenge round for the Davis cup, beginning today, was astounding in the manner of its accomplishment. Gameness and rallying power of the Yankees were so great as to stimulate hope of their bringing home the international trophy, which has not been in this country since France lifted it in 1927. Yet one must confess that odds should be about 7 to 5 against us.

FRANK SHIELDS.

Americans were advance favorites over Australia. Hope fled, however, when Crawford beat Shields in straight sets and Vivian McGrath, double handed player of back strokes, downed Wood in four sets in the first two singles. Lott and Stoefen then took the doubles in what seemed only prolonging the agony. Then followed the amazing reversal of form with Wood downing Crawford in five sets and Shields beating McGrath in three sets.

Now about these Britons. Gauged by last year's play the test would seem almost hopeless. On Wimbledon results and more particularly the Australian matches, Yankees have a good chance. Assuming Lott and Stoefen will take the doubles, by no means certain, two singles victories are necessary.

Perry and Austin are tough nuts to crack for Shields and Wood. They are especially tough if we recall last year's match in which Perry beat Allison and Vines, since turned professional, while Austin beat the same pair for four singles victories with only Lott and Van Ryn prevailing over Perry and Hughes in the doubles. It may be recalled also that Perry and Crawford were finalists in our own national singles, Perry winning in five sets when Crawford tired.

On the other hand, Shields beat Austin at Wimbledon this year and carried Crawford to five sets, while Wood succumbed to Perry in the finals only after five sets.

For the benefit of those who like figures, here are some previous scores:

INTERZONE FINALS, 1933.

SINGLES—Fred Perry defeated Wilmer Allison, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4; H. W. (Bunny) Austin defeated Ellsworth Vines, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4; Perry defeated Vines, 1-6, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5, 7-6, and 40-15 [default]; Vines collapsed; Austin defeated Allison, 6-3, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4.

DOUBLES—Lott and Van Ryn defeated Perry and Hughes, 6-0, 6-4, 6-1.

AMERICAN SINGLES, 1933.

SINGLES—Crawford defeated Wood in fourth round, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-6; Perry defeated Stoefen in semi-finals, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2; Crawford defeated Shields in semi-finals, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3; Perry defeated Crawford, 6-3, 11-13, 4-6, 6-0, 6-1.

WIMBLEDON SINGLES, 1934.

QUARTER FINALS—Shields defeated Austin, 4-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5; Wood defeated Kirby [South Africa], 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-0; Perry defeated Lott in four sets, last 10-8. Crawford beat Stoefen.

SEMI-FINALS—Crawford defeated Shields, 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4; Perry defeated Wood, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

FINAL—Perry defeated Crawford, 6-3, 6-0, 7-5.

INTERZONE FINAL, 1934.

SINGLES—Crawford defeated Shields, 8-6, 6-2, 13-10; McGrath defeated Wood, 7-5, 6-4, 1-6, 9-7; Wood defeated Crawford, 6-3, 9-7 [rain then causing postponement], 4-6, 4-6, 6-2; Shields defeated McGrath, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

DOUBLES—Lott and Stoefen defeated Crawford and Quist, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Arlington Futurity.

These futurities for 2 year olds are as uncertain as Kentucky Derbies and Preakness stakes. Especially is this true of the Arlington Futurity, run this afternoon as the feature event of the final day at the $4,000,000 plant out on the Northwest highway.

By fall often there is a standout performer. At this time many youngsters, held back earlier for fuller development, are just being "sent to the races" to prove their worth. That is the case today in a decidedly open event in which are entered nearly all the topnotch candidates from both east and west. After the race opinion will be more definite on their chances in the Saratoga stakes and the Belmont Futurity to follow.

Another thing adding to uncertainty is the shorter routes for 2 year olds. Post behavior, jocky alertness, racing luck, are more important factors than in races over a longer distance. We'd slip you the winner but we don't feel absolutely sure.

Hitchcock to Play Back in Polo Series

New York, July 27.—(AP)—The assignment of Tommy Hitchcock to the position of back probably will feature the radical reorganization of the eastern team in preparation for the all-star series with the west to be played in September on International field at the Meadowbrook club, Long Island.

Hitchcock, the east's only ten goal player and the man around whom the team is being reconstructed, is understood to have acquiesced in the shift at the urging of Devereux Milburn, chairman of the eastern committee.

New Position for Hitchcock.

Although he first made his reputation as a spectacular forward, playing No. 2, in his international debut in 1921, Hitchcock played No. 3 throughout most of the east-west series at Chicago last year, although trying No. 2 for a while in a vain attempt to avert defeat in the concluding match.

Because of his long hitting and tactical skill Hitchcock is considered a "natural" to play the chief defensive rôle. In the opinion of Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo association, "he has the ability to become the greatest back of all time."

Lineup in Doubt.

The eastern ace has been freed this year from all responsibility for team selection and strategy, except when he is on the actual playing field. The lineup of the eastern four, still very much in doubt, will be decided by a series of test matches, starting next Wednesday.

HORNSBY'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE, CUSTODY OF SON

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Jeanette Hornsby, wife of Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis American league baseball team, today filed suit for divorce at Clayton, Mo., alleging indignities and asserting that Hornsby has an ungovernable temper, is jealous and "criticized, nagged, fretted, and heckled" the plaintiff. Mrs. Hornsby asked for alimony and custody of their son.

Hornsby's first wife filed for divorce in St. Louis in 1923 when John A. Hine, first husband of the present Mrs. Hornsby, brought Hornsby's name into a suit to set aside his divorce.

BELL DEFEATS GRANT TO TAKE SEABRIGHT BOWL

Seabright, N. J., July 27.—(AP)—Berkeley Bell of New York continued his tennis comeback today by winning the Seabright singles bowl from Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta, Ga., in a five set battle, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Bell's game was far below his play in beating Wilmer Allison yesterday in the semi-finals. Three times in the first set, after leading 40-0 or 40-15, he lost long deuce games and in the fourth set his errors let Grant run up a 4-0 lead. His backhand was weak.

Grant, too, was below form after his first spurt, in which he took five of the last six games to win the first set, and allowed Bell only two games in the fourth.

The final in the women's doubles saw Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal., and Elizabeth Ryan, London, England, triumph over Mrs. John W. Van Ryn, Philadelphia, and Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana., Cal., 7-5, 6-3.

Miss Jacobs meets Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles in the women's singles at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The men's doubles finals is set for 4 o'clock. Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John W. Van Ryn, Philadelphia, oppose Bell and Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, N. J.

Sox Rested for Three Games with Tigers

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox indulged in a 100 per cent job of loafing yesterday after taking three in a row from the Washington Senators, present league champions even if they don't look the part. Now the Pale Hose have a new task on their hands—the Detroit Tigers, who think, rightly or otherwise, that they are going to be the next titleholders of the American league.

The Tigers will be here for three games—one today and a pair tomorrow—and probably are tickled pink over the prospects of easy picking. If by chance the Detroit crowd should happen to nose out the Yanks in the pennant race they will tender the Sox at least a vote of thanks. The Chicagoans have dropped 10 out of 13 games to them and nobody knows how many more they'll drop in the nine contests remaining to be played between them.

Fading Lyons to Start.

Today's pitching chores against the Tigers probably will be entrusted to Ted Lyons, who is striving desperately to stage a comeback. The one time wizard from Baylor university apparently has pitched himself out as the result of laboring over a stretch of seasons for a feeble outfit, and there is only a slim chance that he'll ever again blossom into a consistent winner. The Tigers may start Fred Marberry, who hasn't been so hot lately, thus increasing the Sox chances for making amends for what he has done to them at various times this season.

The recent improvement of the Sox—a matter made plainly evident by their three in a row from the Senators—has been due to something else than a brace in the pitching department. A big item in the revival has been fielding, especially on the left side of the infield where Luke Appling and Marty Hopkins now are performing regularly.

Luke and Marty not only are choking off some potential base hits, but also are keeping ordinary bounders from going safe, as was the case when Chamberlin and Boken were nose diving around shortstop and third base. The tightening of the defense keeps the pitchers from becoming discouraged. Appling also has been a big help at bat. Hopkins isn't much in the hitting line, but his fielding, at least, helps to keep the team from looking sickly even when losing.

Move to St. Louis Next.

After completing their double header job with the Tigers tomorrow the Sox will move down to St. Louis, where the Browns and the usually midsummer heat of that place will be awaiting them. Five games will be staged there in four days. Then the Sox move over to Detroit for another session with the Tigers. This will be a three game affair. After that the Sox will come home for a week before setting out on their final eastern tour of the season.

It is possible that before the eastern tour starts Jack Hayes will have worn off the effects of his recently fractured thumb. Manager Dykes may return Hayes to second as soon as the ex-Senator is available, but whether he will place himself at third and bench Hopkins depends on what happens in the next ten days.

JURY CONVICTS 3 HORSEMEN ON DOPE CHARGE

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—(AP)—Three men were convicted of violating the federal narcotic laws and two acquitted by a jury in Federal District court today as the climax of an alleged horse doping case involving the Audley farms stable.

Joseph F. Patterson of Berryville, Va., manager and chief trainer of the stable, was convicted of conspiracy and concealment and possession of narcotics. Robert Wingfield, assistant trainer, and Horace Moore, stable hand, were convicted of those charges and also of purchasing illegal narcotics. They are of Louisville, Ky., as are Morton Smith and Thomas Murray, stable hands, who were acquitted.

The defense was granted a stay of sentence until tomorrow morning.

Federal narcotics agents testified that they saw a drench given to the racehorse Knight's Gal at the Detroit Fair Grounds track last October, that they seized a bottle containing narcotics in the stable, and found additional narcotics in Wingfield's room. It was charged that Patterson sent the preparations to Wingfield. Patterson testified that the compounds he sent contained no narcotics, but that Wingfield told him later narcotics had been added.

Y. M. C. A. Swim Meet to Be Held Today at Fair

The Chicago Y. M. C. A. individual outdoor swimming championships will be decided at the World's Fair pool in the north lagoon this afternoon. Three divisions will swim. The juniors, all of whom are 14 years and under, will swim in three events. The intermediates, all boys from 15 to 18 years of age, will swim in four events and compete in fancy diving. The seniors will swim in four events and will also compete in the fancy diving.

WINS TENNIS TITLE.

Crawford Notch, N. H., July 27.—(AP)—Eunice Dean of Houston, Tex., today gained the New Hampshire state and White Mountains singles tennis title by defeating Lydia Kayser of Wilmington, Del., 6-2, 6-4.

BUD FOSTER, Wisconsin's new basketball coach, is the second of Dr. Walter Meanwell's pupils to land a Big Ten job and the fifth to become head coach at a large school. . . . The others are Craig Ruby at Illinois, Gus Tebell at Virginia, Bill Chandler at Marquette, Rollie Williams at Iowa, and Marshall Diebold at Carleton. . . . Paul Stagg will marry Miss Virginia Russell on Aug. 14 at the Thorndyke Hilton chapel on the Midway campus, two day's before his father's 72d birthday. . . . Paul will take up his new duties as football coach at Moravian college in the fall. . . . Hiram Horton, whose Vileehi last week won the annual San Pedro to Hawaii yacht race, lived in Chicago until a few years ago. . . . His time for the 2,200 miles was just under 14 days. . . . Horton recently sailed around the world in the Vileehi, an 82 foot cruising ketch. . . .

There are those who think that sometimes Connie Mack forgets to play his rôle as the sweet old man of baseball. . . . He has caused several rooters to be thrown out of Shibe park for cracks to his players bearing strictly on baseball, but he turns a deaf ear on loud mouthed gents who shout at a Sox player about a broken engagement. . . . The young lady's name is bawled out without any objections from the supposedly gentle Mr. Mack. . . . Ellsworth Vines says that Tilden is the greatest tennis player of all time, but he personally would rather meet any other man than Fred Perry of England. . . . Miniature golf is making a comeback in Los Angeles. . . . Coast football writers rate Washington and California as strongest contenders for the conference championship next fall. . . . He started three times in New York last year and finished second once, third once and fourth on the other occasion. . . . That probably is the reason New Yorkers are not so excited about him as the folks are in the middle west. . . . Cavalcade, no doubt, will score his first New York victory at Saratoga. . . . He is eligible to the Travers Midsummer Derby and the Saratoga Gold Cup. . . . During the heated stay in Philadelphia many of the Cubs were assigned to rooms along an exclusive corridor of their hotel. . . . This permitted the organization of a nudist bridge colony. . . . Dizzy Dean has revised his estimate of Brother Paul's success and says now Paul will not win 40 games. . . . He will win 50, Dizzy predicts, after which the Cardinals will pay him $8,000. . . . Because the drouth has burned midwestern fairways bare, Nebraska golfers are thinking of adopting a plan evolved by Don Elliott, basketball official. . . . Doormats are used for tees in winter golf and he has suggested that a small square of the same material be carried by the player to drop on the fairway and play the ball from it. . . . Meredith Hopkins, new White Sox infielder, is from the University of Texas. . . . The Yankees took him off the campus a few years ago and then farmed him out. . . .

Mathiesen and Smead Reach Midwest Final

Charles Smead, 16 year old golfer from Sportsman's park, and Harold Mathisen, Cherry Hill, will meet in the 36 hole final match of the midwest public links tournament at Lincoln park today. Smead advanced to the finals yesterday by eliminating Al Anderegggen, Cherry Hill veteran, 1 up, while Mathisen defeated R. A. Bowman, York, 3 and 2.

A birdie three on the 18th hole gave Smead victory over Anderegggen. Smead was 2 up at the 10th hole, but his opponent won the following two holes to square the match at the 12th. Anderegggen was 1 up at the 14th, but the match was squared again when Smead won the 15th. Smead took the 16th and Anderegggen won the 17th. Smead then scored his birdie to triumph.

Mathisen rallied on the last nine to win from Bowman. The latter carded a 40 for the first nine holes, while Mathisen was shooting a 43. Mathisen then won the first three holes on the second round. Bowman, however, won the 14th. The 15th was halved and Mathisen won the 16th, where the match ended.

The Cook county council of the American Legion and the 40 and 8 will hold their golf tournament at Silver Lake Country club, 143d street, one mile west of Harlem avenue, today. More than 100 foursomes already have registered.

An exhibition golf match will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Exmoor Country club, in which Helen Hicks, former national women's champion and now a professional; Rena Nelson, Chicago district title holder; Jimmy Harrison, Exmoor champion, and Alex Stupple, professional at that club, will take part. Miss Hicks will be paired with Harrison and Miss Nelson with Stupple. The public will be admitted free.

Herbert Field won low gross in the Chicago Mercantile Exchange field day yesterday at the Itasca Country club, shooting a 77 over the par 73 course. Howard Edson was second with 81. B. W. Redfearn, 98—26—72, took low net and Frank Collyer, 103—30—73, was second low net. Guest prizes were awarded to A. L. Doering Jr., 81, and C. L. Salter, 85.

The Tam O' Shanter Golf club's annual invitation tournament, Doon th' Burn, will be held Wednesday. Prizes will be awarded for morning and afternoon rounds, and there will be entertainment in the evening. Approximately 800 members and guests are expected.

Winners in the First National bank's golf tournament yesterday at Brae Burn were: Class A—R. Matson, 81—11—70; C. Chester, 88—17—71, and L. Bohaseck, 92—20—72. Class B—D. Hinkel, 102—26—76; H. Beck, 106—30—76; R. Lamson, 103—26—77, and R. Taylor, 104—27—77. Class C—L. Grundell, 127—51—76; C. Margraff, 115—38—77, and A. Henke, 120—42—78.

WOOD CONQUERS WATROUS IN PRO TOURNEY, 2 AND 1

Runyan, Shute and Kunes Also Reach Semi-Final.

was short coming out from a poor lie. His putt for a half halted on the very lip of the cup. They halved the 25th, Metz getting down a great putt to go around Runyan's partial stymie. Runyan had a great drive to the short 26th, the ball falling two feet past the pin for an easy deuce.

Metz than rallied with one of the few eagles of the tournament on the long 27th, getting on with two fine woods and sinking a fourteen foot putt for his three. Both were 25 feet past the pin at the 28th, and Paul sank his putt to go two up. They halved the 29th and 30th with birdie fours. Metz sank a twelve footer on the 31st and was only four feet over the pin for another birdie on the 32d, making him only one down. Runyan sank an 18 footer for a half at the 33d.

Metz Squares Match.

Dick then evened the match with two great shots to the 34th, while Paul was in a trap with his second and nearly over the green with his recovery. Paul made a beautiful second shot out of the rough to within less than a foot of the 35th, and won the hole against Metz's par.

Runyan's second shot on the thirty-sixth went askew into the crowd around the last green and would undoubtedly have rolled 30 or 40 yards beyond had not it struck a number of galleryites. It dropped on the bank to the left of the green and he chipped over to 10 feet, sinking the putt to match Metz's par and win the match.

Watrous and Wood failed to score the now common birdies on the first, halving it in par, but Wood's 70 foot pitch and run shot off the edge of the second green gave him a birdie and the hole. Watrous responded to this by winning the third with a 15 foot putt.

Al won the ninth by reaching the green with a spoon second, while Wood was short with his iron and missed an eight-footer for a half. The Detroit star chipped dead for a birdie and the 11th. Al went three up at the 15th when he sank a great 20 foot putt for another birdie. He lost the 17th, however, when he was short of the green, Wood winning it with a par.

Tries for Eagle.

Watrous went 3 up when he won the nineteenth with a birdie, which was almost an eagle, for his 8 foot try struck the cup and bounded away. Wood matched this by winning the next two with birdies, his second falling 18 inches from the pin, while he holed out an 8 footer for a 3 at the twenty-first. The match was square after the twenty-third, where Watrous missed a 2 footer after being short with his drive. Al was 1 down to Craig's par at the twenty-seventh, where he took 3 to get on and 3 to get down, trying to hop Wood's partial stymie.

Watrous again almost got an eagle on the thirtieth to win it. Wood dropped a 25 footer for a birdie 3 at the thirty-second. Watrous made what was probably the greatest half of the tournament at the thirty-fourth. He drove the rough and his second shot was still there, practically stymied by a tree. He pitched over to within 10 feet and sank the putt. Wood's second to the thirty-fifth was a foot from the cup for a winning birdie, while Watrous' try for another half, this time from 15 feet, bounced out of the cup.

LYAUTEY, FRENCH COLONIZER AND SOLDIER, IS DEAD

Served as War Chief Under Briand.

THOREY, France, July 27.—(AP)—A national funeral service for Marshal Louis H. Lyautey, soldier-colonizer, who died today, will be held at the Nancy cathedral probably Wednesday. A short religious ceremony will be held at his home here tomorrow.

Marshal Lyautey, who was 80 years old and who was a virtual war dictator of France under Aristide Briand, died wearing a ring on which was engraved his favorite motto, a verse from Shelley, "The soul's joy lies in doing."

Seriously Ill for Week.

The aged marshal had been seriously ill for the last week. He had suffered from an ailment involving his gall bladder, but was believed recovering when pneumonia developed.

The passing of Lyautey was announced by a loud clamor of the village church bells, and all the countryside mourned the passing of the veteran. The sultan of Morocco, a territory which Lyautey served as resident general and which he saved for France, turned back from Marseilles, where he was embarking, to return to the funeral.

Although Lyautey never was in service on the western front in the world war, he was considered to be worth an army in himself, for he kept Morocco for France without using a single soldier from the mother country.

Enters Army at Early Age.

Lyautey was born in 1854, of an old Lorraine family, in the patriotic atmosphere of the frontier, and, like so many boys of the region, adopted a military career. A precocious student, he graduated high in his class at Saint Cyr and immediately became an active factor in the army.

Service in Madagascar, Indo-China, Algeria, and West Africa was his experience before the time came to crown his career by developing Morocco. He had served an apprenticeship for this task as commander of the Oran army corps.

Lyautey began his work in Morocco three days after the outbreak of insurrection in Fez, May 21, 1912, when 68 Europeans were massacred, and while 20,000 Berbers were attacking the capital.

Forces Sultan's Abdication.

The French campaign ended in August of the same year with the abdication of Sultan Moulay Hfid. Then Lyautey finished with El Hiba, one of the numerous pretenders to the throne of Morocco.

Lyautey's straightforward way of dealing with the natives and his persuasive manner of offering them the benefits of civilization prevailed at once.

Aubrey Le Blond, Writer, Suffrage Pioneer, Dies

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 27.—Mrs. Aubrey Le Blond, authoress, pioneer of mountaineering for women and freedom for her sex from victorian conventionality, died today at Llandridon, Wales. She was 73. By a coincidence she died on the same day as Marshall Lyautey, whose "Lettres du Tckin" she translated in 1932.

J. Edward Meeker, N. Y. Exchange Economist, Dies

New York, July 27.—[Special.]—J. Edward Meeker, 43, economist of the New York Stock exchange, died today of a pulmonary embolism.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

THE Dollfuss funeral services, including addresses by President Miklas of Austria and Prince von Starhemberg, the new chancellor, will be broadcast from Vienna from 8 to 8:30 this morning over NBC. A description of the services at the Vienna cathedral will be relayed at 11 a. m. WMAQ will be the local outlet. CBS will relay a description of the funeral in English from Vienna at 3 p. m., but there is no local outlet. WABC, New York, will carry it.

Robert Trout, CBS presidential announcer, and Clyde Hunt, engineer, paused in Chicago yesterday en route to Portland, Ore., where President Roosevelt is expected to make his first radio address on his return from Hawaii. They brought with them the special stand and equipment which the President will use in making radio addresses on his trip across the country. It was reported that CBS and NBC would alternate in setting up the special equipment which the President would use on these broadcasts, one net feeding the other one day and then turning about the next.

It's hard to keep up with young Bob Crosby, who left Anson Weeks and W-G-N a few weeks ago. He has given up orchestra conducting to sing at the Paramount theater in New York, where he is currently featured with Lee Wiley, Whiteman Music hall protégé, and Victor Young's orchestra. Young was formerly conductor of the W-G-N studio orchestra and is now heard on the CBS Spotlight revue. Bob has a real record to shoot at. His brother Bing was booked into the same theater for a week three years ago and was held there for 20 weeks.

Mario Chamlee, Chicago operatic tenor, heard last spring on the NBC Garden hour, will return to the air on the Beauty Box Theater, to be aired from New York, next Tuesday evening. Chamlee is to be cast opposite Gladys Swarthout in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of Charles Previn's orchestra, heard on the Silken Strings show on Sunday evenings over NBC, is perhaps the champion musical commuter this summer. Six days a week he is concert master of the Chautauqua Symphony orchestra at Chautauqua, N. Y. Saturday he takes a sleeper which lands him in Chicago Sunday morning. Late Sunday night he heads back east. Mischakoff is concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the winter season. The Chautauque concerts are aired over KYW-NBC at 3 p. m. Sundays. Tomorrow Mrs. Thomas A. Edison will be a guest speaker during the broadcast.

HELD TO JURY IN BURGLARY.

John Meyers, 45 years old, 824 Grace street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,500 by Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the Felony court yesterday on a charge of attempted burglary.

CONGRESS GROUP IN CHICAGO FOR VETERANS' QUIZ

Studies Alleged Abuses in Handling Estates.

A congressional subcommittee, which is investigating alleged abuses of the guardianship and hospitalization of incompetent war veterans throughout country, will hold a session at the Bismarck hotel this morning. Members of the committee, headed by Congressman Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], arrived here yesterday. They inspected the Hines Memorial hospital and praised the facilities and care of the veterans who are patients there.

Congressman Glenn Griswold [Dem., Ind.], author of the resolution which led to the investigation, said that evidence presented to the committee so far has substantiated his charges that individuals and commercial banks, appointed by local Probate courts to administer the estates of incompetent veterans, had abused their trusts. Instances have been uncovered where guardians purposely used veterans' funds to purchase worthless securities and property, Congressman Griswold said.

"The committee will undoubtedly recommend legislation to protect financial interests of incompetent veterans and their heirs," Congressman Patman said. "I believe three things will be proposed:

"First, that commercial trust companies and their affiliates be not permitted to act as guardians of incompetent veterans. Second, that approved banks and trusts authorized to act as guardians be required to furnish sufficient bond in each case. And third, that such estates be not permitted to be built up with large sums of federal money when wards have no dependents."

Congressman Patman said that at present $100,000,000 is involved in estates outstanding. Members of the subcommittee, in addition to Patman and Griswold, are Edith Nourse Rogers [Rep., Mass.], Paul Brown [Dem., Ga.], Charles A. Plumley [Rep., Vt.], and Randolph Carpenter [Dem., Kas.].

REBECCA M. HUNT, CHARITY LEADER FOR YEARS, DIES

Mrs. Rebecca M. Rozet Hunt, a leader in charity work in Chicago for many years, died yesterday in her home at 1006 North La Salle street after a long illness. She is survived by her husband, William Prescott Hunt, investment securities executive.

Mrs. Hunt was a great-granddaughter of Capt. John Paul Schott, an aid to Gen. Washington during the revolutionary war. She was a member of the Daughters of Cincinnati and the Saddle and Cycle club. She served on the women's boards of the Henrotin and St. Luke hospitals and was also active in the work of the United Charities.

Funeral services will be held at the Graceland cemetery chapel Monday afternoon.

MRS. AUGUSTA WERTH, 94 years old, who had lived in Chicago for 70 years, died yesterday in her home at 4327 West Grand avenue. Her husband died several years ago. Burial will be in Shumway, Ill., where Mrs. Werth's son and daughter live.

BOMB EXPLODES IN PARIS SUBWAY; 1 KILLED, 2 HURT

PARIS, July 27.—(AP)—The "Three Judges of Hell"—mad bombers who have terrorized the French capital—were believed by police to be responsible for an infernal machine blast in a Montparnasse subway station which killed the stationmaster and injured two passengers.

A conductor in a "first class" coach found an innocent looking package lying on a seat. At the Montparnasse station, where two subway lines intersect, he turned it over to the stationmaster to be sent to the lost package office.

The train pulled out and, just as the stationmaster was examining the package the bomb inside exploded, killing him.

The episode was the first subway blast in a long series of bombings attributed to the unidentified persons for whom police have sought for months past and who signed notes attached to their bombs: "The Three Judges of Hell."

Rev. Edward F. Pinckert Dies in His Home at 70

The Rev. Edward F. Pinckert, 70 years old, who was pastor of the Evangelical church at West Chicago for ten years until his retirement four years ago, died Thursday at his home at 201 West Madison avenue, Wheaton. Mr. Pinckert is survived by his widow, Julia, and four children, one of whom is the Rev. Otto Pinckert, pastor of the Evangelical church at Milford, Neb. Funeral services will be held this afternoon in Mr. Pinckert's former church in West Chicago. Burial will be in Kansas City, Mo., on Monday.

Mrs. Mary O'Regan Dies; Funeral Services Monday

Mrs. Mary O'Regan, mother of Charles O'Regan, secretary to Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker and of Fireman William O'Regan, died yesterday in her home at 2120 South Ridgeway avenue after a lingering illness. She was 76 years old. Mrs. O'Regan, who was born in Kentucky, is survived by four other sons and a daughter. Funeral services will be held Monday at the Blessed Sacrament church, 2153 South Millard avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item on July 19 Marvin Pedersen, who was accused of paying attention to a policeman's wife, said that he was a divinity student and planned to enter St. Olaf college at Northfield, Minn., in the fall. L. W. Boe, president of the college, said yesterday that the college has no divinity students and Pedersen's application for admission has not yet been accepted.

VATICAN CITY, July 27.—(AP)—Seventy student officers of United States coast guard vessels making training cruises in Mediterranean waters were received today by Pope Pius. The pontiff imparted his blessing to the Americans, and said: "As you guard the coasts so God will guard you from danger."

W-G-N SYMPHONY BROADCAST GETS $10 ICE FUND GIFT

Music Lover Shares His Enjoyment.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Gratitude for the broadcast of the Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts at A Century of Progress over W-G-N brought THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund a $10 contribution yesterday.

Written on the stationary of a well known Chicago physician but signed simply "Music Lover," this note was received by the fund:

"I have been listening to the broadcast of W-G-N of the excellent Chicago orchestra concerts from the Fair, and I feel under obligation to THE TRIBUNE for this enjoyment. As a slight token of this appreciation, please apply the enclosed check to your ice fund for me."

Yesterday gifts to the ice fund slipped far under the $100 mark. During the heat wave readers rushed their gifts to the fund, which was, of course, a great aid to homes where babies' milk otherwise would have spoiled. But, if the gifts languish, the fund will be unprepared for the next hot spell and suffering again will be acute. Therefore, ice fund friends are urged to build the fund against future emergencies.

Cooler weather sent the Camp Algonquin fund's daily average to a low level, also. Only $18.50 was received, just enough money to send two mothers to the Fox river camp for two week vacations. The contributions to both funds are listed below:

CAMP ALGONQUIN FUND.

$12.50—J. D. Goss.
$5—A Friend.
$1—E. B.
Total—$18.50.
Previously acknowledged.....$876.56
Grand total.....$886.06

FREE ICE FUND.

$15—Anonymous.
$12.50—I. D. Goss.
$10—A Music Lover.
$5—A friend, C. D. B., H. C. Wisner company, Bi-Lateral Fire Hose company.
$3—Peggy Loewenthal.
$2—A friend, W. A. Hunt.
$1—Anonymous, E. P., Anonymous.
Total.....$ 67.50
Previously acknowledge.....6,176.82
Grand total.....$6,244.32

Readers should send their gifts to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

E. G. CASE WILL FILED; ESTATE PUT AT $300,000

The will of Elmer Grant Case leaving an estate estimated at $300,000 was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Mr. Case, 69 years old, president of the Case & Moody Pie corporation, shot and killed himself July 12 in the basement of the company's plant at 1807 Walnut street. Attorneys for the estate said the estimated valuation was subject to the outcome of pending litigation against the estate.

Under the terms of the will, specific bequests of $500 are left to a daughter, Mrs. Lorena Case Huszagh of West Palm Beach, Fla., and $50 to a grandson, Victor Huszagh. Mrs. Doris A. Case of the Edgewater Beach hotel, the widow, is given two-thirds of the estate, and the remainder is left to an adopted daughter, Margaret Curry Case.

Other wills admitted to probate and filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, follow:

HANNAH CONNOR, died July 8. Estate $50,000, to two sons and two daughters. Charles J. Connor and William T. Connor sons, co-executors.

ANNA H. LAUNDER, died April 25. Estate $37,500, to brother, sister-in-law and friend. Daniel J. Schuyler, executor.

LEONA E. WEBSTER, died July 21. Estate of $14,000, to sister and cousin. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, executor.

AUGUST REINKE, died July 19. Estate $14,000, to two sons and two daughters. Charles Cooper, executor.

LOUISE HOBART, died April 2. Estate $18,000, to sister. State Bank and Trust company, executor.

EDWARD P. KELLY, died July 14. Estate $5,000, to widow and executrix, Josephine L. Kelly.

CARROLL S. BROWNE, died May 4. Estate $12,000 to Hilda Malmquist, executrix.

ARTHUR H. COOK, died May 22. Estate $15,000, to Victor Anderson, executor.

CARL R. FOWLER, died June 30. Estate $15,000, to widow and executrix, Sophie Fowler.

WITNESS IN U. S. GRAFT INQUIRY TAKES OWN LIFE

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ST. THOMAS, V. I., July 27.—Frederick Thiele, chief witness for the prosecution in a public works department scandal now under investigation, has committed suicide. He was an electrician and mechanical refrigerator salesman, and it was asserted that he had been illegally placed on the pay roll of the public works department. The government's investigators are now inquiring into the sale of refrigerator parts and a compressor to the government house.

Thiele, a father of two sons, left a note for his wife that said in part:

"It was the only way out. I cannot stand it any longer. Tell my sons when they grow up."

Funeral Services for John H. Darrow Monday

Funeral services for John H. Darrow, 74 years old, 7718 Kingston avenue, a resident here for more than seventy years, who died Wednesday in Hollywood, Fla., will be held Monday at St. Bride's Catholic church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. Mr. Darrow had been identified with the hardware business in Chicago for half a century. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth Geary Darrow, to whom he was married nearly fifty years ago, and by a son, Joseph A., and three daughters, Mrs. W. J. Hughey, Clara, and Bessie, all of Chicago.

Troops Bring Under Control 3 Day Forest Fire in France

TOULON, France, July 27.—(AP)—French soldiers, marines, and thousands of volunteers succeeded today in bringing under control a forest fire which in three days burned over 45,000 acres of woodland in this region. Several villages were evacuated and property damage was extensive.

FRANK L. LINDEN, DECORATOR, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Frank L. Linden, 75 years old, decorator of many noted buildings throughout the country, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 8235 Ingleside avenue.

Mr. Linden was born in Chicago, but later went to Rockford, where he attended the public schools. Interested in art as a boy, he went east to study, returning in 1883 to decorate the Chicago home of Samuel M. Nickerson, then president of the First National bank.

Among other Chicago buildings which Mr. Linden decorated was the Grand Army hall in the Chicago public library and the Nathan Jones mansion at Oak street and Michigan avenue, later the home of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. He decorated the Centennial Memorial building at Springfield, Ill., and the Mayo Clinic foundation at Rochester, Minn.

Mr. Linden was an incorporator of the Chicago Architectural Sketch club. He was a member of the Chicago Society of Artists, the Camera club, and the Chicago Art institute.

One son, Frank Jr., survives. Mr. Linden's wife, Mrs. Carrie Louise Linden, died in 1925. Funeral services for Mr. Linden will be held Monday afternoon in the chapel at Oak Woods cemetery.

HOTEL CASH DRAWER LOOTED.

A robber yesterday invaded the Poinsettia hotel, 5528 Hyde Park boulevard, forced the clerk, Ray Forester, to open the cash drawer, and walked out with several rolls of small change.

STOCKS RALLY; EUROPE'S CRISIS LESS ALARMING

Previous Day's Loss Partly Regained.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—The European war scare did not look so alarming to the Wall street speculative element today and enough buying appeared in the stock market to recoup a sizeable part of yesterday's losses. Closing prices, although somewhat below the best of the day, reflected recoveries of 1 to 2 points or more in most departments. A few issues did even better. American Sugar gained 5 points on the day, Cudahy, 4½, U. S. Smelting, 4¼, Allied Chemical, 3¾, and McKeesport Tin, 3 points.

Utility shares were a conspicuous exception to the general comeback of the list. Consolidated Gas broke some 5 points in the late trading, recovering about half in the final few minutes, however. American Telephone finished 2 points lower and Peoples Gas was off 2¾. Columbia Gas was weak and American Water Works ran into flurries of selling but held its own fairly well.

Leading Issues Rally.

A cross section of leading issues showed United States Steel up 1⅛, New York Central, up 2; American Can, up 2½, General Motors, up 1⅝; General Electric, up 1, and Westinghouse, up 1½ points.

Trading was again heavy, the turnover running to around 2,213,000 shares, against yesterday's total of 3,337,000. Many blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changed hands, a rare phenomenon in Wall street these days, and the ticker was several times distanced as much as 2 or 3 minutes.

While there was still evidence of jumpy nerves in some sections of the community, the main body of traders obviously was entertaining a much more optimistic view of the European political situation than prevailed yesterday. Comment indicated a widespread belief that while the longer-term possibility of war on the continent has by no means been ruled out, the current situation stands a good chance of being settled without a general war.

Blame Lag in Business.

In fact, many brokers were voicing the opinion that yesterday's so-called shakeout was due more to discouraged selling based on disappointment over the showing of business, the widespread crop failures and the evident collapse of some of the New Deal recovery policies than to events on the other side of the Atlantic.

Except for the utilities, analysis of today's final prices showed the improvement had been shared by virtually every group.

Chemicals were up 1 to 5 points at their best. Features of the group were Allied Chemical and Du Pont, but last hour selling pared their midday showing considerably.

In the motors section General Motors and Chrysler performed impressively. The oils moved up a point or so. An individual feature was a rise of 4 points in Bethlehem Steel preferred on payment of the first dividend in two years.

Railroad issues, which bore the brunt of yesterday's selling, recovered 1 to 2 points, with Atchison, Union Pacific and New York Central among the group favorites.

GERMAN PACT TO PAY SWISS ALSO MAY GOVERN U. S.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 27.—Terms of the German-Swiss financial agreement, signed yesterday, were published today. They are of special interest to America because of Washington's demands for equal treatment and may apply to American creditors as well.

According to the agreement Germany undertakes to pay creditors through clearance arrangements covering trade and capital transactions and tourist trafic, but interest is to be transferred in the future only up to a maximum of 4½ per cent. Amounts due above this rate are to be put into an amortization fund to reduce Germany's indebtedness.

This system combines two principal demands of Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, namely, reduction of interest rates and reductions of Germany's debt. But, like the British transfer agreement, it also breaks the German transfer moratorium.

PAY BENSENVILLE BANK DIVIDEND WITH RFC FUNDS

Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, yesterday announced that authorization had been given for payment of a 30 per cent dividend, amounting to $42,112, to depositors of the First State bank of Bensenville, Ill., on July 27.

This is the first dividend to be paid since the bank closed. It was announced by William L. O'Connell, receiver, that $28,603 had been applied to bills payable. Distribution of the dividend was made possible through a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Treasury Calls for Bids on $75,000,000 New Bills

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—The treasury has invited bids on a new issue of 182 day discount bills to an amount of about $75,000,000. The bills will be dated Aug. 1 and will mature Jan. 30, 1935.

Bendix Aviation Earnings Slightly Under Year Ago

The Bendix Aviation corporation and subsidiaries report net profit of $756,206 in the June quarter, equal to 36 cents a share, compared with $816,549, or 39 cents a share, in the same period a year ago.

Wanted: Bank Examiner for 'Fed' District

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Failure of Controler of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor to appoint a chief national bank examiner for the Chicago federal reserve district is an ever deepening mystery in banking circles.

Ever since William Taylor resigned on March 15 to accept a bank job in Milwaukee the federal position has been vacant. According to bankers the national bank examiner's office here has never before been vacant for so long a period. Normally a new chief is appointed just as soon as a vacancy occurs. He is either promoted from the ranks or moved in from another district.

Whether the delay is due to some political reason or whether it is merely the result of procrastination in Washington bankers here are unable to determine. Controler O'Conner is now in Europe after a series of speaking tours around the country.

A month ago when O'Connor came to Chicago and held a conference with Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and also treasurer of the Democratic national committee, it was reported that the selection of a chief examiner was being decided. Robert Beatty, acting chief examiner, was called to the conference. Nothing happened, however.

Plans to Probe War Rumors Amuse Brokers.

The demand of Ferdinand Pecora, member of the federal securities and exchange commission, for an official investigation of the "war rumors" that circulated in Wall street on Thursday, gave the financial community one of the few chuckles that it has been able to enjoy since the New Deal took over the regulation of the securities business.

With most of central Europe seething with military activities of one kind or another, with nations imposing a censorship which is only partially successful, and with the news gathering agencies of the entire world scrambling for shreds of information in the midst of official propaganda, stock exchange folk can't understand how a prohibition against rumors can be anything but just another noble experiment.

The rumpus started Thursday when the rumor was heard in Wall street that Italian troops were going to cross the frontier into Austria. Whether the rumor would turn out to be fact hadn't been decided yesterday, but the New York Stock exchange let it be known that it would not conduct an investigation.

No investigation is necessary now, although after Oct. 1, when the securities exchange act goes into effect, what the brother-in-law of the telegraph operator tells a guy named Joe in the customers' room will become the business of the United States government.

NRA Proves Boomerang to Small Manufacturers.

How the NRA turned out to be a boomerang for small manufacturers who clamored for a code in the belief that it would give them advantage against their larger competitors is the story told by the head of a large corporation whose business consists of the manufacture and sale of a standard product.

The smaller producers, he says, worked enthusiastically for a code to cover the industry and drew it up without consulting his company, which happens to be the largest in the industry. The big company wasn't even invited to join, although it subsequently signed up under the code as written by its smaller contemporaries.

The little fellows insisted that the code contain price fixing provisions, in the belief that such provisions would prevent the bigger companies underselling them. And so they wrote price fixing into the code.

Much to their chagrin they discovered after the code went into effect that the fixed prices caused customers to leave the small producers and go to the big producer. All prices being the same in the industry, many buyers chose to do business with the big fellow.

BRITISH TRADE HEAD CITES RISE OF COMMERCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—A cheerful picture of the revival of British trade was painted in the house of commons this afternoon by the president of the board of trade, Walter Runciman. While insisting that there could be no improvement in world trade until conditions became more settled, Runciman emphasized the value of commercial agreements concluded between Great Britain and 13 foreign nations, as a result of which this country's exports had increased in each case.

For the first six months of this year, Runciman asserted, Britain's exports totaled $950,000,000, an increase of $75,000,000 compared with the first six months of 1933, and imports on a similar comparison had increased $210,000,000 to $1,810,000,000.

The most notable increase in Britain's export trade was in woolens and worsteds, which were $15,000,000 better than for the first six months of last year. The export of machinery was about $10,000,000 better, and nonferrous metals and manufactures about $5,000,000.

These are not sensational figures, Runciman explained, but showed a tendency in the right direction.

RFC and Banks Can't Sell Rail Loan Security

An injunction of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson restraining the Reconstruction Finance corporation and five banks for selling $54,000,000 worth of collateral of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, was upheld here yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The collateral secures loans of $17,784,000 made by the banks and the RFC to the railroad. The ruling supporting Judge Wilkerson's action was written by Appeal Judge Evan A. Evans and was concurred in by Judges Samuel Alschuler and Will M. Sparks.

The original injunction resulted from a petition filed March 3, 1933, asking reorganization of the railroad. Officials at the time said the carrier was unable to meet principal and interest on its loans. The line now is being operated by three trustees in bankruptcy.

RFC Is Largest Lender.

The RFC holds the largest portion of the collateral—$41,702,465—against an advance of $13,659,878. The banks, together with collateral held and the amounts of their loan advances, are: Chase National bank, $7,709,000 and $*,000,000; Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust company $4,065,000 and $1,250,000; New York Trust company $1,810,000 and $500,000; Harris Trust & Savings bank $895,000 and $250,000; and the Mississippi Valley Trust company of St. Louis $430,000 and $125,000.

The appellants' appeal was based on four major points. It was argued that [1] the court lacked jurisdiction, [2] that it had no power to enjoin under the bankruptcy law nor [3] power to issue an injunction outside the northern district of Illinois, and that [4] section 77 of the bankruptcy is unconstitutional. The appeals court ruled against all four points of attack declaring jurisdiction extends wherever assets in bankruptcy are located within the boundaries of the United States.

Ruling Defends Injunction.

"The appellants," the ruling stated, "overestimate dangers of such an injunction order. It is not irrevocable and may be vacated. It may at any time be changed upon a convincing showing by creditors. The court will protect the appellants against possible injury traceable to frozen assets anxieties as promptly as it will endeavor to effectuate a plan which will result in the full payment of the appellants' claims and give the maximum safety and security for the holders of other bonds and obligations of debt.

"If plans are not forthcoming with reasonable promptness, relief will be granted the appellants. This must be undertaken expeditiously and proceeded with diligently. But such proceedings must never be viewed as 'nursing receiverships.'"

The ruling termed the appeal "unique" in that the RFC and the banks do not object to the terms of the injunction, as they do not contemplate sale of the collateral, but they do object to being restrained.

RAIL OFFICIALS FAIL TO AGREE ON RATE BOOST

Reports yesterday that the committee of railroad trafic officials meeting here had agreed on proposed freight rate increases ranging as high as 10 per cent were denied in authoritative circles.

The conferees were unanimous in wanting higher rates, but encountered difficulty in adjusting plans to fit all sections of the country. Prime consideration was given to those increases which, if too high, might drive business to competitors. As a result no definite decision has been reached and the officials have returned for further discussions with heads of their lines. Another meeting will be held early next month.

The increases are considered necessary because of higher operating costs, estimated at $360,000,000 annually, resulting from enactment of the pension bill, restoration of wage cuts, and greater costs of materials.

ATCHISON OPERATING NET FOR JUNE SHOWS MODERATE UPTURN

A moderate gain in net operating income for June over a year ago was reported yesterday by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. Net totaled $2,309,587, against $2,011,658. For the first six months the total was $5,197,573, compared with $1,411,741 in the 1933 period. Gross operating revenue amounted to $11,817,977 in June, against $11,231,312, and for the six months reached $60,072,616, compared with $54,473,695 for the first half of 1933.

The Pennsylvania reported $6,276,127, against $7,738,526 for June, 1933, and the Rock Island showed a considerable decline at $455,318 from the $1,366,753 reported for June last year.

The Chicago Great Western reported $66,316, against $256,492 for June, 1933, and $271,697 for the six months, compared with a deficit of $1,518 for the corresponding period last year.

The Boston and Maine sustained a deficit of $19,268 for June, against net income of $403,440 for June, 1933. For the first half year net loss amounted to $568,848, against a deficit of $289,558 in the corresponding period of 1933.

PLAN NOTE ISSUE TO REORGANIZE STUDEBAKER CO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—The tentative plan for the reorganization of the Studebaker corporation, which is now being considered by the principal creditors, calls for the sale of approximately $6,500,000 in new debentures to the present preferred and common stockholders, and for the distribution of Studebaker's holdings in White Motor company in partial settlement of the receivership claims against the corporation. The banking group which has drawn up the present plan would underwrite the offering of debentures.

For each $100 face amount of the receivership claims totaling approximately $21,300,000 against Studebaker, 2.7 shares of the White stock and four shares of new Studebaker stock would be issued. Studebaker owns 95 per cent of the 625,000 outstanding common shares of White.

Holders of the $5,808,200 of Studebaker 7 per cent preferred stock, $100 par value, would be offered 150 shares of the new common stock for each 100 shares of present preferred, and in addition would be given the right to subscribe to $1,500 of the new issue of Studebaker debentures, which would carry a bonus of 200 shares of new common, for each 100 shares of the present preferred.

Holders of the present common stock would be offered the right to subscribe for $225 face amount of new debentures for each 100 shares of common now held. Approximately 1,800,000 shares of new commercial would be issued under these provisions.

STANDARD OIL DENIES HELPING BOLIVIA IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—In a letter to the secretariat of the league of nations, Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, states that his company has not aided Bolivia in its war with Paraguay, as charged by politicians at home and abroad.

Teagle's letter is to be in answer to a memorial being prepared for submission to the league of Paraguay to the effect that Standard of New Jersey is aiding Bolivia in the Chaco dispute. Teagle took occasion to deny the statements of Senator Long of Louisiana on the floor of the senate last June, which were reported to have inspired the decision of the Paraguayan government to send a memorial to the league of nations.

No oil has been found in the Chaco nor has any geological indication of it ever been discovered, Mr. Teagle said, which, he added, branded the story absurd on its face. He stated that last year sales of the New Jersey company subsidiaries in Bolivia and Paraguay were approximately equal, explaining that it was to his company's own interest to observe strict neutrality in the dispute.

PAY MILLION IN DAY UNDER U. S. CORN-HOG PLAN

Washington, D. C., July 27.—(AP)—The corn-hog section of the AAA hit a new "high" today in benefit payments, topping the million dollar mark for the first time.

The benefit checks sent out today to 11,399 farmers totaled $1,052,461. The previous record was set yesterday, when 10,102 checks totaling $856,634 were sent out.

Today's payments brought the total thus far sent out to $14,072,612.

GRAINS SHAKE OFF WAR SCARE; CROP NEWS KEY

Wheat, Corn Make Fractional Gains.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The first feeling of panic with which the speculative markets received news of the Austrian upheaval subsided yesterday and a mild recovery took place in the grain markets. Emphasis swung back again to the domestic crop situation and the outlook for Canadian wheat. A great deal was made of reports from Canada that black rust has appeared in certain sections. Reports on the deterioration of the Canadian crop multiplied.

Trading in all the grain pits yesterday was slower than it had been on the previous day, when transactions in all grains reached a total of 86,027,000 bushels, the biggest volume in several days. Yesterday's trade was estimated at considerably under this figure. Purchases of cash grain in the country fell off. Only 112,000 bushels of corn were booked. Wheat bought for shipment here fell to 33,000 bushels.

Moderate Rains Reported.

Cooler weather prevailed through the American grain belt yesterday, but the rains reported for the most part were moderate. Domestic news, however, was overshadowed by the reports on the Canadian crop, which is now regarded as the "price maker" for wheat. Nearly all authorities are now in agreement that the yield will fall under 300,000,000 bushels and in some quarters further losses are forecast.

The gains chalked up for grain futures amounted to less than a cent a bushel. Wheat contracts advanced ⅝ to ¾ cent, with the September delivery selling at 98½ cents at the close. The May contract closed at $1.02⅝ in the second day of trading in this delivery.

Corn futures were ⅛ to ¾ cent above Thursday, with a final quotation of 65⅝ cents on the September contract. Oats and rye futures recorded comparative advances and December barley advanced a full cent. The latter grain has shown a tendency to drag behind other grains recently.

Final Prices Below Best.

The closing quotations on all grains were under the day's best prices, with September wheat finishing more than a cent under its high for the day.

Prospects on the corn crop do not appear to have changed materially. From Illinois points messages indicated that the crop is making good progress despite the extreme heat, and the outlook in Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin is described as promising.

H. S. Donovan, crop observer, yesterday wired to Thompson-McKinnon on his trip through Canada and the northwest: "Crop conditions in the northwest and western Canada have gone backward since July 1 over a wide area, especially in Saskatchewan, where drouth damage is coming into evidence and developing steadily northward."

The grasshoppers are effecting great damage, Donovan added, and many farmers are cutting oats and barley for hay. A total crop of less than 300,000,000 bushels is indicated and further damage is probable unless cooler weather checks the drouth and insects.

DOLLAR LOWER ON FRANC, POUND; GAINS ON MARK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—The German mark broke sharply today as all other leading European exchange rates moved higher against the dollar. After opening with a net gain of 25 points over the previous close the reichsmark moved steadily downward, touching the day's low of 38.84 cents at the close, off 24 points on the day and down 45 points from the day's high. Trading was light. The Austrian schilling was off a point at a nominal quotation of 18.93 cents.

Sterling moved up ⅜ of a cent to $5.03⅜ and the French franc rose ⅛ of a point to 6.59⅛ cents. The Italian lira, which usually moves in terms of points rather than fractions, rallied ½ point, while the Dutch guilder advanced a point, the Belgian belga 5 points, and the Swiss franc 2 points. The Scandinavian rates were up 1 to 2 points. The Japanese yen advanced 3 points to 29.93 cents in a thin market.

The liner Berengaria arrived today with heavy shipments of gold consigned to various New York banks. The Guaranty Trust company announced that the steamer had brought it $2,178,000 in gold from India and $1,198,000 from England.

LUMBER ORDERS INCREASE 20 PCT. FOR LAST WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 27.—(AP)—A 20 per cent increase in lumber orders at 1,346 mills for the week ended July 21 was reported today by the National Lumber Manufacturers association. There also was an increase in shipments from 124,574,000 for the week ended July 14 to 126,569,000, but a decline from 154,625,000 feet to 152,718,000 feet in production.

Orders for the week totaled 181,987,000 feet, compared with 110,939,000 feet for previous week. During the week ended July 7 orders had dropped to below the 100,000,000 feet mark, or near January levels.

Credit for the increased business was given largely to the end of price uncertainties following the announcement last week of a general 10 per cent reduction in cost production prices. It also was said that ships are being loaded on the west coast in anticipation of renewed activities following settlement of strike conditions there.

When Drouth Helps the Farmer

Farmers removing corn from a wire crib which was sealed when the AAA loaned the owner 45 cents a bushel on it. The prolonged drouth has "bailed out" the farmer (and, incidentally, the AAA) by pushing up the price of cash corn to 66 to 68 cents at Chicago, making it profitable for the farmer to sell his corn and pay off the federal loan. This picture, which is being duplicated throughout the corn belt, was taken on the farm of one Ray Johnson, near Rockwell City in northwestern Iowa.

Retail Trade Gains, General Index Lower

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—Retail business, undeterred by drouth, widespread labor disturbances and generally abnormal temperatures, gained 6 to 8 per cent this week over the previous week's volume and stood 5 to 20 per cent above the corresponding week of 1933, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

"Summer merchandise," said the agency's review, "moved readily and stocks are now expected to be fully cleared before fall lines are made ready for display. Special promotions continued to bring out the main buyer response. The demand for dresses and suits for women and misses was well maintained, with cotton, linen, and rayon the materials chiefly chosen.

Cloth Goods Sales Higher.

"Footwear, including sport shoes, sold freely. Demand for hosiery picked up perceptibly. Without stimulus of any special price inducements, sales of sheets, pillow cases, towels, and bedspreads have been built to the largest volume since last spring, consumers making their fall replacements earlier than usual."

The review also pointed out that special fur promotions have been started in some districts and have shown the best results in several years, while preliminary displays of winter coats and suits attracted wide attention. Wholesale business continued the rise begun the first of July, with chief sales in men and women's clothing, floor coverings, and staple lines of dry goods, groceries, and hardware.

"Less caution is noted in the placing of orders," said the review, "as many retailers have revised upward by 10 to 20 per cent their earlier buying maxima set on fall buying budgets, due to an unexpectedly favorable trend of consumer demand during the current month."

Business Tempo Steady.

The whole tempo of business, despite great difficulties, has been steady during the week, according to the agency. Dun & Bradstreet's business activity barometer, however, declined during the week one full point, taking the index figure to 62.7, the lowest level reached since the final week of January. The total drop from the high of the year has been 8.4 points. The barometer has been below 1933 levels now for four consecutive weeks.

Commercial failures, the agency reported, have increased, but stood this week 36.1 below the figure attained in the corresponding week a year ago. In the previous week the comparison with 1933 was 38.5 below.

The agency's general food index was up again this week to the year's high level touched last in mid-June. It stands now 9.5 per cent higher than in the corresponding period a year ago.

COURT APPROVES REORGANIZATION OF PHONE FIRM

Progress in reorganization of Associated Telephone Utilities company was reported yesterday by R. G. Page, vice president of the Bankers Trust Company of New York and chairman of the committee in charge. Judge Alfred C. Coxe of the federal district court ruled that the proposal of reorganization under the new section 77B of the bankruptcy law is in order and complies with all regulations imposed by law.

Approval of the plan by holders of 75 per cent of the company's 6 per cent secured notes and 62 per cent of the debentures was announced at the hearing by counsel for the reorganization committee. The Bankers Trust company in the depository under the plan.

Kroger Boosts Dividend on Common to $1.60 Yearly

Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock outstanding, increasing the annual rate from $1 to $1.50. The dividend is payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 10. Regular quarterly dividends on preferred stocks were also voted.

CAR LOADINGS 12,086 ABOVE PREVIOUS WEEK

Total of 614,864 Is Below Last Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—Further improvement in the movement of trafic from levels prevailing earlier this month was recorded last week when loadings of the country's leading carriers increased 12,086 cars above the preceding week to a total of 614,864.

The report issued today by the American Railway association indicated the total was 41,516 cars below the preceding week, but 13,427 below but 112,952 cars in excess of the same 1932 week. On a percentage basis the increase in the week ended July 21 over the previous period amounted to 2 per cent and was slightly greater than the usual seasonal increase between those weeks. It represented a decline of 6.3 per cent from a year ago. For the previous week this year the reduction below a year ago was 7.8 per cent.

Live Stock, Grain, Coal Gain.

Live stock, grain, and grain products and coal accounted for the largest portion of the rise last week over the previous period.

Miscellaneous freight loaded during the week totaled 227,054 cars, a decrease of 517 under the preceding week, 10,483 below 1933 and 49,469 above the corresponding week in 1932. Less than car lot merchandise totaled 158,592 cars, an increase of 794 above the preceding week but 13,427 below 1933 and 8,904 below 1932.

Grain and grain products amounted to 47,138 cars, an increase of 4,070 above the preceding week, but 2,046 below 1933 and an increase of 6,952 above 1932. In the western districts grain and grain products totaled 28,263 cars, a decrease of 5,148 below 1933. Forest products aggregated 22,059 cars, an increase of 148 above the preceding week, a decrease of 7,147 below 1933 and an increase of 6,410 above 1932.

Coal Loadings Increased.

Ore loadings totaled 32,496, a decrease of 216 below the preceding week, an increase of 4,489 above 1933 and 25,874 above 1932. Coal loadings were 96,816 cars, an increase of 2,236 above the preceding week, a decrease of 21,434 below 1933 and an increase of 20,108 above 1932.

Coke totaled 4,502 cars, an increase of 86 above the preceding week, a decrease of 2,012 below 1933 and an increase of 2,031 above 1932. Live stock totaled 26,207 cars, an increase of 5,485 above the preceding week, 10,544 above 1933 and 12,012 above 1932. In the western districts live stock loadings totaled 22,600 cars, an increase of 10,927 above 1933.

BIG GROCERY CHAINS, WITH 14,640 STORES, TO FORM BUYING UNIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—One of the largest grocery chain group buying organizations in the country is in the process of organization, it was learned today. The chains control a total of 14,640 units, for which the new buying organization will function.

The stores involved are reported to be the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, Cincinnati, with 4,414 units; Safe Way Stores, Inc., with 3,289 units; First National Stores, Inc., with 2,756 stores; American Stores company, with 2,882 units, and the National Tea company, with 1,299 units. In addition there are three subsidiaries of the Safe Way stores believed interested in the proposition. They are the McNarr Sanitary Grocery stores, the Pay and Take It stores, and fifty-one Rose bakeries.

The buying organization, it is understood, will be the Food Distribution association, with headquarters in New York. Under the grocery codes, both pending and approved, discounts on quantities purchased are rigidly fixed. Organizations buying the largest quantities naturally receive the largest discounts.

"PENNSY" ROAD PROVIDES FOR U. S. PENSION ACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—The Pennsylvania railroad will allow employés to continue in service beyond the age of 65 under the option allowed by the railroad pension act, President Atterbury's office stated today in announcing plans for starting deductions from salaries to pay for pensions.

The road's own voluntary pension plan will be continued temporarily. Employés retired after Aug. 1, 1934, will receive, until further notice, allowances until Feb. 1, 1935, under the company's plan. Pensions that are now in effect will be continued until the government transfers them to the retirement system established by the recent act. No pensions to take effect after Aug. 1, 1934, will be authorized under the company's plan.

Commencing with the pay rolls for August, deductions of 2 per cent will be made semi-monthly from each officer's and employés compensation to pay the annuities prescribed by the act. The maximum contribution will be $6 per month. The company is required to contribute twice as much as the employé.

Plans for challenging the constitutionality of the act are being drafted by a special committee of railroad lawyers.

BREEDERS URGE U. S. NOT TO KILL BLOODED CATTLE

Kansas City, Mo., July 27.—(AP)—Seeking plans which would make it possible for them to withhold their pure bred cattle from sale to the government in its drouth relief and cattle purchasing program, live stock men from Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, and Illinois were assembled here today to present their problems to E. W. Sheets, head of the government's cattle buying program, who is en route here from Denver.

Among those on hand were Frank W. Harding, Chicago, executive secretary of the American Short Horn Breeders' association; W. H. Tomhave, Chicago, secretary of the American Aberdeen Angus Breeders' association, and R. J. Kinzer, secretary of the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' association.

The government in its cattle buying, the pure bred cattle producers point out, has been paying a maximum of $20 a head, with no stipulation made for dairy or pure bred cattle. The raisers of the pure bred live stock want the government to provide a plan whereby the producers can keep the blooded stock on the farms.

BANKS' POOL TO STEM 1931 CRISIS PAYS OFF NOTES

New York, July 27.—(AP)—An echo of those hectic days toward the end of 1931, when bank closings reached the proportions of a national crisis, was heard today with the announcement that the National Credit corporation was retiring the remaining $6,300,000 of its notes outstanding.

The corporation was one of the first of the big emergency credit organizations organized to stem the depression. It was formed in October, 1931, as a private organization to assist banks. By February, 1932, it had made over 1,200 advances to needy institutions and its loans had reached a peak of $188,000,000.

It was then virtually superceded by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, a much larger government organization, and its activities began to wane. When the corporation was formed it appealed to banks throughout the country to buy its notes to provide funds, and received total subscriptions of about $425,000,000. But it never called for payment of more than 30 per cent.

Reserve Bank Here O. K.'s Several Industrial Loans

The Chicago Federal Reserve bank gave tentative approval to several "direct loans to industry" yesterday, but did not close any loans. It was announced that a number of applications has been turned down, while the bank has its own appraiser investigating a number of others. Negotiations are necessarily slow, it was explained, because of the nature of the loans. It was understood that none of the twelve reserve banks has closed a deal to date.

UNITED AIRCRAFT REGISTERS STOCK OF 33 MILLIONS

Take Final Steps in Split Under Air Mail Order.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—The United Aircraft and Transport corporation, one of the largest aviation organizations in the country, filed with the federal trade commission today registrations to issue securities totaling $33,960,014 in three companies into which the existing company will be absorbed in the reorganization to meet "present and prospective" government requirements for air mail contracts.

Contracts held by the corporation for air mail carriage were canceled last February and suits are now pending to compel the postmaster general to reimburse the corporation for alleged losses suffered as a result of the cancelation.

To Seek Air Mail Contracts.

The registrations were filed by L. D. Weaver, counsel for the United Aircraft and Transport corporation, and indicated that the new air mail line would seek government air mail contracts in the future. Existing law and the permanent air mail law prohibit the award of contracts to companies that hold an interest in other aviation companies.

The three companies would be the United Aircraft corporation, to hold stock in manufacturing companies in the eastern part of the United States; United Air Lines Transport corporation, which would take over the old air mail transport lines, and the Boeing Airplane company, which would assume control of the Boeing airplane manufacturing plant at Seattle and other western companies.

Split Present Stock.

Holders of United Aircraft and Transport corporation stock would receive one share of United Aircraft corporation stock, one-half a share of United Air Lines Transport corporation stock, and one-fourth of a share of Boeing Airplane company stock for each share of the present stock now held.

"In view of the present uncertainties of the air mail situation, and especially in view of the impossibility of forecasting the eventual course of pending legislation with respect there to, it is considered essential that, for the purpose of assuring prompt compliance with legislative requirements, the stock of the new transport unit be temporarily deposited under a voting trust agreement which will be terminable as soon as the necessity therefor is removed," the application said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—The bond market today went far along the road to recovery from yesterday's sharp break. Talk of artificial support was credited to some extent, but in the main this rally relied for its momentum on purchases by traders and investors who regarded the market as a bargain and did not take the Austrian situation as seriously as they had twenty-four hours earlier. Volume dipped slightly to $18,814,000, par value, against $21,473,000 yesterday.

In the treasury group strength appeared where weakness was most pronounced yesterday. The 3s and 3¼s made sharp advances.

Federal Farm Loans Advance.

Federal Farm 3s advanced far enough to take some of the sting out of the allotment notices received this morning by subscribers to the $100,000,000 of 3s offered directly by the treasury. All subscribers had a loss at today's opening price. It was difficult to find a reason for bids at a point above even the price at which the 3s were selling when the offer was made.

High grade corporate bonds, while following the trend of treasury issues, did not make such rapid progress toward recovery. In most cases where major fractions were lost Thursday rallies today were limited to small fractions, but the small amount of buying necessary to bring this about was a tribute to the market's condition.

Foreign Selling Light.

Absence of any extraordinary volume of foreign selling had a reassuring effect. Most foreign issues brought out in dollar denominations and listed in this market have been largely repatriated and are still outstanding as dollar bonds. German issues recovered part of their Thursday losses, as also did Italian and other European issues.

Second grade domestic bonds were 1 to 3 points higher. International Telephone bonds sustained a substantial loss yesterday because of the company's large interest in European properties, but rallied sharply today.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 27.—(AP)—FLOUR—Prices were unchanged here today. Shipments were 21,893 brls. Pure bran was quoted at $21.00@21.25 and standard middling at $23.00@23.50.

Kelly-Springfield Tire.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me an analysis of Kelly-Springfield?—L. E.

Answer: Kelly-Springfield Tire company is one of the smaller units in the automobile tire industry, having a capacity of only about 15,000 tires a day in its Cumberland, Md., plant. Practically all sales are for replacement purposes.

Unprofitable operations over a long period of years culminated in installation of new management in 1931. Drastic economies were effected. Inventory losses and periodic price wars, however, prevented profitable operations. The company has operated at a profit in only three years since 1921.

Loss in 1933 was $962,000, of which more than 75 per cent was sustained in the first half, while price cutting was rampant. Firming of cotton and rubber prices in the second half obviated downward inventory adjustments for the first time in several years. In 1932 the company lost $666,000, against loss of $468,000 in 1931 and loss of $3,796,000 in 1930.

Current position at the close of 1933, with current assets almost ten times current liabilities, was strong. The company was well stocked with inventories. Funded debt, due 1942, totals $2,617,000. The common is preceded not only by this debt but by 49,952 shares of $6 preference stock on which accumulated unpaid dividends totaled $8.75 a share as of July 1, 1934.

Although conditions in the tire industry have improved, the company's record of operations is poor. Both the preferred and common are quite speculative.

National Security Life.

Investors' Guide: An article appeared on June 22 relative to the indictment of officials of National Security Life Insurance company of Beverly Hills, Cal. The company is still operating. I do not know if I should cancel my policies or what to do. The officials are charged with using the mails to defraud. How can a person protect himself?—Mrs. E. E. C.

Answer: We have never approved of the method of operation used by this association. It has always been our opinion that expenses of operation were excessive and that the policies offered were so hedged with loopholes that little real protection was offered. Furthermore, the association has followed the practice of operating in states in which it was not licensed to do business, thus making it difficult for beneficiaries to protest the disallowance of claims. It is our suggestion that you cancel the policy.

About the best method of assuring yourself that the organization with which you deal enjoys a good reputation is to check on it before making any commitment. We have warned inquirers against this association for years.

BORG-WARNER CO. MAY HAVE BEST YEAR SINCE '29

Earnings for Half Year Exceed 1933 Total.

Borg-Warner corporation and constituent companies showed a net increase of $1,950,528 for the six months ended June 30, according to a statement issued yesterday. This amounts to more than the total of $1,196,270 for the entire year of 1933 and almost six times the net of $335,171 for the first six months of 1933.

If earnings continue at their present rate the company would show larger profits in 1934 than in any year since 1929, when $7,669,795 was earned. In 1930 the net fell to $2,318,120. The latter earning was halved in 1931, while there was a deficit in 1932.

Directors Vote Dividends.

At the same time directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on preferred stock and 25 cents on common shares. Payment will be made Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 14. The action was taken yesterday because there will be no regular directors' meeting in August.

During the six months ended June 30 dividends of $114,881 were paid to preferred shareholders, leaving a balance of $1,835,647, or $1.595 on each of the 1,150,916 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with earnings of 18.7 cents a share for the same period in 1933.

Second Quarter Better.

Net income for the first quarter of 1934 was $863,921, or 70 cents a share —showing an acceleration of almost 20 cents in second quarter earnings on the common.

While no preferred dividends have been passed, only one 25 cent distribution was made on the common stock in 1933. The Oct. 1 payment will be the third this year on the common. Others were paid April 1 and July 1.

The company's balance sheet shows a steady increase in working capital from the $13,175,888 shown Dec. 31. On March 31 the figure was $13,912,459 and on June 30 it had risen to $14,-872,142.

STRONGER UNDERTONE IN COTTON FUTURES MARKET

Cotton showed a strong undertone from the start yesterday. Wall street and commission houses bought. Profit taking checked the upturn, but at the top prices showed an advance of around $1 per bale, with the close at net gains of 10 to 17 points in Chicago, and 15 to 19 points in other markets.

Unfavorable crop reports were received from Texas, despite heavy rains at a few points. Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points higher, with New Orleans 12.85 cents, Galveston and Houston 12.75 cents, and New York 12.95 cents per pound. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today, but the tone was steady and refiners seemed to be showing more interest at last paid prices, but offerings were light and generally held at higher levels. However, there were sales of 84,300 bags of Puerto Rican for early August shipment at 3.18c.

Except for a little irregularity at the outset sugar futures were higher on scattered covering and increased outside buying, which seemed to be influenced by the steadiness of spots.

Final prices were 2 to 4 points net higher. Sales were 11,800 tons. Prices:
